Roosevelt Rejects Chicago Diversion Plea

BORROW WATER NOW AND REPAY LATER, HE SAYS

Suggests Supreme Court Appeal.

President Roosevelt yesterday refused to act on Chicago's emergency request for increased lake diversion thru the Calumet Sag canal to prevent pollution of the city's water supply. The refusal was made known in a letter received at the office of Mayor Kelly, who is vacationing at Eagle River, Wis.

In the absence of Mayor Kelly, city officials concerned with the water problem were unwilling to comment on the President's action last night.

In his letter, the President suggested to the mayor that if pollution becomes serious enough, in the opinion of city officials, to require additional diversion, the sanitary district can divert additional amounts, provided that such "borrowing" be repaid before the end of the year, so that the city's total withdrawals of water balance at 1,500 cubic feet per second. This limit was set in a Supreme court decree of 1930.

Would Appeal to Court.

The President's letter continued: "Should such additional diversions become necessary, and reach amounts which threaten to leave the district without an adequate balance for normal requirements during the remainder of the present year, the way is open to the city to apply to the Supreme court for additional diversions. In view of the nature of your problem, I feel sure that the Supreme court would act promptly on the application."

The President based his action on a report made to him by Donald Nelson, chairman of the war production board, and Leland Olds, chairman of the federal power commission. The report was made at the President's request after receipt of a letter sent by Mayor Kelly to the White House June 25. The mayor visited Washington July 20 to speed action on the appeal.

Deny Any Emergency.

The report of Nelson and Olds to the President stated that "exercise of the emergency powers in this instance is not necessary or desirable" because of steps already taken to protect the city's water supply. The steps referred to included priorities granted by the WPB for the construction of additional water treatment facilities which the report said should be completed by 1944.

The report stated that facilities in Chicago had been sufficient to cope successfully with heavy pollution in 1941 and 1942. "Pollution so far this year, as reflected in Chicago's records, has been less serious than for a number of years, including the last two years," it said.

The highest coliform bacteria count this year was 3,500 per 100 cubic centimeters on Aug. 3, the latest date for which records are available, John R. Baylis, city water purification engineer, said yesterday. Last year the count was above 20,000 on eight days and exceeded 30,000 on eight days. Periods of high pollution, however, are in late Auguest and September, records for previous years indicate.

Seek State Aid in Appeal.

Legal assistants in the office of Corporation Council Barnet Hodes said yesterday that the city probably could not appeal to the Supreme court because it was not an original party to the suit requesting increased diversion. An appeal was taken to the high court by the state in 1940 and was refused. Sanitary district legal experts said that any further appeal would have to be instituted by the state. It was understood that city and state authorities were considering such a legal move.

Referring to the President's suggested plan of deficiency withdrawals now, to be offset later this year, Horace P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer of the sanitary district, said such budgeting of water has been utilized since January, 1939. The 1943 average flow per second already is 145 cubic feet over the limit, he revealed.

Writer Finds How AMGOT Rules in Sicily

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 11.—In the office of the mayor atop the municipal building of a Sicilian town they sat in a circle eating lime colored ice from little silver goblets. There was a rush of Sicilian words, then the slow voice of the young woman interpreter as the American major leaned forward attentively, then a pause and then some remarks by the major.

We were looking in on the operation of AMGOT [allied military government of occupied territory]. After the Americans had captured the town, which is the oldest in Sicily and the loveliest we had seen. It rested crownlike on the peak of a 2,500 foot mountain outside Trapani.

Actually AMGOT had been there only a few days when we visited the town of Erice where the Greeks once built a temple to Venus. Under AMGOT, military and civilian authority rested in the chunky figure of Maj. Matthew Sheehan of Boston and formerly of the customs border patrol.

"Mayor" of Six Towns.

Sheehan is now "mayor" of six towns in the district under another civil affairs officer who bosses the entire province of Trapani. Oddly enough among Sheehan's colleagues keeping the wheels of local government running in the area are two other Bostonians, Maj. Stephen Martin, former Massachusetts state policeman, and Lt. Edward Murphy, a graduate of Rhode Island State college.

"We were dining together the other evening," said Sheehan, patting his bald pate, "and I suddenly started laughing. 'Steve,' I said, 'I just happened to think that Jim Curley had to campaign hard to get elected mayor of one town—Boston. Here I am mayor of six towns and I've never been elected to anything.'"

To all outward appearances, at least, Sheehan is making headway on his job. Following the AMGOT formula, as soon as he reached the place he began calling in the various functionaries, such as the mayor, the chief of the carabinieri, the secretary of the town's commune, and the highest ranking member of the clergy. He then asked for the commune's books and balance sheet.

Balance, but No Cash.

"They showed," said Sheehan, "a balance of 700,000 lire. I asked where the cash was and no one seemed to know. Then the secretary started explaining the books to me and I found something strangely familiar. Various people had been dipping into certain funds, transferring them without notations to other departments.

"By the time the secretary had finished his explanation, the credit had resulted in a deficit of 900,000 lire. I told him a new era had arrived and that from now on there would be the strictest accounting for every dime."

After examining his books, Sheehan began his study of the person-

MUNDA BATTLE SCENE IS TOLD BY EYEWITNESS

Jap Planes, Dead Litter Area.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUNDA POINT AIR FIELD, New Georgia, Aug. 6 [Delayed]. — This strip of flat land clinging to the edge of the New Georgia jungle, captured by American forces after 37 days of fierce fighting, is a desolate expanse of bomb blasted rubble and shell torn coconut trees today. Army infantrymen and an occasional sailor or marine wander over it, poking their noses into a Jap dugout and crawling over the wrecked Jap planes in an untiring search for souvenirs of their enemies.

The smell of death is every vhere. Sprawling Jap bodies dot the field here and there, just the way they fell when a shell or bomb fragment caught them. Away from the field, farther east among the blasted trees of Lambeti plantation, the stench is thicker because there the Japs died by the hundreds in their deep coral covered pillboxes and cannily camouflaged fox holes. The count disclosed a total of 1,671 dead, which means at least another 3,000 were wounded, according to normal battle ratios.

Start in to Rebuild.

The field is a wreck today, pocked with bomb and shell craters, but the reconstruction experts already here are confident American planes will be landing a few days from now. Jap resistance in the immediate field area ended at 3 p. m. yesterday and within two hours hasty surveys of the extent of damage were completed and repair plans were given a final polish.

Already huge bulldozers and power shovels are chuffing and snorting their way thru the jungle toward the field and were beginning to repair the damage our guns and shells had wrought.

I am writing this story on the edge of the field after roaming alone over the area. Munda is a mute testimony to the terrific destruction wreaked by American war weapons.

A few feet from me is a huge crater. It is 60 feet across and 30 feet deep, and when that bomb hit the concussion alone killed every living thing—birds, lizards, insects, and Japs—for a hundred yards around. The engineers are setting up a water purification unit now in its lip to tap the rushing springs opened by the blast.

20 Wrecked Planes Near.

There are at least 20 wrecked Jap planes scattered around in all stages of destruction. There are both square and round wing tipped Zeros, Aichi 97 dive bombers, and one big transport plane.

The bombs and shells which poured down upon Munda week after week until 3 p. m. yesterday did good work among these planes—too good if you take the word of the sweating and struggling aviation crews trying to salvage them. There are planes without tails, planes without wings, planes standing on their noses, and planes blasted over hundreds of square feet by direct hits. Only one plane I saw was undamaged by the bombs or shells, and indirectly a bomb had accounted for that one, too. When landing, its pilot undershot the runway and put the plane with precision directly into a 30 foot bomb crater.

When I crawled down to look at its make, a filthy doughboy was tugging frantically at the instrument panel covered with Japanese characters. Another souvenir hunter no doubt.

Eat Heavily to Catch Up.

All around the field today are American soldiers, the men who took this pile of rubble from the Japs. Some were reading, others were washing their clothes in a shell crater, but most were eating or sleeping. They were eating hard and fast to make up for the month of field rations. Others were sleeping the sleep of utter exhaustion.

One youngster was sitting with

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUNS SET UP ON ANCIENT PLAINS OF ABRAHAM

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 11 (AP).—This old city on the St. Lawrence is better protected today than at any time in recent years.

An anti-aircraft battery has been set up on the Plains of Abraham, west of the Chateau Frontenac, conference headquarters. Artillerymen have set up tents on the plains—reported to be the first time in more than 100 years that troops have been billeted on that historic battleground.

It was understood additional military planes have been brought into the area by authorities charged with defense against possible enemy raids.

KIRK DECLARES CHILD FREEDOM HURTS SOLDIERS

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 11 (AP).—Men who as children were allowed much freedom and self-expression are no good as soldiers and are the first to crack under the strain, Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon general of the army, said today.

Gen. Kirk blamed the lack of improvement on upbringing of children on the modern school of thinking. He declared that mental training of children hasn't kept pace with modern developments in medicine, nutrition, and health.

"We are running into the same problem that Gen. John J. Pershing ran into in the last war in that we have too many men physically fit to fight but not mentally fit," Kirk said.

Plan Chicago Mail Delivery Cut Sept. 15

Mail deliveries will be cut to three a day in the loop and to two a day in other business-residential areas of Chicago on Sept. 15, Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen said yesterday. The loop now has four daily deliveries and the business-residential areas three.

Kruetgen said the changes would permit a reduction of 100 in the 15,000 man postoffice staff, which would serve to cut expenses as ordered by the bureau of the budget.

In the future residential areas may be cut to one delivery daily. Some reduction also may be made later in collection service.

Defer Delivery Half Hour.

Loop business houses will get their first delivery about a half hour later than usual when the curtailed service begins.

"The zone delivery system already is proving a boon," Kruetgen said. "By Christmas we hope it will be adopted so widely that it will be a big help in the holiday rush."

About one-fourth of the mail handled by the Chicago office is carrying zone delivery numbers. About two months ago the postoffices in all large cities asked that mail be addressed by zones within cities. Publishers, mail order houses and other firms with large mailing lists have added the zone numbers.

Helps in Distribution.

The zone system was started to facilitate distribution of mail. More than 1,900 of the Chicago postoffice employes are now in the army and navy and temporary employes require months to become adept mail handlers. If all mail carried city zone numbers, the letters could be sorted by inexperienced workers as fast as the men could read the numbers, the postmaster said.

A large amount of mail from soldiers overseas now comes addressed by zones, the postmaster's office said. The percentage is far greater than that among individual civilian letter writers, who have lagged in adopting the zone numbers.

Woman Buys Sun Glasses Just to Put on the Dog

Ely, Minn., Aug. 11 (AP).—An Ely merchant says a woman purchased a pair of sun glasses at his store, explaining that they were for her cocker spaniel, and proceeded to try them on the dog, which sat quietly as they were adjusted, and then strutted out of the store. She said the dog always rode in the car with his head out the window and she hoped the glasses would keep the pooch's eyes from watering in the wind.

BRAZIL TO START ARMY OF 120,000 MEN OVERSEAS SOON

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 11 (AP).—A Brazilian embassy spokesman estimated today that Brazil plans to send about five or six army divisions—approximately 120,000 men—overseas.

"It is most probable," he said, "that one division will sail before the end of October and others will follow immediately. Motorized divisions are now being actively trained with material supplied by the United States, which is more than sufficient for one full division."

TAKES RATTLER BITES TO SAVE BLIND MASTER

Anderson said today that while strolling on his family's ranch with the dog, he heard the warning buzz of a rattler. He pulled Lady's leash but she refused to move.

When help responded to his call, Anderson learned that Lady had stood directly between him and the snake and had allowed the reptile to strike her twice.

Nazis' Escape Rail Line Cut; Trap Closing

LONDON, Aug. 12—[Thursday]—(AP).—Russian forces advanced to within 7½ miles of Kharkov yesterday and shot a column southwest of the almost encircled city to cut one of the last German escape railways in a sudden wheeling movement that carried them to within 93 miles of the Dnieper river bend.

By cutting the Kharkov-Poltava railway 40 miles west of Kharkov, the Russians thus narrowed the escape gap from Kharkov to about 60 miles in the southwest, Moscow war bulletins indicated.

Capture of a hamlet only 7½ miles from Kharkov took the Russians nearest to the big base from the northeast. Russia's third largest city appeared doomed, for the Russians were 7½ miles away on the northeast, 20 miles on the east, 12 miles on the north, 30 miles on the west and 22 miles on the southeast.

Nazis Rush Up Reserves.

The Germans hurriedly brought up several tank divisions in an attempt to break the soviet drive on Kharkov, the Moscow midnight bulletin, recorded by the soviet monitor, said. But the Russians crashed thru, capturing 50 villages in a 12 mile advance.

One soviet unit burst into the large town of Akhtyrka, 42 miles south of Sumy, and captured it after heavy street fighting in which 1,600 Germans were killed and 36 tanks were destroyed. Akhtyrka is 65 miles northwest of Kharkov.

In cutting the Poltava railway, the Russians sent the Germans into headlong retreat. Moscow dispatches said Poltava itself was heavily battered Tuesday night by Russian bombers.

Other Russian Gains.

One column reached to within 40 miles of Bryansk by capturing 70 villages in a six mile advance. In this area, one Russian formation killed about 2,000 Germans. South of this area, near Kromi, 1,200 Germans were killed and 5,000 soviet citizens, about to be sent to Germany for forced labor, were rescued.

The southwestward wheeling movement by the Red army toward the Dnieper bend recalled the Russian strategy in last winter's offensive. Once more the Russians were pushing westward at such a rate that German forces in the Donetz basin faced the dilemma of remaining to be trapped or retreating to the Dnieper.

Reds Almost Ring Kharkov.

Most of Kharkov's communications have been severed by the concentric Russian attacks, pressing on the eastern Ukraine city from all directions except the narrow escape corridor to the southwest. Kharkov appeared doomed because the city of 800,000 has no natural defenses.

Red army groups also are within 14 miles of the important railway city of Sumy, 190 miles east of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev and just slightly smaller than Kharkov.

German dispatches described the fighting in Russia as "unsurpassed" and "never before witnessed on the eastern front."

Nazis Tell of Smolensk Drive.

They told of a drive from Vyazma to within 31 miles of Smolensk by masses of Russian tanks and infantry moving in from a broad front between Yartsevo, 31 miles northeast, and Kirov, 108 miles southwest of Smolensk, which is 230 miles southwest of Moscow in the Napoleonic corridor of retreat.

The Russians made no mention of this fighting, but the Germans said it "equals in fierceness the soviet onslaught against Kharkov."

"Outside of a few dents of a local nature, the front remains firmly in German hands," the Berlin war bulletin said of the action before Smolensk. Propaganda broadcasts said: "At some points the Russians succeeded in penetrating into our positions, but these points were immediately sealed up."

The German war report said "heavy, fluctuating fighting is going on" in the Belgorod area north and northeast of Kharkov. It also reported weak Russian attacks in the Kuban around Novorossisk, on the Mius river in the Donetz basin and in the Leningrad area.

CHURCHILL AND F. D. R. WILL MAP WAR AT QUEBEC

Date of Parley Not Made Public.

Goes Thru Montreal

MONTREAL, Que., Aug. 11 (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill passed thru Montreal tonight from Quebec en route to an unannounced destination. A six car special train carrying the prime minister and his party was given right-of-way from Quebec and stopped for 10 minutes at Park avenue station in Montreal.

While engines were changed, Churchill and his daughter, Subaltern Mary Churchill, came out and stood on the lower steps of their car for a minute. It was not publicly known that the prime minister would be passing thru Montreal and there was no crowd.

QUEBEC, Aug. 11 (AP).—President Roosevelt will meet Prime Minister Churchill here to draft the next steps in the war, Canadian officials announced today. The date will be divulged later.

As in the past, parleys are expected to take place in an atmosphere of utmost secrecy, to be climaxed by a joint press conference at which the two leaders will disclose whatever they can of the decisions reached.

Preliminary discussions involving presentation of American views on the course of the war already are under way, however. Numerous American army and navy officers are to be seen around the storied Citadel and the Chateau Frontenac, headquarters of the British and Canadian conferees. American trucks, cars, and jeeps roll thru the hilly streets of Quebec.

Two Cabinets Meet.

American chiefs of staff will confer with the British chiefs of staff, whom Churchill brought along when he arrived in Quebec yesterday. Since then, Churchill and Prime Minister Mackenzie King of Canada, and the British and Canadian staff chiefs have been in conferences forming a significant introduction to the Anglo-American talks.

Churchill and Mackenzie King spent three hours today at a joint session of the British war cabinet and the war committee of the Canadian cabinet, described by Canadian officials as unique in the annals of the British dominions.

The two prime ministers said in a statement afterward: "The field of the war was surveyed and questions of special joint interest to the two governments were discussed. A further joint session will be held at a later date."

Bigger Canadian Role.

The British were represented by Churchill, who also is minister of defense, and John Anderson, lord president of the council.

The Canadian war committee is made up of T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources; Louis St. Laurent, justice; J. L. Ralston, national defense; C. G. Power, air; J. L. Ilsley, finance; Angus L. Macdonald, navy; C. D. Howe, munitions and supply; and G. E. Michaud, transport.

The undersecretary of state for external affairs, N. A. Robertson, and the secretary of the cabinet war committee, A. D. P. Heeny, were also present.

The emphasis on British and Canadian war aims was perhaps indicative of a major role for dominion troops when allied forces burst into the Italian boot.

May Recognize French.

The fact that the Roosevelt-Churchill deliberations will take place in this city with its preponderantly French population, makes it possible that the two statesmen would use Quebec as the setting for an announcement that Britain and the United States would recognize the French committee for national liberation as the de facto government of France.

Following the war cabinet-war committee meeting, Churchill and Mackenzie King lunched in private, then set out on a round of official protocol visits.

ALLIES SMASH NEAR 'HEART' OF SICILY DEFENSES

Yanks and British Gain on Flanks of Randazzo.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 11 (AP).—British and American forces, knifing thru both Sicilian coastal flanks, put the heart of German resistance at Randazzo under increasing pressure today.

While British naval units in a foray up the coast of Italy raked targets at the edge of the Bay of Naples, British Tommies fought thru the town of Guardia [Giarre], seven miles north of Acireale on the east coast of Sicily, and advanced almost to Riposto.

The vanguard of the British 8th army thus drew up to a line directly east of Mount Etna's summit and gained its first glimpse of Italy's shoreline after battling its way from Egypt. Riposto is nine miles south of Taormina, an axis evacuation base, and less than 30 miles from Italy.

The American 7th army was reported to have made gains in the battle for Cape Orlando, about 40 miles west of Messina, after firmly establishing itself on the bridgehead won by seaborne infantrymen two days ago.

The enemy's small boat traffic across the narrow Strait of Messina increased and indications of the gathering of an evacuation fleet multiplied. These signs caused the allied air forces to hurl greater air armadas into making any Sicilian Dunkirk a costly endeavor.

Six Miles from Randazzo.

The battle for Randazzo, north of Mount Etna, grew in intensity as the stubborn enemy burrowed into the ruins of that central sector key point, apparently determined to make it a Verdun.

American troops threw themselves across mountain rivers in the face of raking artillery fire and with their British and Canadian allies charged to within about six miles of their objective.

German losses were reported by allied spokesmen to have been extra high because of their grim resistance against overwhelming odds.

At Randazzo, because of its domination of the key roads, the Germans were making the battle one of the fiercest in Sicily. That this center of resistance might be weakening, however, was indicated by allied airmen who said the fierce anti-aircraft fire there had dwindled to almost nothing.

Axis Gathers Fleet of Barges.

The enemy was reported by aerial reconnaissance to have concentrated more than 100 barges and armored ferries along the Italian "toe." Some forces were known to have been removed already from Taormina on the east coast and Falcone on the north coast.

Twenty barges and a merchant ship were damaged near Milazzo and a motor torpedo boat and three smaller vessels sunk near the toe of Italy by allied aircraft.

Bombers and fighter bombers swept the coastal roads and the inner highway running from Cape Orlando thru Floresta, Randazzo, and Linguaglossa to Taormina, creating traffic jams at Falcone, Patti, and other places, and causing a big explosion at Barcellona. Infantry and artillery positions at Novaro also were hit hard.

The storm of aerial fire also was carried to the toe of Italy, where targets included Palmi, Locri, Sombasi, Marina di Catanzaro, Cape Spartivento, and Bovalini.

ALLIED PLANES AND TEAMWORK PUT AXIS ON RUN

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 11.—German forces are slowly being pushed back along the last miles of Sicily's northeastern tip, as a result of combined operations. In this connection, day and night air bombing and strafing attacks are playing a more and more important role.

Yesterday, for example, the allied air forces shifted from heavy bombers to attacks by light bombers, dive bombers and strafing planes. Up and down the two coastal roads they went like hounds after a rabbit, smashing up trucks, road intersections and bridges, and putting enemy communications and supplies into snarls and steadily wearing down the nerves of the German soldiers with incessant gunfire and explosives from the skies.

Attack Boat Concentrations.

One of the planes' objectives lately has been the small coves along the northeastern coast and in the Messina Straits. There the enemy has been trying to hide small boats, barges and ferries either to shuttle in troops and equipment by night or to evacuate them. These small craft are hard to find, but two days ago Warhawks while on such a hunt sank or damaged eight barges and ferries, the latter being heavily armored vessels mounting two 88 mm. anti-aircraft guns. It was in ferries of this type that Col. Gen. Jurgen von Arnim's men tried to run the gantlet from Cape Bon to Italy last spring.

Altho as yet there seems to be no evidence the Germans plan a large scale evacuation, it is possible that the enemy's boats, making the run across the straits, are beginning to carry some second line troops, heavy artillery, and anti-aircraft guns.

These night running boats come under attack every 24 hours by British bombers. But more spectacular than this work has been the accomplishment of fighters and other bombers in draining off the life blood of the Luftwaffe [German air force], both in ships and pilots.

Recover 999 Axis Planes.

Since the day the invasion started, a month ago yesterday, the allied air forces have destroyed 422 enemy planes at a cost of 181 of our own.

In addition, 999 axis aircraft have been recovered from captured Sicilian airdromes. Included in the booty were 232 Messerschmitt 190s. Many of the planes had been wrecked when found, but still were serviceable and were repaired and flown to salvage centers, it was officially announced.

At Trapani's Milo airdrome, to take only one, the allies found 124 planes. They had been hidden in olive groves and behind special bombproof shelters, but the allies' bombs found them despite their cover.

Near this air field one stick of heavy bombs had been dropped straight down the middle of the tracks in a railway yard. Railroad cars and locomotives had been smashed and hurled 200 yards. But the best sight was car after car loaded with nearly 100 assembled planes.

BURGLARS GET 100 KEYS.

Burglars took a bunch of 100 keys to stores, apartments and garages operated by A. Metz, 8056 Harper avenue, from his office in a gasoline station at 5610 Harper avenue, the attendant, Frank Crosby, reported to police yesterday.

CELLER CHARGES ANGLO-U. S. PACT AGAINST ZIONISM

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Rep. Emanuel Celler [D., N. Y.] said tonight he was informed by "thoroly reliable sources" that the British foreign office and the state department will issue a joint statement shortly "silencing all discussion on the Arabian-Jewish question in Palestine."

"It will, in effect, be an implied but nonetheless conclusive acceptance of the MacDonald white paper of 1939 which decreed that no more than 75,000 Jews will be admitted to Palestine for a five year period," Celler said in a statement.

Declaring that the announcement will "smash the hopes of those who dared look towards Palestine as the one realistic approach to the solution of the homelessness of a driven people," he added that it also would spell the doom of the Zionist cause.

"Even more alarming," Celler remarked, "is the information that the statement will be issued with the knowledge and consent of the President."

Chicagoan Finds Yankee World War Vet in Sicily

NEAR RANDAZZO, Sicily, Aug. 10 [Delayed]—(AP).—German soldiers have been looting Italian farms and homes as they withdraw in the face of the American-British drive on Randazzo. One farmer told Lt. John O'Hare of 7343 Phillips avenue, Chicago, that 200 Nazi troops robbed him of every moveable possession. The farmer added: "Boy, am I glad to see you Americans! You can have anything I've got left. I was in the American army in the World war and lived in the United States 18 years before I came here."

FINDS FASCISM IN SICILY NOW DEAD AS A DODO

Islanders Look to U. S. for New Life.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 11.—If the average Sicilian can be believed, fascism is as dead as a dodo on the mountainous island. Never thoroly Italianized, the Sicilian found nothing good in the totalitarian state or Mussolini. Now he hopes for independence or a protectorate under the Americans or British.

While with the United States army in Sicily, this correspondent found renunciation of everything connected with fascism one of the most outstanding features of life in Sicily under the allied occupation.

"We can talk again. Do you Americans know what that means? We can talk again. My friend over there in the barber shop and I can tell each other publicly now what we were thinking about those unspeakable Fascists. Before we hardly dared whisper it in our homes. In public, if we wanted to continue in business or live somewhat peacefully, we had to shout for Mussolini.

Forced to Cheer.

"We had to bray like mules whenever party leaders appeared. We had to cheer for an axis we hated, for Germans we hated, for a war we hated. We had to see our young men going off to Ethiopia, to France, to Russia, to Africa, and we had to cheer when our hearts were bitter."

There were many like him and you found others, too, who had been Fascists, but who were repudiating their party affiliation and shouting for the allies. But these got short shrift from their countrymen, who were eager to denounce them to the American authorities.

There were others, quieter ones, too, like Tony the grocer, in Çefalu, on the northern coast. Tony had been to the United States seven times and each time had opened a fruit stand in Chicago, Pittsburgh, or Brooklyn. Tony had enjoyed life in the United States and had no use for the pro-Fascists.

They Taxed and Taxed.

"They taxed and taxed," he told us. "We in the towns got it worse than any one else. Fascists tried paying the farmers a subsidy to make them produce more and keep the price of bread down. But prices were too high. They had a big tariff on all manufactured imports from Italy, so that everything we bought cost too much.

"They had taxes between provinces which made it hard to exchange goods. But the tax we hated most of all was the party tax, which did nothing for the people, but only went to the party man."

The Fascist party in Sicily numbered in the millions, but it was apparent from questioning natives and talking with army and civil affairs authorities that the majority joined only to divert policemen from their shops daily and to avoid being fined for violations of every minor ordinance.

Fascists Drain Sicily.

Tony and others told how the war had drained Italy. The country was bled white of its grains, garden produce, wines, and meat. Now, American authorities must ration bread, the staple diet of all Sicilians, while they seek to prevent hoarding among farmers.

At first, many citizens admitted, fascism attracted those who believed Mussolini's bold words of a new and better world for Italians. But his stirring phrases, plastered on every wall, soon became subject to sly Latin quips.

Just what Sicily wants and what it will get remain undisclosed. Those Sicilian nobles and landowners still retaining some wealth prefer an enlightened monarchy under the king or a republic. There also is a vigorous independence movement and great masses have faith that American will figure out some way to let them live quietly for themselves.

BILLION DOLLAR BLUEPRINT FOR 1944 FOOD PLAN

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The administration may ask congress, when it returns from recess in September, for at least a billion dollars to finance the 1944 war food program, which is expected to set production goals considerably higher than this year's prospective record output.

Marvin Jones.

Associates of Food Administrator Marvin Jones said that tentative recommendations for funds were being prepared. Congress would be asked to grant the Commodity Credit corporation authority to borrow the necessary funds from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The money would be used largely to support farm prices at levels designed to encourage farmers to produce to the limit of their resources. Because production costs have advanced, and congress has eliminated AAA benefit payments for 1944, it may be necessary, food officials said, to raise the prices of some commodities to assure farmers of a sufficient return.

NAZIS REPORTED READY TO GRAB DEFEATED ITALY

'Ally' Stops Delivery of Supplies to Reich.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 11.—German forces in northern Italy are poised for a coup de grace should Italy do more than flirt with "modified Anglo-American terms" for capitulation, which the press of the peninsula today hints will issue from the impending Roosevelt-Churchill talks.

While official Italy affected to ignore this situation, Italo-German "friendship" under the terms of the axis pact wobbled still more when the minister of commerce ordered the "temporary" suspension of all further deliveries of war materials and foodstuffs to the reich, as well as the curtailment of deliveries of certain essential foodstuffs to Nazi forces in northern Italy.

Slows Down Production.

Simultaneously General Umberto Favagrossa, minister of war production, decreed a slow down for all Italian industry from its previous peak of a 12 hour seven day week to an eight hour day six days a week with salaries remaining unchanged. A semi-official commentary accompanying the decree announced it should be considered "the first of other impending measures to place Italian economy back on a peace time basis."

Competent observers here, however, incline to the belief that in this statement the general gave only part of the reasons which called for his unexpected gesture toward overworked Italian factory hands. Another far more important one is seen in the 82 per cent German deficit of coal deliveries during the last three months which were completely stopped following the ousting of the Fascist regime. Usually reliable sources at the time added that such deliveries still en route but outside the peninsula were recalled to the reich, since when their flow southward has been "interrupted" by shipments of war material apparently destined for the German forces.

Watch Parley Closely.

Inside the peninsula much attention is being focused on possible developments of the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting, which is headlined in today's press. Editorialists working under Badoglio censorship—which is showing itself every bit the equal of the Fascist—refrain from direct comment on the meetings, but find repeated occasions to hint to their readers that "further delay in accepting intolerable terms at present offered by the allies is bound to bear fruit from the outcome of conferences either under way or imminent."

And one of these conferences it develops from Vatican sources tonight is almost certainly still continuing in the Vatican. A semi-official Catholic spokesman announced "it is clear that the pontiff will continue to exert himself to the utmost to better the present intolerable situation. Pius XII. is maintaining close contact with Anglo-American and other belligerent diplomatic missions accredited to the Vatican."

HEART OF PARIS GIANT FORTRESS, SWISS REPORT

BERNE, Switzerland, Aug. 11 (AP).—The Tribune de Geneve reported today that the Marine Ministry building and several streets in the heart of Paris have been converted into a fortress with numerous cement blockhouses and connecting tunnels.

Many streets have been completely forbidden to civilians, the newspaper said. Many houses have been evacuated. It added that Kleber avenue is a network of fortifications.

An entire quarter of the city was said to have been made a defense line, including a four story underground tunnel. Connections are made partly by a small gauge underground railroad.

REPORTER SITS IN ON AMGOT'S RULE OF SICILY

U. S. Major Is 'Mayor' of Six Towns.

alities involved. Before taking over Erice, he had already been advised of the names of some of the leading Fascists, most of whom had flown the coop as soon as the Americans landed, flying back to Italy with many of the Italian naval officers who had abandoned their men on leave in the port, preferring flight to caring for them. But Sheehan did find some Fascist party men still in the town.

"If you just let them talk long enough in Erice, you soon find out everything you want to know," he commented. "The town itself never had strong Fascist sympathies so that no one is backward about denouncing a Fascist who had made life miserable for him.

Point 'Em Out in Meeting.

"They get up in these meetings and point out some one and say that man says he is not a Fascist, but we know him. He did such and such or prevented me from doing business in such and such a manner."

Sheehan believes from his contact with the natives of the Trapani region that scarcely 1 per cent were Fascists at heart, altho the great majority thru fear had their names on the party rolls. It was easier to pay lip service and to contribute to the party funds than always to be in trouble with the authorities.

"The other day the secretary came to me and said the mayor and the townspeople wanted to take down a particularly obnoxious Mussolini slogan from a white wall in the square where it confronted them all every day," he said. "I told them that was the business of the mayor and not mine. If he wanted it down, it was up to him to do it. Almost the whole town gathered around while the mayor supervised the workmen removing Mr. Big's oratory."

The policy of AMGOT is similar to that of the counter-intelligence corps, or the CIC as it is known, whose men usually are the first into a town after the combat troops and who run the show until AMGOT arrives. Both want to rid the place of Fascists, but sometimes conflict arises when CIC fills the jails with local party men and AMGOT is forced to release some to help run the town.

Rest Don't Like It.

This has caused some resentment among certain sections of the population, principally in the cities, where the Socialists and kindred radical groups helped keep alive underground resistance to Mussolini. It is explained to them that whatever use AMGOT makes of men known as Fascists is strictly a matter of expediency until others can be found who know the technique of communal management.

"Fortunately I have had little trouble in my towns," said Sheehan. "We have had to use a couple of sour apples, but it won't be for long. These people here seem to realize we are trying to do the best job possible under the worst circumstances. They are so happy the Americans are here that most of them are willing to overlook the times when circumstances make us use some party man."

One of the biggest problems facing Sheehan and other AMGOT officials is the matter of food for the natives. They have been on short rations for years, altho Sicily ordinarily would produce large crops. Wheaten bread is their staple diet, and in the cities there already have been minor riots when bread was offered for sale. Ordinarily Sicily exports certain types of wheat and imports others, usually from Africa. This year her crop was insufficient to meet local needs, while rust so affected North African wheat that AMGOT will be unable to bring any in from that continent.

Hoarding a Problem.

Coupled with the poor crops in Sicily, AMGOT also is faced with the problem of hoarding, one which seems to exist in almost every country. AMGOT officers are now making a canvass of rural areas, trying to locate wheat which farmers are hiding while they wait for higher prices. Some even bury it in the ground.

"I am trying," said Sheehan, "to get more equitable distribution of the supplies which are available. Those towns which have plenty will have to share with the others. And tomorrow I am putting out a decree which should have some effect on the hoarders.

"It will say that a farmer found to have grain after telling us he has none will be subject to trial before a military tribunal. I think our hoarding problem will grow less."

Oh, Yeah?

HULL UNAWARE OF REPORTS ON WELLES QUITTING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—Reports that Sumner Welles would shortly leave his post as undersecretary of state went without a flat denial in the capital today.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, reportedly the victor in a long feud with his chief aid, said he knew nothing about published reports that Welles would be given a roving mission on war and post-war problems by the President. He dismissed the reports as recurrences of similar rumors in recent years, which have been denied.

Informed sources said Hull's statement indicated he had not been informed by the President on the discussions to shift Welles on the assumption Hull would welcome the removal. Evidently, it was said, the matter was discussed by the President and Welles.

Welles later said that Hull's statement spoke for itself and emphasized that he had no plans at the moment. He repeated the phrase "at the moment" several times using it once when he said he had no particular plans to announce "for the moment" on the impending return of Norman Armour, ambassador to Argentina, reported slated to succeed Welles as undersecretary.

ARMY TO FREE 4,500 SOLDIERS FOR MINE WORK

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 [Special].—An official of the war production board said the army will start tomorrow furloughing 4,500 soldiers to send them into certain metal and mineral mines greatly in need of workers.

This is the second time the army has ordered the release of men for the mines, 4,200 having been so furloughed about a year ago.

Assignment of the soldier workers to about 100 mines the WPB considers most essential will be done under a priority system, inaugurated in June, which will fill man power demands in the order of their importance.

CONTACT SCORE WHO BAILED OUT IN BURMA WILDS

'All Comfortable'; Told to Await Rescuers.

NEW DELHI, India, Aug. 11 (AP).—An American officer, returning from the American base in Assam, India, reported today that two-way ground contact had been made with the American and Chinese passengers and crew who parachuted from a transport plane into uncharted territory in some of the wildest country of northern Burma Aug. 2. He said all were comfortable.

By an undisclosed method, written messages passing thru the hands of native runners and other secret means have already arrived at the base. The entire party was ordered to remain in the same location until a rescue mission arrives. American authorities in Assam estimated it may take two or three months before the stranded party can be returned.

20 Bailed Out.

Among the group who bailed out of their plane when engine trouble developed were 20 of the 21 passengers and crew. They included William L. Stanton, a member of the United States board of economic warfare, John Davies Jr., second secretary of the American embassy in Chungking, China, and Eric Sevareid of the Columbia Broadcasting system. They were enroute to China from India.

Plans for rescue by airplane were abandoned after army planes reported no level area within 50 miles of the party. A land rescue group which started out four days ago penetrated only a few miles into the jungle. This party was composed of 30 native scouts, hillmen whose fathers were headhunters, a British army officer, a British political officer stationed in the district next to the uncharted section of Burma in which the plane party is stranded, and an American doctor.

Planes Drop Food.

Guns, ammunition, food, and hundreds of pounds of salt were included among items dropped to the men on the ground by planes. Earlier, a physician and two airforce men were dropped from a rescue plane with medical supplies for injured members of the party. The three were Col. Don Fliekinger, Long Beach, Cal.; Sgt. Richard S. Passey of Provo, Utah, and Corp. William G. McKenzie of Detroit, Mich.

U. S. PLANES SMASH AT NORTH'N KURILES, JAPAN'S RADIO SAYS

New York, Aug. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—A Japanese broadcast recorded today by the federal communications commission said "several" American airplanes had raided the "northern section" of the Kurile Islands—the long string of islands immediately north of Japan proper.

The transmission said Japanese anti-aircraft units had "promptly repulsed" the American attackers.

JAN VALTIN, ONCE ORDERED OUT OF U. S., IS DRAFTED

Bethel, Conn., Aug. 11 (AP).—Richard Julius Herman Krebs, who, under the pen name of Jan Valtin, wrote the best seller, "Out of the Night," has been ordered to report for military service Aug. 26 at Camp Upton, Long Island, N. Y.

Authorities connected with the selective service board in Bethel, Krebs' home, said today that he had passed his physical examination 10 days ago.

Krebs, whose book dealt with his adventures both as an agent of the Russian secret police and the German gestapo, was arrested in November, 1942, by the United States immigration and naturalization service, charged with alleged violations of the 1917 and 1924 immigration acts.

The warrant on which he was arrested ordered his deportation to Germany but he was released from Ellis island on parole and later ordered to report to his draft board.

1ST AIR FORCE DISTRICT UNDER NEW COMMAND

Succeeding Maj. Gen. Junius W. Jones, who was transferred, Gen. Fickel came here from Tulsa, Okla., where he was commanding general of the 3d district, AAFTTC.

With his arrival here, it was announced that part of his old district had been incorporated into his new district. Among the large installations transferred from the 3d district to the 1st are Keesler field, Miss., and Gulfport, Miss.

The 1st district, an announcement said, now comprises all of the Atlantic seaboard and gulf states except Florida and Texas.

U. S. ENGINEERS BUILD MIRACLE ROAD IN 3 DAYS

WITH THE AMERICAN 7TH ARMY IN NORTHERN SICILY, Aug. 9 [Delayed]—(AP)—American combat engineers helped to crack the German defenses at the Cesaro gateway to Randazzo by the almost miraculous feat of building a 12 mile supply road in three days thru terrain that would bow the legs of a mountain goat.

"There was no road—not even a footpath—in the area we wanted to traverse, and when we finished it, the road crossed 13 mountains with a number of peaks in between," said Capt. Alex T. Forrest of McKeesport, Pa. "We also had to cross a river bed every half mile or so."

Cut Main Axis Route.

It was necessary to have a road from near Capizzi to Mount Camelato, west of Cesaro, in order to flank the town and cut the main axis route from Cesaro to San Agata on the northern coast.

"First we sent wrecking parties to survey possible routes," Forrest said. After one was decided upon, scouting patrols were dispatched on the flanks to guard us from enemy patrols. Then we had a mine detecting party sweep the route clear. We put two big bulldozers to work, one to break a rough road thru by knocking down trees and pushing big boulders aside.

"After that we put two lighter bulldozers out to dress up the road. Each bulldozer was protected by armored half-tracks to keep off enemy planes. Pick and shovel crews helped out.

"We were ahead of the infantry at one point and their supply vehicles were following right on our tail all the way, loaded with ammunition, food, and water. One of our big problems was to get gasoline and Diesel oil for the bulldozers. We fixed this by establishing fuel dumps along the way as the road grew.

"We went thru wheat fields, and wooded areas. To handle big boulders we had to 'mudcap' them—that is blow them up by putting some explosive on the outside of the rock and covering it with mud. The blast cracks the boulder.

"Three days ago only a goat or a mule could have gone over that route—and now we have two and one-half ton trucks rolling over it. As soon as we were able to put our military traffic in from the north the Germans had to pull out of Cesaro."

Second Biggest Job.

But Forrest said that this 12 mile road was only their "second biggest job."

"We built one 35 miles long in the Sedjenane valley area during our drive on Bizerte in the Tunisian campaign," he smiled, "and afterwards Gen. Giraud said 'Those crazy American engineers—they could build a two lane highway right into the front lines.' That was the best compliment we ever received."

SOUTH AFRICA BANS ARGENTINE IMPORTS ON 'AXIS MADE' PLEA

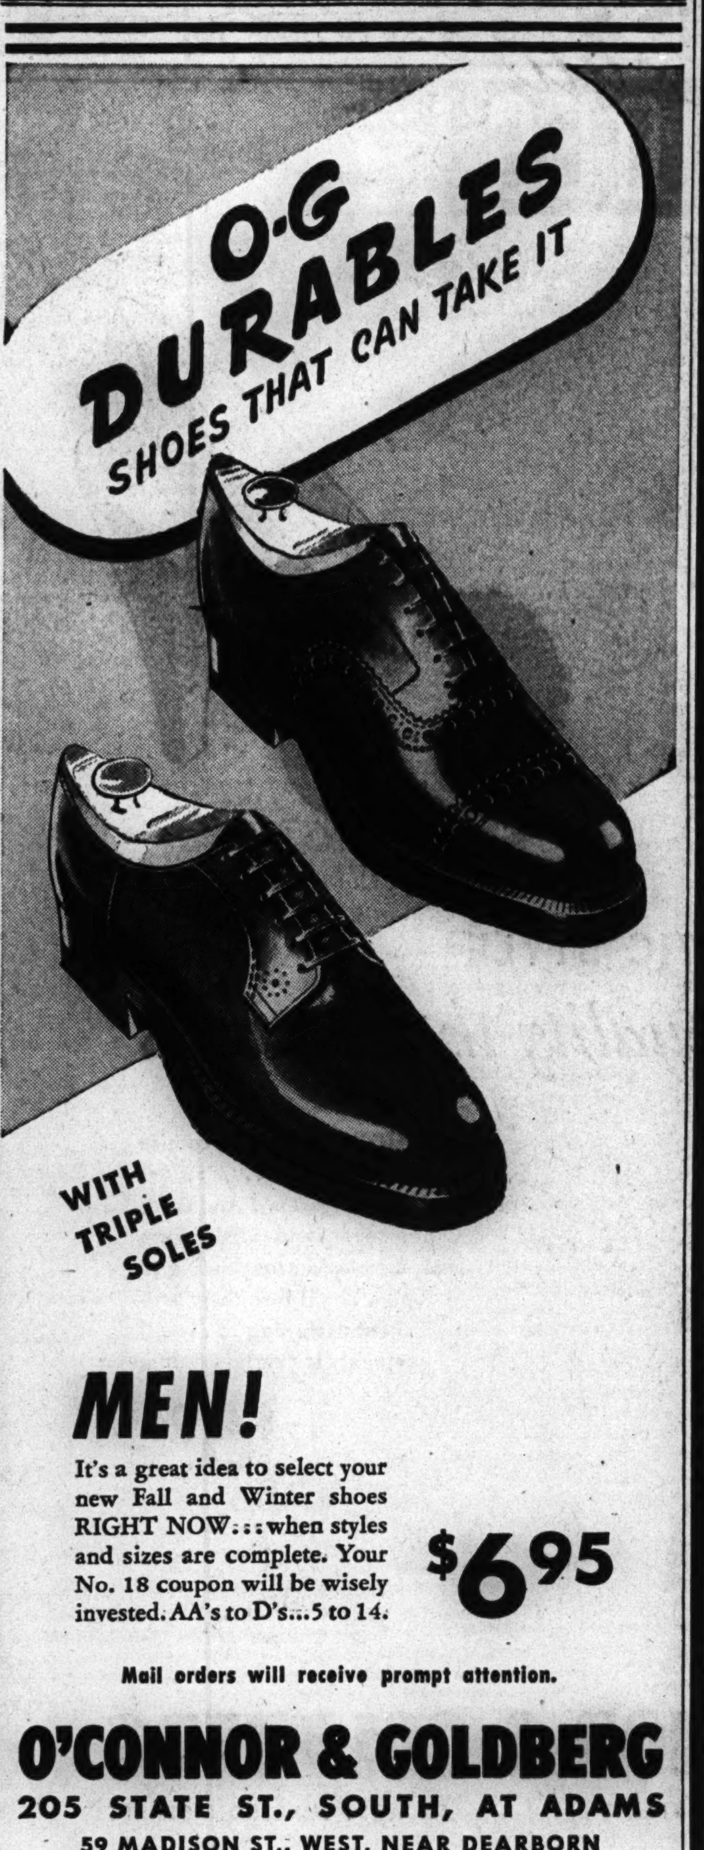
PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, Aug. 11 (AP).—A government ban was placed today on permits for importation of Argentine goods after it was charged that some articles imported from Argentina were made in German occupied Holland and in Japan.

Business men have reported that in some instances goods labeled "Made in Argentina" bore hidden labels indicating they were manufactured in Holland.

Merchants declared that for months "stocks of rubbish goods at exorbitant prices have been pouring in from Argentina." They cited calico, a well known brand of which has been selling at the controled price of 30 cents a yard, while an "inferior" Argentine product retailed at from 50 cents to 70 cents.

HITS NEW DEAL AGENCIES AS 4TH TERM DEVICES

The office of war information, office of civilian defense and other federal agencies created by the New Deal are mechanisms for the election of President Roosevelt for a fourth term, Rep. Fred E. Busbey [R., 3d], told 150 members of the Cook county council of the Illinois Republican Service Men's league in the Hotel Sherman last night. The OWI was the particular target of the congressman's attack.



Dreams do Come True

Says D. L. Toffenetti

MANY years ago, as a young apprentice to the restaurant field, I dreamed bold dreams of owning a restaurant—even several of them. They would be beautiful, efficient, restful dining palaces where patrons would be served by happy, pleasant men and women; where soothing music would add to the enjoyment of delicious, carefully-prepared foods; where the tempting menu would offer wide selection and the prices would be very mild.

Do dreams come true? Of course they do! Today the seven Toffenetti-Triangle Restaurants in Chicago's loop and the wonderful Toffenetti Restaurant on Times Square in New York City prove that dreams do come true.

Come in to a Toffenetti-Triangle Restaurant today and learn what real dining pleasure means. Here you can enjoy a sandwich or a feast at counters or at tables, night or day. Here your heart will sing the praises of the skilled chef's talents and the waitresses' friendly smiles.

You'll enjoy dining with us, we know.

ILLINOIS FLYER OF 16 BROUGHT HOME FROM WAR

After 22 Combat Trips, He's Bit Annoyed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11—Between Dec. 30, 1942, and June 6, 1943, Staff Sgt. Clifford R. Wherley of Elmwood, Ill., climbed into the top turret of a B-26 in Africa and roared away on combat missions 22 times—a man among men.

Only one man in the outfit, whose home is near Elmwood, knew the youthful gunner's actual age—knew that he had only shaved a few times in his life, and then needlessly; that when he enlisted he wasn't even old enough to leave a "girl" behind; that on May 28 of this year Clifford celebrated his 16th birthday on a mission over Castelvetrano and that he was 14 when he enlisted. That one man helped Wherley keep his secret.

But Staff Sgt. Wherlye, who will be in Chicago en route to his home in a few days and will visit THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE's air power show couldn't stay that lucky. His 36 year old mother, who had been dissuaded several times while Wherley was training in this country from disclosing his actual age, was worried about her son overseas.

Mother Finally Tells.

Finally her concern for him triumphed over her pride in his accomplishments. She wrote the war department and forwarded the evidence of Clifford's age. Now Sgt. Wherley has only a few more days as a soldier.

Today Wherley, wearing his gunner's wings and ribbons testifying to possession of the air medal and three oak leaf clusters, visited Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commander of the air forces, and held a press conference to tell his story. In a few days he will be honorably discharged because of his age, and, as a civilian, will go to work as an inspector in a plant which manufactures the Martin B-26 Marauders which he loves.

Sgt. Wherley has had more than 100 hours of combat missions as a gunner in two of these planes, the "Coughin' Coffin" and the "Thunder," the latter of which he calls "my ship."

Bombed Pantelleria.

Names made famous in the African campaign—Sousse, Gabes, Tunis, Sardinia, Mateur, Bizerte, Palermo—run thru the stories Sgt. Wherley can tell. His plane was in the van of those which paved the way for the African victory and for the Italian campaign. In fact, the last mission Sgt. Wherley engaged in was the bombing of Pantelleria a few days before that island fell. That mission was also only a few days before the war department's letter ordering Wherley's return to this country was received in Africa.

He is no bragging youth; he is honestly chagrined at being ousted from the air force. He takes his service in Africa as a matter of course and seems to be more proud of the fact that Gen. James Doolittle [a hero who ranks along with Sgt. Alvin York to Clifford] was along on three of the missions, than the fact that he, Wherley, was there.

Sgt. Wherley takes credit for only one unassisted score against a German plane—a Messerschmitt, but when pressed he admitted that he had poured slugs into a lot of other airplanes which never flew again.

Wherley will visit Chicago in a few days, and then will see his mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wherley, and his 12 year old sister for the first time since April 1, 1942, when he slipped away from Elmwood to nearby Peoria, added four years to his age for the benefit of the army, and joined the air forces.

Father Wasn't Happy.

A year before he had graduated from grade school. Since that time he had been helping on the farm which his father manages and had been employed at other odd jobs.

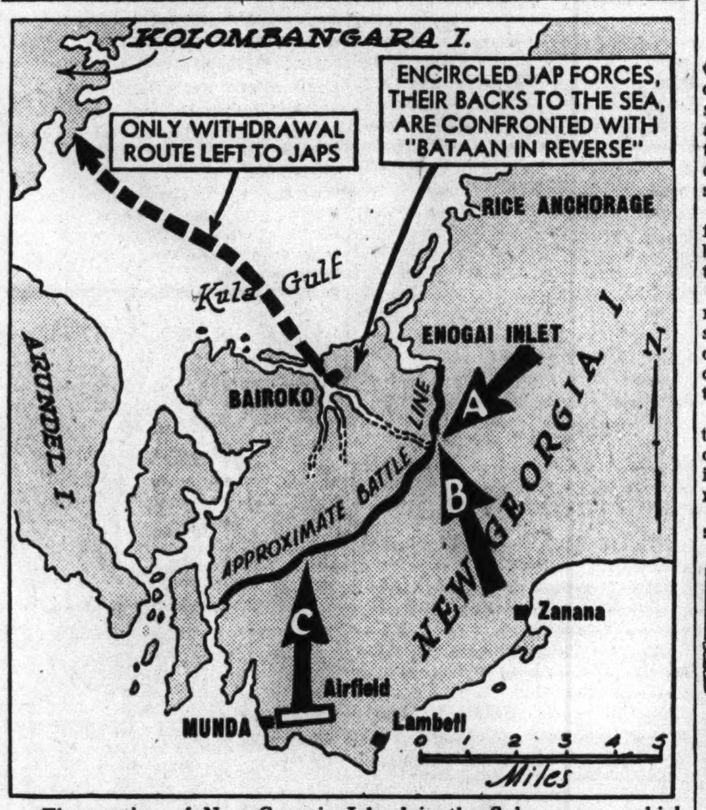
He admits that his father "wasn't exactly happy" when he learned that Clifford was a soldier. Neither was his mother, but Clifford's plea that it "would ruin me for life" prevented her from asking for his release while he was in training.

Now he is biding his time until he is 17, when he will go into the enlisted reserve. Later he plans to be an aviation cadet.

DIES WHILE AT WORK.

Peter Kabitzke, 61 years old, 4814 North Kedvale avenue, died of a heart attack yesterday while at work in the Pease Machine company at 2601 Irving Park road.

Japs Encircled on Solomon Isle



The portion of New Georgia Island in the Solomons on which the Japanese were reported trapped yesterday. An allied column (A) effected a juncture with a combat group (B) and they are driving against the enemy. Another column (C), driving from captured Munda air field, has sealed off any escape path for the Japs at Bairoko except by sea.

JAPS ENCIRCLED AT BAIROKO, BUT STILL HOLD OUT

Three U. S. Columns Trap Garrison.

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Aug. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Encircled Japanese still are holding out at Bairoko harbor, their last foothold on New Georgia Island, Gen. MacArthur's war bulletin reported today.

"Our ground forces continue to advance. Local enemy resistance is developing around Zieta village. Adverse weather hampered air operations," said the bulletin.

Bairoko harbor is some 10 miles above captured Munda air field. It was also disclosed that Munda, which fell Aug. 5, was captured by elements of the 25th, 37th, and 43d army units and marines.

Three Yank Advances.

A navy spokesman at headquarters of Adm. William F. Halsey Jr., commander of South Pacific forces, said the encirclement of the Japs at Bairoko was perfected when the American right flank reached Bairoko river at a point two miles southeast of Bairoko harbor. There it joined an advanced patrol of army and marine units which had fought its way northward in the Enogai inlet area under command of Col. Harry B. Liversedge, Pine Grove, Cal. Other army forces were advancing from Munda.

Off Kavieng, New Ireland, a Liberator bomber has sunk one vessel in a small enemy convoy, the bulletin said. Heavy casualties were inflicted on other units of the convoy by strafing.

The bulletin also reported the ineffective bombing of Woodlark Island, off New Guinea, which Americans seized without opposition at the outset of the current South Pacific offensive.

Eighteen Barges Sunk.

In a continuing aerial war on supply barges allied planes have sunk 18 more and damaged others off New Guinea.

For the second day the bulletin made pointed reference to enemy plane reconnoitering over Australia. A Japanese bomber was intercepted and damaged over Fog bay in the Darwin area.

Our long range fighter planes swept the 500 miles above Australia to the Aroe Islands to attack Japan's seaplane base at Taberfane and near-by villages. Three small boats in the harbor were destroyed and two others and a barge damaged.

Reports of unwilling Japanese soldiers being driven to fight came from Munda air field in a dispatch quoting a marine raider as saying he saw a Japanese officer whacking apparently recalcitrant members of a machine gun unit with the flat of his sword.

GERMANS BOMB ENGLAND TWICE; STEP UP FORCE

LONDON, Aug. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Nazi bombers made two raids on southern areas of England today, shaking off the camparative lethargy into which they were forced this summer by the aerial offensive of the allies. The raids were the sharpest in weeks.

Diving low, the planes dropped flares and followed them up with oil bombs, causing a number of casualties.

In a southwest coastal district most of the bombs fell in residential sections. A building forming part of a hospital was hit, but it was unoccupied at the time. A police station was damaged.

The Berlin radio abruptly quit the air at midnight last night to indicate that the R. A. F. was hammering Germany for the third straight night.

British bombers hammered the Nazi shrine of Nuremberg with more than 1,500 [1,680 American] tons of plosive Tuesday night in a switch of strategy designed to destroy Germany's finished products centers.

[A CBS report from Berne, Switzerland, said that 2,000 bodies thus far had been recovered from the Nuremberg ruins and that 40,000 persons were made homeless. Fires still burned in the city last night, it said.]

Whirlwind bombers swooped over six small axis vessels near the isles of De Gioro and Brittany yesterday and blew up four E-boats, set fire to another and exploded the sixth vessel—either an E-boat or a trawler.

Stalin Makes Pole Leader a Soviet Major General

MOSCOW, Aug. 11 (AP).—Premier Stalin has signed a degree promoting Zigmund Berling, commander of the Polish forces in the soviet union, to the rank of major general.

SEAMAN KILLED IN ACTION ONLY 15, FATHER SAYS

Lawrence Raymond Creps, an apprentice seaman who was killed in action in the Atlantic on March 8, 1942, was only 15 years old when he died, his father, Miley M. Creps, 7853 South Carpenter street, said yesterday after he received from the navy department the Order of the Purple Heart awarded posthumously to his son. The boy left Calumet High school to enlist on Dec. 27, 1941.

His father said he got into the navy by altering the year of his birth on a certificate he carried to the recruiting office, representing that he was 17. Young Creps was born in New Bedford, Mass., on Jan. 25, 1927.

KILLED BY STREET CAR.

Walking into the street from between automobiles parked at the curb, Arthur E. Huggins, 52 years old, a truck driver, was struck and killed by a Madison street car at Albany avenue last night.

Mrs. Phillips smiles with happy pride whenever she hears service men praise her city for its big-hearted hospitality. She likes to think all those cakes and cookies she bakes each week for the U. S. TELLS OF FLYING KITES' DEFIANCE OF JAPS' FLEET

Slow and Poorly Armed, They Dog Foe.

(This is the fifth article in a series, telling the story of the "Grim Reapers"—the famous Fighting Squadron VF-10, United States navy air force. It was told to Stanley Johnston, noted Tribune war correspondent, by one of the Reapers who prefers to be anonymous. It presents a vivid, personalized account of great air and sea actions in the Pacific.)

BY A "GRIM REAPER."
[Member of Fighting Squadron VF-10, United States Navy.]

As told to STANLEY JOHNSTON.
[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

On the morning of Oct. 24, 1942, a massed Japanese fleet was heading southward thru the Pacific toward Guadalcanal. Actually, the Japs were heading for the great battle of Santa Cruz which for them was to be a major naval and air disaster.

At the same hour, we Grim Reaper pilots aboard the big carrier U. S. S. Enterprise were gathering in the ready room, where we wait to go aloft. We were roughly south-southeast of the Jap fleet. Data on the ready room blackboard indicated we were to steam north-northwest during the morning.

More Ships Added.

As we left the Enterprise on combat patrol shortly after dawn, we saw our task force had been built up considerably during the night. In addition to the carrier Hornet, we had a 35,000 ton battleship and some new cruisers and destroyers.

Our fleet now consisted of two carriers, the battleship, cruisers, and a flotilla of destroyers and auxiliary vessels. We knew the Japs were going to have to fight at last on something like even terms.

Our air force was unable, because of the distance, to make contact with the enemy as yet. Our information, therefore, was being radioed by naval airmen in giant, long range Catalina flying boats.

On Enemy's Trail.

The determination and self-sacrifice of the crews in these big, clumsy, and poorly armed "ducks" was inspiring and touching to us all. Those men clung tenaciously to the enemy fleet, reporting its strength, speed, and course.

They told us the enemy force we were to meet consisted of four large carriers, two battleships, four cruisers, 22 destroyers, and various auxiliary ships.

Our information was coming in short, terse, and irregular messages. Each time the Catalinas drew near enough for a good look at the Japs they were attacked by Zeros from the carriers.

The seaplanes lacked the maneuverability to dodge, the speed to run, and the fire power to defend themselves. Only the efficiency and the cool courage of the crews enabled them ever to return to bases. And even so they had little chance unless there happened to be a cloud or a rain squall into which they could duck.

"Notify Next of Kin."

The last report we received from one of the Catalinas always will linger in our memory. The radio operator gave an up to the minute account of the enemy, then added:

"We are being attacked by Zeros. Please notify our next of kin."

We could picture the scene. There would be this big, slow kite, lumbering across the sky surrounded by a pack of Zeros whose chattering pilots would be rolling and twisting as they flew rings around the Catalina. We could imagine them darting in and out, shredding the great seaplane with streams of bullets, then yelling their gibberish as it heeled over and started down, likely in flames.

We heard no more from the Catalina.

During most of the afternoon as we steamed northward, we walked around tensely in the ready room. We were going over and over again the combat tactics we had learned in the last three and a half months.

Wave Like Dancers.

The new Reapers constantly were barraging with questions such veterans as our boss, Lt. Comdr. James H. [Jimmy] Flatley, Lt. Stanley W. [Swede] Vejtasa, Lt. Fritz L. Faulkner, and Lt. John A. Leppla. Jimmy Flatley later laughed about seeing us standing there in groups, waving our hands in graceful gestures like a bunch of fan dancers as we illustrated the evasive maneuvers of planes in combat.

But, mostly, Flatley was going about among the mechanics who were seeing to it that our planes were in tip-top fighting shape. The one great worry that hangs over an airman is that of engine failure. Most fighter planes have only one engine and if it fails him he may expect—at best—long days in a tiny rubber life raft and the uncertainty of rescue. It can be said for the Reapers' mechanics that they took care of us as well as any air squadron ever was taken care of. We had no engine failure except that caused by enemy gunfire.

Jimmy Flatley was doing everything the commander of a bunch of men could do. And he was thinking on this afternoon of Oct. 24 about some things that might never have entered the heads of a lot of us.

Writes About God.

He was asking himself if he had done everything the leader can do for his men. He knew he had trained us to the best of his ability. We knew we had worked hard, practiced hard, and had done our best to absorb what he had taught us.

He decided finally that he had only one worry about us and that was on our spiritual side. Having taught us to fight he now felt he should teach us how to die. And it appeared some of us might have to die tomorrow.

Jimmy Flatley went to his room and wrote a letter to us. The contents of that letter taught many of us more about religion and God and what this war is about than we ever had known before.

MUNDA BATTLE SCENE IS TOLD BY EYEWITNESS

Jap Planes and Dead Litter Area.

his back to a shell hole wall, lost in a baseball magazine. I looked over his shoulder at the date, vintage of March, 1942. Beside him lay his tommy gun. Another boy finished washing a pair of socks which are little more than anklets and then fastidiously began cleaning his fingernails with the point of a .30 caliber rifle bullet.

If you had a dime for every undamaged tree in this whole area you still could not buy a good meal. They were mostly bare trunks extending nakedly into the sky. Around the trunks lay the bushy tops, blown off by bomb or shell fragments. Every tree bore the long ragged gashes made by the deadly fragments.

Guard Fuses from Hunters.

Along the runway near the center of the field was the gutted remains of a Jap bomb dump. I have had many Jap bombs dropped in my general direction, but this was the first time I had seen them in peaceful and harmless repose. These weighed 50 kilograms [approximately 110 pounds]. They were four feet long and a foot thick, and had black stripes painted around their bellies. Nearby were boxes of nose fuses, guarded by a military policeman against over-zealous souvenir hunters who might attempt to carry off one of these flashy looking, but deadly little tidbits.

At the east end of the field was the final touch needed to make this bomb blasted ruin complete—a 1924 Model "T" Ford truck. Apparently one of the few pieces of motor equipment the Japs had on Munda, it had been blasted both ways from the middle by an American bomb. Only the radiator, as familiar to Americans as their mother's face, still stood upright.

DRIFTS 22 DAYS AND FINDS WAY TO MAKE SEAWATER DRINKABLE

GUADALCANAL, Aug. 10—[Delayed]—(AP).—A rescued navy flyer who drifted 22 days on a raft near Japanese bases, returned to Guadalcanal today. The flyer, Lt. [j. g.] George H. Smith, 25, Elmhurst, O., took to the raft after his fighter plane was forced down.

Lt. George H. Smith.

During the 22 days he successfully experimented with an original method of getting drinkable water from the sea and caught birds and fish for food. He was rescued by a patrol bomber.

Smith had utilized everything possible, even the bones from fish and albatrosses, which he fashioned into spears. Albatross meat, he said, was all right "except some portions were too tough. I found a greasy sac in the stomach which I let the sun melt, and then greased my mouth and swallowed the substance whole. I figured it would absorb salt in my stomach instead of my body using it. Then I drank a half cup of salt water daily."

15,000 PERSONS OF JAP ORIGIN PLACED IN JOBS

Average of 500 Selected from Camps Weekly.

Of the 106,000 persons of Japanese ancestry evacuated from Pacific coast states in the spring of 1942, a total of 15,000—about 14 per cent—have been released from the relocation camps and placed in farming, industry or business, according to Elmer L. Shirrell, Chicago regional director of the war relocation, said yesterday.

Of the original 106,000 about 72,000, or 68 per cent, were American citizens. Ninety per cent of those for whom jobs have been found in the Chicago area are citizens, Shirrell said. An alien, it was pointed out, must go thru more formality than a citizen before being released from the relocation camps. Also, certain war industry jobs are closed to him.

Plan to Place 10,000 More.

The WRA plans to place 10,000 additional Japanese in jobs before Jan. 1, 1944. Placings are currently running about 500 a week for the country as a whole. Shirrell declined to give figures for the Chicago region, but said that it was keeping up to its monthly quotas.

Japanese at the relocation camps may apply for jobs in whatever section that appeals to them and has openings. An effort is then made by WRA authorities at the relocation camps to determine their loyalty. If the results are satisfactory they are released.

In the Chicago region, which consists of Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the eastern half of North Dakota, Japanese have been placed in farming, office work, factory work [both skilled and unskilled], hotels, laundries, dry cleaning establishments, beauty shops and dress making shops.

Says Chicago Does Good Job.

Shirrell said that Chicago has done a good job of absorbing Japanese into both its business and its social fabric. Employers are pleased with the quickness and adaptability of their Japanese help, he said, and churches, Y.M.C.A.'s, Y.W.C.A.'s, and other similar organizations try to surround Japanese newcomers with a friendly atmosphere.

Typical of the experience of the Japanese evacuees in Chicago is that of George Y. Nakamura. He worked as a tool machinist in Portland, Oregon. After Pearl Harbor he was sent to the Minidoka Relocation center. After a few months he volunteered for sugar beet work and was placed in a Franklin county, Montana, sugar factory as a machinist. He obtained his final release from the relocation center March 1, 1943, came to Chicago, and found immediate employment with the Tuthill Spring company, war contract manufacturers of heavy truck springs and spring accessories.

Promoter Drops Cigaret Fund Suit Against V.F.W.

A suit to restrain the Veterans of Foreign Wars from disposing of their overseas fund, collected to purchase cigarets for soldiers and sailors, was withdrawn in Superior court yesterday by Atty. Meyer Goldberg, representing the plaintiff, Samuel P. Lipkin, Los Angeles promoter and advertising man. Lipkin, who has Chicago offices at 180 Washington street, charged the veterans owed him $27,421 for services in raising the overseas fund, but Goldberg said the case was settled for a nominal sum.

OVERCOME BY HEAT.

Peter Oberding, 14 years old, 5543 Newport avenue, was overcome by the heat yesterday on a street car at Harrison street and Central avenue. Rescue squad 7 under Capt. George Harper revived him.

CHICAGO GROUP ORGANIZES FOR BATAAN FIGHT

Relatives Will Seek Congress' Aid.

Sixty wives, sweethearts, mothers, and fathers of prisoners of war held by the Japanese united at a meeting of the new Chicago Bataan Relief organization last night to carry to congress their fight to get help for the prisoners. They charged that many congressional representatives had exhibited only an apathetic interest in the war in the Pacific and the fate of prisoners. They appointed each member a delegate to call upon his or her representative and demand that congress act to save the captives still living.

Women Elected Officers.

The new organization, which is to become affiliated with the National Bataan Relief organization headed by Dr. V. H. Spensley of Albuquerque, N. M., met at 537 South Dearborn street. Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 South Leavitt street, was named chairman, Mrs. Harold T. Witmer, 4943 Lake Park avenue, secretary, and Mrs. Fred Witt, 3735 Bosworth avenue, treasurer. All three are mothers of prisoners captured while defending Bataan.

Mrs. Marion Fick, 3319 Oriole avenue, the mother of another prisoner, charged that the administration left the Bataan defenders without sufficient arms or equipment to fight the Japs.

Mother Condemns Administration.

Mrs. Palermo told the group that relatives of the prisoners were "sick and tired" of receiving only messages of sympathy in reply to their appeals to the administration.

Municipal Judge John J. Griffin, whose son, James W., is a prisoner, recommended that the group attempt to operate thru the Red Cross to provide relief to prisoners. He indicated his belief that appeals made from one government to another are useless.

Latest Addition

Latest addition to the defensive fire power of the B-24 Liberator bomber is the Emerson electric turret in the nose. The turret mounts two .50 caliber machine guns, raised and lowered, or swung from side to side, by an electric motor. The gunner expends little effort in aiming. Were it not for the powered turret, wind pressures on the gun barrels at the high speed of operation of the bomber would make it impossible for the gunner to aim with any reasonable degree of accuracy. Until recently, the nose turret was on the military secret list. The turret shown is installed in the nose section of the Ford built Liberator displayed in the army air force material command show, given at Tribune Square in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. The turret weighs about 1,600 pounds. Each machine gun fires 13 projectiles a second.

CAPT. WERMUTH, JAPS' PRISONER, WRITES FAMILY

'One Man Army' Says Health Is Good.

For the first time since the fall of Bataan, word has come from Capt. Arthur W. Wermuth, Chicago's "one man army." A typewritten, undated card which said he was a prisoner in a Japanese prison camp in the Philippines was received by relatives here yesterday.

Capt. A. W. Wermuth.

Pvt. Norman J. Lev.

His mother, Mrs. Clara Wermuth, who is in Toledo, O., with his sister, Natalie, a dancer, said she was convinced the message was genuine because it had been mailed to the home of his cousin, Mrs. Harry Wolfe, 2628 Farwell avenue, a permanent address agreed upon when he went overseas before the war.

His wife, Mrs. Jean Wermuth, who is in Traverse City, Mich., working as a surgical nurse, was told by telephone of the message. She could not speak, so great was her joy, the captain's mother said.

His stereotyped message received yesterday addressed to his wife at the cousin's home, said he was interned in prison camp No. 10 in the Philippines and continued: "I am uninjured. I am well. Please see that you take care of yourself. Be ready for a good time."

Capt. Wermuth, a former drug salesman, earned his sobriquet, "one man army," by killing 116 Japs and capturing many more on Bataan where he was serving with the 57th Filipino scout regiment.

Four other Chicago families received cards of the form letter type—all that prisoners may write—from their sons yesterday. None of the cards was dated. The writers and recipients:

Lt. Amiel Palermo, a physician with the 31st infantry in the Philippines, to his mother, Mrs. Lucy Palermo, 10406 Leavitt avenue, temporary chairman of the Chicagoland unit of the Bataan relief association.

Ensign Richard E. Raschik, 25 years old, to his father, O. R. Raschik, 5542 Shields avenue.

Marine Corp. Raymond H. Collins, wearer of the silver star for bravery, to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Collins, 1718 North Maplewood avenue.

LONDON INSISTS QUEBEC PARLEY CONSULT STALIN

Way Must Be Found, Says the Times.

LONDON, Aug. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Some London newspapers expressed concern today over the absence of Premier Josef Stalin of Russia from the impending conferences in Canada between Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt.

The Moscow radio announced that Stalin received the American and British ambassadors in Moscow yesterday in a meeting also attended by Vyacheslav Molotov, soviet minister of foreign affairs, but there was no explanation of the topic discussed. London, however, quickly connected it with Churchill's visit to North America.

The London Times commented that if Stalin "for perfectly comprehensive reasons" cannot leave his country, "other means of personal consultation exist or must be found."

Will Get Accounts.

The Daily Telegraph commented that "the practical inconvenience" of Stalin's absence is not a barrier to associating the Russians closely with the talks. The Daily Express said Stalin had been invited, but was unable to accept, so he will be given detailed accounts and will send his comments.

King George conferred yesterday with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Dominions Secretary Clement Attlee. It was the second successive day he has received Attlee, labor member of the cabinet.

The Quebec parley produced the confident hope in Britain today of Italy's quick exit from the conflict followed by a grand offensive against the Germans this year.

It was recalled that a Canadian expeditionary force in Britain—superbly trained and anxious to fight—has been nominated to spearhead any allied cross-channel assault on the continent.

While President Roosevelt and Churchill were engaged in the preliminaries to their momentous meetings with their military staffs soon, reports still persisted here of Italy's desire for peace. A new peace feeler was reported to have reached the allied governments recently.

Wants Nazis Ousted.

It was said to have emphasized Premier Pietro Badoglio's tribulations were caused by the presence of the Germans in Italy, and implied the marshal was trying to get them out without fighting.

Badoglio was described as almost beyond himself in trying to get the Nazis out—still pleading for more time to find a way. But allied military power is hitting hard at Italy, and that kind of power doesn't permit breathing spells.

The German radio said the allied leaders were getting together to discuss "an entirely new situation" brought about by what it called Italy's determination to continue in the war.

The German propagandists also said the western allies would have to commit themselves to greater efforts to please Stalin.

ADMIT CHINESE AS WAR TRIBUTE, BLOOM DEMANDS

Washington, D. C., Aug 11 (AP).—Urging repeal of the 61 year old Chinese exclusion acts, Chairman Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.], of the house foreign relations committee, today said the time had come to show China the respect its fight against the axis had merited.

Rep. Sol Bloom.

Contending the issue of Chinese exclusion is "more than a test of our democracy," Bloom declared in a statement that China "has thruout her six years of fighting with Japan shown herself as a great people, and I think it is about time she was given the same recognition as our other allies are getting."

Bloom maintained that admission of the 105 Chinese who could enter the country under the U. S. quota system would not affect the situation of labor here, and declared action on the issue should be taken now.

A. L. P. LEFT WING GAINS STRENGTH IN N. Y. PRIMARY

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—State control of the American Labor party remained in doubt today as the right and left wings of the organization disputed the votes cast in Kings county in yesterday's primary.

With both sides agreeing that the left wing had strengthened its hold in Manhattan and the right wing had retained control in the Bronx, political observers expressed belief that the faction which captured Brooklyn would rule the A. L. P. in New York state for the next two years.

The A. L. P.'s intraparty squabble added local excitement to what turned out to be an otherwise dull off-year primary—a primary so quiet that little notice was given to the fact that Tammany Chieftain Michael J. Kennedy appeared to have made great gains in Manhattan Democratic leadership.

REPORT BRANDON TO STAY IN NEW WELFARE SETUP

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 11 (AP).—Altho they lacked official confirmation, reports circulated at the statehouse today that Gov. Dwight Green may reorganize the welfare department with Rodney H. Brandon staying on as director.

The hints were of a possible truce between them, and a report that Gov. Green has under consideration a welfare department reorganization plan recommended some time ago by the American Public Welfare association.

This plan would place increased appointive power, and control over personnel, in the hands of the director. The program is known to be favored by Brandon.

DENOUNCED BY PHYSICIANS.

At a meeting in Chicago yesterday the executive council of the Physicians' association, an organization of physicians in the service of the department of public welfare, denounced conditions in that department and authorized a letter to Gov. Green presenting formal demands for improvement, and insisting that Director Brandon be given full authority over the department of which he now is only nominally the head.

Now is the time to make your home "Heat-Tight"

INSULATE YOUR ROOF

Heat rises, forcing itself out through cracks and through the wood and shingles. Insulating the roof saves heat and coal—particularly in a home with an unfinished attic.

START NOW to insulate your home to prevent warm air from escaping next winter. A little money spent now will pay rich dividends in warmer rooms and save coal for war production, too! A member of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association will gladly advise you on any heating problems.

INSULATE YOUR ATTIC FLOOR

If your attic floor is unfinished, it can be well insulated by pouring insulation between the joists. But first lay moisture-proof paper to keep the ceiling clean.

INSULATE WALLS OF THE HOME

Walls are responsible for a great deal of wasted heat, particularly second story walls. Have those insulated first if you can't afford to have all walls done immediately.

WEATHER-STRIP YOUR DOORS AND WINDOWS

Inexpensive weather-stripping reduces drafts. While one crack seems trifling, those around all windows and doors make a hole large enough to waste a lot of coal and heat.

EQUIP YOUR HOME WITH STORM WINDOWS

Storm windows greatly reduce the heat loss through window-panes. Order them early because they may take weeks to get, and should be fitted, painted, and installed before cold weather arrives.

U. S. WAR COSTS TRIPLE THOSE OF BRITISH EMPIRE

Other Nations Get Much of American Taxes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—The United States is spending more than three times what the British Empire is spending on the war.

Estimated American expenditures for the current fiscal year are over 104 billion dollars. In the same period the British Empire will spend about 31 billion dollars.

The breakdown of expenditures and taxes, according to figures supplied by the National Industrial Conference board, in millions of dollars, follows:

	Expenditures.	Tax revenue.	†Pct. rev.
United States	104,040	40,350	38
Great Britain	23,024	11,632	50
Canada	5,406	2,703	50
Australia	2,116	*1,058	50
Un. of S. Africa	652	*356	50

*Estimated. †Percentage tax revenue is of expenditures.

Taxes Spent Elsewhere.

An important phase of American expenditures is that a very considerable sum of American taxes is spent outside the United States and therefore represents no taxable income to the American people. The vast sum pumped out of the United States treasury is regarded as a military secret and has not been made public to the American people.

American money is being spent in all parts of the world. It is going, among other things, for construction of air bases, railroads, highways, docks, and cantonments in England, Canada, Australia, Africa, the Near East, India, China, and South and Central America.

Loans up in Millions.

American troops and American and local workers are being paid with American taxpayers' money and are producing tax revenues in the countries where the construction is under way or the establishments are being maintained.

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been extended in loans to foreign countries to help stabilize their currencies and maintain economies disrupted by the war. In Britain, the large volume of lend-lease food is sold to dealers by the government and in turn to the consumers. Proceeds of sales to dealers are turned back into the British treasury.

ILLINOIS PAYS 8.41 PER CENT OF U. S. TAXES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—Illinois, with 5.98 per cent of the nation's population, bore 8.41 per cent of the U. S. tax load in the fiscal year ended June 30, 1943, Commissioner of Internal Revenue Guy T. Helvering reported today.

The state contributed 8.62 per cent of the total federal income taxes collected last year, 7.50 per cent of miscellaneous internal revenue payments and 8.85 per cent of pay roll tax payments, Helvering's compilations of final data on internal revenue collections of the 1943 fiscal year showed.

State Average Revealed.

They revealed that on a per capita basis, the state's income tax bill to Uncle Sam was the equivalent of $177.92 apiece for each of Illinois 7,897,000 persons. The state's total federal internal revenue payments were equivalent to $238.15 per person.

Internal revenue collections in the Chicago area [1st Illinois district] were up 79 per cent over the preceding year's, Helvering's report revealed. Downstate collections were up 39.2 per cent.

Individual income tax payments to the commissioner of internal revenue in Chicago rose 71.6 per cent to total $423,908,280 as compared with $247,043,593 in the 1942 fiscal year.

Corporation Taxes Soar.

Corporation taxes paid to the collector's office in Chicago rose 46.7 per cent to total $358,506,920 against $244,369,489 in 1942. Thus, total income taxes, corporation and individual, showed a 59.2 per cent increase, Commissioner Helvering said. Payments at the Springfield office recorded a 63.2 per cent rise.

As previously reported in a preliminary summary of 1943 tax payment, Uncle Sam collected $22,371,386,496 in taxes last year, a 71.4 per cent increase over fiscal year of 1942. Total payments that year were $13,047,868,517.

Despite his earlier stubbornness, Shorty, a 2 year old giraffe who stands only eight feet tall, was bound for Memphis, Tenn., yesterday to become the first giraffe in a southern zoo. Memphis school children raised $1,800 toward his $2,250 purchase price by collecting and selling scrap iron.

For three hours Tuesday night 16 keepers at Brookfield zoo, where he was born, and three more from Memphis tried to load him onto a truck. Shorty refused. He went to bed.

Yesterday morning he arose and ate a hearty breakfast of cornmeal and oatmeal porridge, topped off generously with onion and garlic, favorite of all giraffes. Then he walked to the truck and climbed aboard.

"He just wanted his breakfast," said Robert Bean, associate director of Brookfield zoo.

The farewell from Shorty, his breath heavy with garlic, was a hearty, generous "Burp." He is 10 feet shorter than Jack, the zoo's patriarch giraffe, which died Monday.

TWO OIL LEADERS DEMAND: REVEAL SECRETS OF OPA

Charge Its Acts Promote Gasoline Shortage.

Why has the office of price administration at Washington, D. C., obstinately refused the oil industry a raise in the price of crude oil, thereby endangering and slowing up the country's success in the war and creating a shortage thru which the government now tries to justify a slash in midwest gasoline rations?

Why has that same agency twice since last April 7 turned down the demand of Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes for a crude price raise of 35 cents a barrel, which he insisted was necessary for production to fight the war and for an adequate civilian supply of gasoline?

Bernard L. Majewski, Chicago, vice president of the Deep Rock Oil corporation, and Frank Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., head of the 400 million dollar Phillips Petroleum company, both members of the petroleum industry war council, yesterday said the public and the oil industry demanded answers.

Ickes Rebuffed by Vinson.

Their statements came after Ickes' appeal from the OPA's latest rejection of his demand, last Saturday, an appeal in which the petroleum administrator carried his demand for higher crude prices to Fred M. Vinson, director of economic stabilization.

Ickes action was in conformity with his promise in Chicago last Friday, when he said he would carry his appeal from OPA first to Vinson and then to James F. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, if turned down by Vinson.

Majewski and Phillips still demand to know the real reason why Leon Henderson and Prentiss Brown, successive price dictators, have for more than two years refused the price raise that Phillips warned in June, 1941, must be granted if a dangerous shortage of crude oil were to be averted.

Majewski Demands Reason.

"Why?" Majewski repeated. "Everybody knows that both Henderson and Brown persistently turned down requests for the price raise. But the reasons they have so far made public have been phony and nobody knows why—really why.

"Now Brown has again turned Ickes down and the letter in which he gave his reasons is kept secret. Why?

"What is Ickes appealing from—from what reasons, what kind of a turn down? What is contained in this secret turndown letter, received by Ickes at 3:30 p. m. last Saturday afternoon, after it was nine days on the way to him, as we learn?

Industry Seeks Facts.

"The petroleum industry wants to know; the public wants to know. Deeper rationing in the middle west and whole southwest is imminent. They've got to come out with it now. That's all there's to it!"

Phillips added: "I certainly think Ickes ought to carry his appeal up and I'm gratified that he's doing it. He should long ago have taken it to the highest authority. There's only one thing wrong with it. At this late date, the 35 cent a barrel increase he's asking is nowhere near enough; it ought to be considerably higher.

"But I agree thoroly that both the industry and the public have a right to know at long last why. Why have OPA officials so obstinately refused? There's something strange that ought to be explained. The country's at war and oil is the most essential ammunition."

On top of the assertions of Majewski and Phillips came an announcement by Chairman Earl Benjamin Searcy of the Illinois legislative commission that is battling increased restriction of gasoline for midwest motorists, as proposed by Ickes.

"We're going to ask the whole Illinois delegation in congress, Democrats and Republicans," said Searcy, "to demand that congress get at the bottom of OPA's reasons for turning down the price raise for crude."

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

An OPA Office Takes Day Off to Go Picnicking on A Cards

The office of the rent director, Chicago area, office of price administration, 222 West Adams street, was unusually quiet after 2 p. m. yesterday. Altho it was a business day 90 per cent of the staff was absent. The employes were at a picnic—about 135 of them—and 15 non-picnickers were taking care, in a manner of speaking, of the office.

C. L. Perkins, deputy rent director, was host at the outing, held at his farm home on County Line road, near Deerfield.

20 A Cards There.

If there had been any transportation difficulties for the rent controlers, it didn't show. There were 22 automobiles parked at the farm and two of them bore C cards; the rest A cards. [Other departments of OPA have been touring the countryside demanding why citizens use gasoline in nonessential travel; officially the organization frowns on any pleasurable use of any car.]

In the rent office, John F. McCarthy, the director, looked over the rows of empty desks and explained why it was all right for the boys and girls to take a Wednesday afternoon off.

"They have a lot of overtime piled up," he said. "They have worked very hard. Everybody put in three nights in July to catch us up, and some employes have as much as 200 hours of overtime coming. They have cut our backlog of unfinished work units [a telephone call, a letter answered, an interview, etc., make a unit] from 73,465 on July 1 to 32,700 on Aug. 1. They had my permission to go."

Office Closes Early.

The office door was closed to renters at 4 p. m., an hour and a half early. Only clients who got in before the deadline were served. One was Jack N. Long, 959 Cuyler avenue, who asserted his landlord was overcharging him $5 a month.

"I was told to write a letter," he said, "and not to worry—an investigator couldn't get around to my case for six weeks."

THIS CAPTAIN BUMPS INTO COUSIN AND PAL IN SOME FAR PLACES

Capt. David L. Gaede of the army air forces is getting used to coincidences. He met his first one in a foxhole on Guadalcanal Island. When Capt. Gaede jumped into the hole during a Jap bombing raid, a navy lieutenant commander who had beaten him in presented his hand and said: "I'm Dave Gaede."

"This is no time for jokes," said Capt. Gaede. "I'm Dave Gaede."

While the raid was wearing itself out the captain and the lieutenant commander determined that they were first cousins. The captain lived in Columbus, O., and the naval officer in Coronado, Cal.

Yesterday, while Capt. Gaede was visiting the air power exhibit at Tribune Tower, he bumped into another coincidence. It was Tech. Sgt. Harry Flieg, aerial engineer in the crew of the B-17 bomber in which Gaede had flown many combat missions as navigator in the Southwest Pacific theater.

Capt. Gaede has flown 900 hours in combat areas in B-17s. He entered the army after being graduated from Ohio State university in 1940. He wears the silver star, distinguished flying cross, with two oak leaf clusters, the Purple Heart with one oak leaf cluster, and the air medal with one oak leaf cluster, and medals for service before Pearl Harbor, and for the Pacific and Asiatic war theater. He was wounded twice by shots from 20 mm. cannon in air combat with Jap Zeros. He is on a tour of war plants speaking to production employes.

A JUDGE DECIDES WIFE IS BOSS OF WASHING DISHES

William H. Boulton, 37 years old, an electrician who lives at 7633 Langley avenue, dries the dishes at his home and he likes to do the pots and pans last, so when his wife, Phyllis, 25, insisted on washing them first Tuesday night an argument started that didn't end until Judge Francis Borrelli gave them soothing counsel in Grand Crossing municipal court yesterday and sent them home arm in arm.

"It started over the dishes," Boulton, who was charged with disorderly conduct, told Judge Borrelli. "I tried to get her to wash the pots and pans last because when you wipe pots first you ruin the towels. She said she was tired and wanted to get to bed, and pretty soon we're arguing."

"I cried and he stomped out of the house," Mrs. Boulton said. "I went to bed and at 4:30 a. m. he stomped into the house, woke me and the baby and turned the radio on full blast. When I tried to turn it off he pushed me to the floor, so I called the police."

"You two go on home together," said Judge Borrelli, "and tonight you, Boulton, wash the dishes and let her wipe them."

GAS DEALER SAYS WIFE THREW OUT RATION COUPONS

The housekeeping habits of Mrs. Victor Kahn resulted yesterday in her husband's appearance before Judge Gibson E. Gorman in Municipal court. Judge Gorman was acting as an office of price administration hearing commissioner in suspension proceedings against retail gasoline dealers. Kahn, the proprietor of Vic's service station at 2601 South Wabash avenue, told Judge Gorman that his wife threw the coupons for 1,186 gallons of gasoline out the window recently, believing them to be worthless. He said he had taken them home for safekeeping. Judge Gorman will offer his recommendation to W. M. McFarland, chief OPA hearing commissioner, who will issue a decision.

CIO ARRANGES CONTRACT DATES WITH 2 PACKERS

Two meetings for negotiating a new contract between the country's largest meat packing companies and the CIO Packing House Workers' organizing committee have been set for Aug. 23-24, a union official announced yesterday. A contract covering 122,000 workers in 45 plants of the Big Four companies thruout the country has expired.

The Aug. 23 meeting will be with Swift & Co., and Aug. 24 the union will meet with representatives of Wilson & Co. Meetings have not yet been scheduled with Armour & Co. and Cudahy Packing company. The John Morrell & Co. contract also has expired.

The union will ask for a work week guaranty of 40 hours instead of 32, and will ask the companies to provide the workers with tools, helmets, boots, and coats. A demand will also be made for payment for time spent dressing for work and for taking a shower after work and dressing for the street again.

500 CADETS SEE THEIR FUTURE AT AIR SHOW TODAY

51 Will Be Sworn During Broadcast and Trip.

120,866 in 5 Days

Attendance yesterday at the air power show in Tribune Square was 22,734. This increased the total attendance for the five days to 120,866. The exhibit, exhibit, admission to which is free, is open from 10 a. m. to 10:30 p. m.

BY FRANK STURDY.

Five hundred air forces reservists, cadets awaiting call for training in combat crews, will visit the army air forces air power exhibit at Tribune Square today under the sponsorship of the Chicago aviation cadet examining board.

The reservists, wearing the blue and silver wings of army cadets, will attend a preview of the Walt Disney interpretation of Maj. Alexander P. De Seversky's book, "Victory Through Air Power," in the W-G-N studio. In the audience will be 51 cadet candidates who have passed physical and screening examinations.

Ceremony to Be Broadcast.

After the movie showing, the 51 candidates will be sworn in as reservists by Lt. Ernest W. Lowe, executive officer of the cadet board. The giving of the oath, and an address by Maj. Lauris M. Eek, air liaison officer of the 6th service command, will be broadcast by W-G-N from noon to 12:30 p. m.

Lt. Robert N. McGraw, recently returned from active duty with the 9th air force in North Africa and a veteran of 27 combat missions, will describe during the broadcast some of his most thrilling experiences. Lt. McGraw, who lives at 4337 Adams street, qualified as an aviation cadet thru the Chicago board in 1941.

Cadets to Tour Show.

After the broadcast, the reservists will be escorted thru the air power show, given by the army air forces materiel command in coöperation with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. They will see a P-47 fighter plane, a sectionalized B-24 bomber, a trainer of the sort in which they will do their first army flying, a glider, emergency rescue equipment, guns, radios, and scores of other items they eventually will be supplied as army pilots, navigators, or bombardiers.

All the reservists are 17. Any young man of that age may apply for enlistment thru the cadet board at 166 W. Van Buren street. After successfully passing physical and mental examinations, a candidate becomes a reservist until his 18th birthday, and selects any month in the six thereafter to start active training.

Men 18 to 26 may apply thru their selective service boards, and if accepted, begin active service immediately.

BRITISH POSTAL FORCES WARNED ON UNION STAND

LONDON, Aug. 12 [Thursday]—(AP).—Members of the union of post-office workers were warned today by the government that if their union affiliates with the trades union congress, they will have to choose within a month whether to remain members of the union or forfeit their established position and pension rights.

The warning was given in a statement from No. 10 Downing street which said it understood an application for affiliation with the congress would be considered at the September conference.

The statement said "If at the end of one month thereafter the established civil servant has not resigned his membership of the association, he automatically becomes in words of the act 'disqualified from being a member of civil service.'"

BANK ROBBERS CAUGHT AFTER RUNNING FIGHT

Clarksville, Mo., Aug. 11 (AP).—Three men, described as those who robbed the Hawk Point, Lincoln county, Mo., bank of more than $2,500 this afternoon, were captured near here tonight by highway patrolmen after a running gun battle thru the town's main street.

An 80 mile an hour chase ended when one patrolman shot a rear tire of their automobile and forced the car off an embankment.

The patrol said the trio admitted the robbery and identified themselves as Jack Stroemple, 22, and Chester Skiba, 23, both of Cleveland, O., and Frank Ernest, 30, of Lincoln county.

The highway patrol at Kirkwood said the loot was found in bags in the car and in the men's pockets.

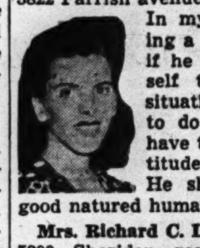
THE QUESTION.

In your opinion what kind of a man makes the ideal husband?

WHERE ASKED.

The Monroe building, 104 South Michigan boulevard.

THE ANSWERS.

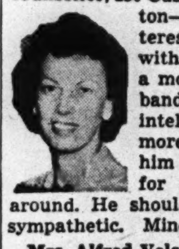


Mrs. Edward A. Polk, housewife, 3822 Parrish avenue, East Chicago—In my way of thinking a husband is ideal if he can adjust himself to any and all situations. To be able to do that he would have to possess a multitude of fine qualities. He should be just a good natured human being.

Mrs. Richard C. Law, receptionist, 5200 Sheridan road—One of the reasons why I think my husband is near perfect is because he is so thoughtful. Every gesture is one of kindness and consideration for others. He is generous and understanding and I wouldn't ask or expect any more of any man.

Felicite Buhl, director, placement counsel, 441 Roslyn place—To be the ideal husband a man must be patient, understanding, wealthy, and sympathetic. He must have lots of money and be generous. He should be considerate and offer security and love. If I had ever met a man like that I wouldn't be a career girl today.

Mrs. John L. Secviar, housewife, 502 West 148th street, East Chicago—Many of the qualities that other women think are desirable are relatively unimportant unless love and respect are ever present. If the man had every fine quality that existed and didn't love me, he couldn't interest me.



Mrs. S. Jack Greene, placement counsellor, 130 Custer avenue, Evanston—If a man has interests in common with his wife he makes a more congenial husband. If he is more intelligent she can be more dependent on him and that makes for happiness all around. He should be patient and sympathetic. Mine is ideal.

Mrs. Alfred Velasco, waitress, 5339 Dorchester avenue—It's important that a husband maintain an attitude of affection comparable to at least the first few years of courtship. His manners should constantly convince the wife that she is woman number one in his heart. Then a woman can overlook everything else.

TOUHY LAWYER FILES NEW PLEA AGAINST MOVIE

An amended complaint charging conspiracy for personal gain in the production and display of the motion picture, "Roger Touhy, Gangster," was filed in United States District court yesterday by Irving S. Roth, attorney for Touhy, imprisoned gang leader. The complaint says that Touhy is made to appear a vicious gangster in the film, that it was made without his consent and holds him up to ridicule.

BARKLEY WON'T CALL CONGRESS ON 'DADS' DRAFT

'Time After Recess,' Wheeler Told.

Paducah, Ky., Aug. 11 (AP).—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley today sent a telegram to Sen. Burton K. Wheeler at Belton, Mont., advising him that he would not feel justified in attempting to reconvene congress prior to Sept. 14 to consider bills dealing with the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

The Montanan had wired Barkley asking him to reconvene congress before the end of the recess to "take up these bills to determine the policy of the nation on the subject."

Will Have Two Weeks.

Sen. Barkley told Wheeler that the recess will terminate two weeks prior to Oct. 1, the date on which the draft order under discussion is supposed to take effect, which will give congress ample time to consider and dispose of any legislation on the subject if it desires to do so.

Yesterday Congressman Andrew J. May said he would introduce a bill a soon as congress reconvenes to prohibit the drafting of all fathers and might even ask that fathers already in the army be discharged.

Plans Early Action.

Browning, Mont., Aug. 11 (AP).—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], informed that congressional leaders do not plan to recall congress immediately to consider the drafting of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers, tonight announced that he would seek the earliest possible consideration for his bill on the question when the senate does convene.

Woman Worker Slugged Near War Plant Rescued

A woman war plant worker was rescued last night from a Negro who seized her near the gate of F. H. Noble & Co., 557 West 59th street, while she was on her way home, slugged her on the head and attempted to rape her. Her cries were heard by a company watchman, Daniel Brennan, who fired a pistol shot as he ran to her aid. The Negro fled. The woman, who is 36 years old and married, was treated at Englewood hospital for a bruise on her head.

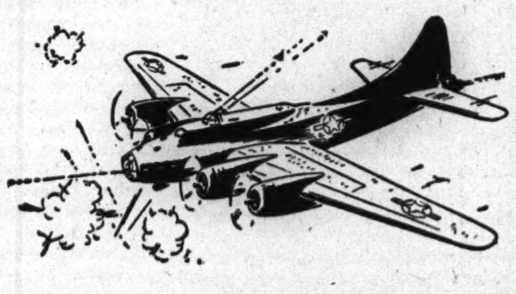
THE MONEY you won't have to pay

Four Harvester plants have been awarded the Army-Navy "E" for excellence. Two of these have also earned the White Star.

EVERYBODY KNOWS about the war output of America's industries. The guns and tanks in Africa, the bombers over Bremen, the warships roving the Pacific are there for all to see—and for our enemies to feel.



But there is another product of industry that can't be seen, though you will feel its effect in your pocketbook. The engineers and production men call it stepping up efficiency. Most other people would call it "savings."

Savings are what you get when you put experienced, competent production men on a new manufacturing job. Not at first, of course. Those first guns and shells and airplanes are expensive. But as the job runs on, the savings start to come. An engineer designs a new tool to reduce losses from spoiled work and to increase output. A foreman relocates machines in his department to save 2 cents on each piece in the handling of materials. An employe gets an idea and submits a suggestion for better production to his Labor-Management Production Drive Committee. All this, of course, while the quality of work is maintained or improved, for quality always comes first.

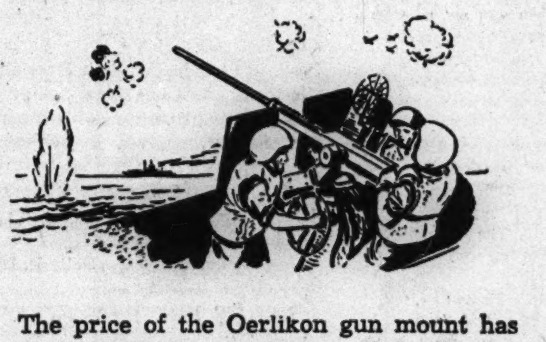
Small things? Yes. Small as so many drops of water. But when you put together thousands of drops of water, you get an ocean. And when you put together thousands of improvements and refinements in manufacturing, you get a saving to make anybody blink.

Consider the savings already made possible on three of the many war jobs the Harvester Company is doing—a 20-mm. aircraft cannon, an anti-tank gun carriage, and the Oerlikon anti-aircraft gun mount.



The price of the Oerlikon gun mount has been cut almost in half. The price of the anti-tank gun carriage has been reduced one-third. The original price of the 20-mm. cannon would buy two cannon now.

On those three jobs the reductions in price our Company has made to the government—which means to you who pay the government's bills—amount to more than $16,000,000. That is the difference between the original price and the price today. That is the savings, the money you will not have to pay.

These price reductions were voluntary. They stemmed from a pledge, made officially by this Company, that we would handle all war work at no more than a moderate profit, and that we would give the government the benefit of manufacturing savings by voluntarily reducing prices whenever possible. That pledge was made before there was any law regulating profits or prices on war production.

Further savings will be made on these jobs. And savings will be made on thousands of other jobs in the enormous war production program of American industry.

This program of making savings in production will go on because it is the very root of our industrial system. American industry has grown great because it has devoted itself to reducing costs, improving the quality, and increasing production. The process has given Americans better radios, and more of them. Better breakfast foods. Better soap. Better tractors and motor trucks and guns. And more of them. For less money. Those results flow inevitably from an industrial system which gives free play to the ideas and the energy of millions of alert individuals.

The ability to improve, and to save at the same time, has benefited all Americans in the past. It pays rich dividends to America and our allies today. It holds the best and brightest promise for a secure future.

A WELCOME RELIEF.

Rep. May's announcement that his bill to forbid the drafting of fathers will be introduced in congress the moment the chaplain finishes the opening prayer promises a welcome relief from the absurd contradictions that Mr. McNutt and Gen. Hershey have been inflicting on the public.

Their manifest inability to preserve consistency, not only with each other but even with their own previous statements, has done more than merely confuse and damage the morale of fathers of draft age. It has demonstrated to the whole country that the administration, from one day to the next, doesn't know what it is doing, and can't agree among its top administrators what it intends to do.

Rep. May expresses confidence that congress will pass his bill, and that the President will not veto it. It is to be hoped that he is right. The bill should become law. Its enactment, however, will be but the beginning of the task facing congress.

Congress should investigate thoroly the whole question of man power as related to prosecution of the war. It is evident that the administration's present policies, insofar as it has any, were formed to meet a state of affairs that no longer exists. The only theory that can make Mr. Roosevelt's plans appear rational is that the United States might find it necessary to carry the whole burden of the war, both in the factories and in the field. That theory may have been tenable a year ago, when there was ground for fear that both Russia and Great Britain might be knocked out of the war or be reduced to impotence, but it obviously is no longer true.

Yet we continue toward the apparent objective of creating the world's largest army. Toward this end men far above the age of combat efficiency are taken from factories and farms, where they contribute to the resources necessary to prosecute the war, and are immured in training camps where they can only place further strains on those resources.

We are diluting our officer material and trained leadership and straining our industrial machine to make a huge army which, because of its personnel and this dilution and strain, must necessarily be of second quality. A further cost of building this second rate army is that we appear unable to furnish first rate reenforcements for the relatively small number of men we have in actual combat. A few more well trained divisions in Sicily would obviously be more useful than a million men in training in the United States.

This muddling in fundamental policies is increasingly wearing upon public nerves. It apparently is as wearing in Canada as in the United States. There Prime Minister King's Liberal party, following its smashing defeat in the Ontario provincial election, has just lost four by-elections to the Canadian parliament.

In Canada the victors were conservatives in Ontario and radicals in the by-elections. Last fall the voters of the United States, in similar circumstances, turned to conservative candidates. The only similarity in the electoral situations was that in each the party in power was defeated. The voters turned to whatever opposition was best organized, to seek relief from errors of the administration. The people are not war weary. That is obvious. They are weary of war bungling.

BANANAS IN THE HARBOR.

Back in the prosperous days of free enterprise before the war, one of the stock accusations of the left wingers was that heartless merchants, commission men, and the rich fruit companies dumped bananas in Boston harbor rather than let a surplus drive down prices. True or not, nobody had any difficulty then buying a bunch of bananas if he had a dime in his pocket. Not even the Communists had the temerity to suggest that there was a food shortage.

We wonder how these same fellow travelers, now so close to the New Deal throne, square their food dumping charges of a decade ago with what is going on today. New Deal bureaus are dumping on refuse heaps thousands of tons of potatoes that were allowed to spoil. Berries are rotting on vines and fruit on trees because the New Deal wills it. And there is a food shortage.

According to the collectivists, the enormity of the crime apparently lies in who commits it, not in its consequences.

CONFESSION OF FAILURE.

Marvin Jones, war food administrator, asserted Monday night in a radio speech that the 1944 food production program will operate on a purely voluntary basis.

"This food cannot be grown on the streets of Washington," he said. "It can only be grown and properly distributed if every farmer, every live stock man, every producer of every character, including the victory gardeners, join in getting the essential production. This country is too broad, too far flung, too varied in its production to have the work done by directives from Washington."

Those are sound words, but from a strange source. They come from a spokesman for the administration who, in them, confesses that in its agricultural policies the administration has been going up the wrong street for more than a decade. Nearly every one in the country, aside from the crackpot planners in Washington, knew it already. The farmers themselves knew it, and it is principally for that reason that they have been voting Republican since 1938.

Mr. Jones can hardly be regarded as a new broom to sweep out these long discredited policies. He helped make them. As the chairman of the house agriculture committee he steered thru a succession of rubber stamp congresses Mr. Roosevelt's measures intended to buy the farmers' votes and subject American agriculture to the dictation of the planless planners.

Now these planners say that they are all wrong and they are going back presumably to the system of free enterprise that they found in the country when they came into power. The farmers can be excused if they do not place too much trust in Mr. Jones' assurance. He is one of the old gang.

The only way that American agriculture can be freed from dictation from Washington, and the people of the nation can be delivered from the menace of food scarcities, is to rid the nation of the fountainhead of irresponsibility. For this we must wait until a year from November. In the meantime, we can only hope that congress will be able to curb the more irrational actions of the self-styled planners.

MUSSOLINI'S FATE.

On July 25—two weeks ago last Sunday—Mussolini was thrown out of office. For a few days after his fall the dispatches from Berne, Madrid, Stockholm, and Ankara were filled with reports about his fate. He was on his way to Switzerland. He had fled to Germany. He had been placed under arrest and was being held at a country seat outside Rome. Representations were made in the name of the allies to the various neutral countries in Europe warning them against giving asylum to the man. Since then little has been heard about him, and nothing that can be regarded as authentic.

In a sense, it doesn't make much difference what happens to Mussolini from now on, for as a leader of the Italian people he must be utterly discredited. He led his country into an alliance and a war which cost an empire and a succession of military disasters. The people who for a time worshiped him as a demi-god have been disillusioned beyond any possibility of recovering their faith in him.

Nevertheless it is true that all over the world men crave for information about him. They want to know how the story ends. A great many people who can't remember anything about 18th Brumaire and Leipzig are at no loss to explain the significance of St. Helena. Lucifer's fate is clearly remembered tho the nature of his sin is only half remembered.

Statesmen will not miss the point as it applies to Mussolini. It is important that he receive the right punishment and, more important still, that it be meted out in the right way, for the memory of his end will outlast the memory of his evil deeds.

The right punishment is death and the right means is a trial on the charge of treason to the Italian constitution, at the hands of the Italian people themselves, acting thru their own high courts of justice. If Mussolini is tried and convicted by an allied tribunal the time may come when he will be remembered in Italy as a martyred hero. If he is judged by his own people the chances are that no cult of Mussolini will ever arise to plague the world of our grandchildren.

QUIET, PLEASE.

The national noise abatement council has tossed a bouquet to Chicago for having the outstanding program for noise abatement among the large cities.

This announcement only calls attention to what has been left undone. Tho we have succeeded in quieting down our clangor more effectively than New York, Philadelphia and other cities in our group, we still have a lot of noise to abate.

There is the loop. Street cars crash and bang over crossings everywhere but on Madison street, where the silent streamliners run. The elevated structure is a constant cacophony. Big trucks and buses snarl and grind away from stoplights.

It will take freedom from war time priorities to do anything about the street cars and the elevated. But our noise abatement program should have some suggestion ready for quieting those noisemakers for the time when priorities are lifted.

MEN, WOMEN, AND LUNCHEONS.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Men are better than women 2 to 1 when it comes to selecting nutritious luncheons, the Red Cross reports after peering into thousands of cafeteria trays. Men go in more for milk and milk foods, vegetables, fruits and meats.

While the Red Cross didn't say so, they also go in more for breads, cereals, tea, coffee, milk, beer, fish, poultry, butter, and eggs. In short, they go in more for food.

It is a well known fact that women will not cook just for themselves. Left alone in a house, they nibble left-overs. In time, they would probably starve if the men folks did not return with whopping big appetites for food with some warmth and juice in it.

Lunching out, they are prone to select stuff that can be picked at: frilly cold salads; stuffed olives that can be popped into the mouth without slowing up the conversation any more than if they were so many semicolons; thin slices of bread. The ensemble is not exactly food, but more like an unverified rumor of it.

Men like food they can dive into. They like to make a business of it. Their idea of a land flowing with milk and honey is one where every meal is dinner.

The Red Cross needn't have gone to any trouble to find that out. It could have just asked anybody.

SICILIAN SIDELIGHTS.

The allied advance in Sicily is working toward a town named Patti, but you should not take it for granted that Adelina Patti was born there. Madrid claims that honor.

* * *

Another strong point to be taken in the drive toward Messina is the town of Bronte, but there is no reason to believe that it is the birthplace of Charlotte Brontë, who wrote "Jane Eyre." The father of the literary Brontë sisters came from Ireland where his name was spelled Brunty.

* * *

Sicily was Sikelia to the ancient Greeks and Sicilia to the Romans. Moreover, if you happen to run into the name Tinacria as you browse lightly over the Latin poets, that's Sicily also. This name refers to the three promontories at the corners of the triangular island.

* * *

The boys are not seeing the place at its best in midsummer. The views are always admirable, but March and April are the months for floral displays. . . . If you want to know more than the newspapers are telling you, ask Carl Roden of the public library to pass out a few copies of F. Marion Crawford's "Rulers of the South" [history] and Paton's "Picturesque Sicily" [travel and description]. In editions after 1904 "Rulers of the South" bears another title—"Sicily, Calabria, and Malta."

* * *

Crawford was a great popularizer of Italian scenery among American readers of 50 years ago and more. He wrote a number of novels with Italian backgrounds, such as "Saracinesca," "Sant' Ilario," and "Don Orsino," which form a series. His "Ave Roma Immortalis" has been a standard guidebook for Rome in its pre-Mussolini period, but it contains too much scholarship for the average reader of today.

THE DIZZY YEAR.

Duce's in the lockup, counting hits and errors;
Hitler's at his H. Q., damning the bad news;
Tojo's softly cursing
At how events are worse-ing
In ratio to the terrors of which he lit the fuse.

Shortages, priorities,
And alien minorities
To feed the feuds and fusses of topsy-turvy nations.

Radios shrilling brag-talk; tabloids spewing headlines;
Solons on each corner, generals at each table,
Glibly by catalysis
Engaged in war's analysis,
And fixing V-day deadlines far less by fact than fable.

Laundry isn't back yet; gas tank's drained away;
Towels are shorn and shedding,
Tires implore retreading,
Make-do and endurance are duties of the day.

Here's no place for loafers; the times have turned to riot;
Dreamers better scurry to cover, or decease!
Dismally and dizzily
The old world superbusily
Is searching for the quiet it used to have, called Peace.

Furlough, but Not for Long.

I saw a poem without words. It was on a streetcar. The first verse, in ankle socks and saddle shoes, would have been plain except for the light that shone in her eyes for all the world to see and all the world to brighten, and an indescribably sweet expression about her mouth, rarely seen since the days when mother wore a picture hat. The second verse was in uniform. For him the world was a place of enchantment; the war, when it was real to him, was a chasm between him and the dreams in his eyes. They sat on a rainbow cloud and I could almost hear the music in their hearts.

Of course he held her hand, now and then permitting her to twist her thumb around to feel the ring, or to hold it up so they could admire its shining newness and the little diamond that sent off rays of light just as their faces did. Once in a while she brushed her lips against his cheek in the process of whispering in his ear and, naturally, his answer was given in the same lingering way.

It must have lasted four or five miles and when they left they simply floated away into the darkness, still holding hands. Gee!

POEMS FOR PAM—XVI.

"I have a little shadow
That goes in and out with me"—
No matter where I'm working,
That's where she wants to be.
For when I'm washing dishes,
She tries to help, I think,
By putting all the dry 'ones
Back into the sink.
And when I'm making beds up,
She helps me smooth and then
As soon as I have covers tight
She rips them off again.
She loves to empty baskets;
She loves to wax the chairs;
And she's learned that merely sitting
Does a lot to dust the stairs.
She likes to wash the windows
By licking with her tongue.
O, one is never busier
Than when she's two years young!

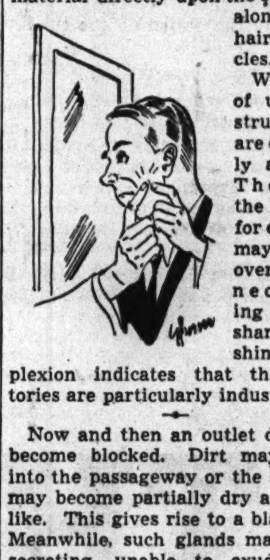
CYSTS AND WENS FROM SKIN GLANDS.

SEBACEOUS or oil glands are found in the skin all over the body except the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet. They usually discharge fatty material directly upon the epidermis alongside hair follicles.



With some of us these structures are extremely active. Those on the scalp, for example, may work overtime — necessitating a daily shampoo. A shiny complexion indicates that these factories are particularly industrious.

Now and then an outlet duct will become blocked. Dirt may crowd into the passageway or the contents may become partially dry and jellylike. This gives rise to a blackhead. Meanwhile, such glands may go on secreting, unable to exude their products. In consequence, the structure will enlarge—with the formation of a cyst.

Forcing out plugs by squeezing will only make a bad situation worse. This is probably the most common cause of enlarged pores. The answer is to keep the outlets open by scrupulous cleanliness. Cosmetics may be obliged to take their share of the blame as, when applied indiscriminately, powders and creams may prevent normal emptying of the oil pockets.

Most of us have known of cases wherein one of these sacs has assumed sizable proportions—an inch or more in diameter. Popularly called "wens," they are especially annoying when they occur on the scalp, the face, behind the ear, or in the region of the lower back. Sometimes they are multiple.

For the most part, they are painless. They are round masses, pinkish in color, and elastic. If the cuticle can be moved, they will travel with it. Inspection with a magnifying glass may disclose the black spot which is the obstructed duct.

Removal is demanded, not only for appearance's sake but because ulceration may ensue. One may go along for years without difficulty when, without warning, the area will become tender, sore, and inflamed. The process, once started, can spread widely.

More often than not, however, the confined pus will burrow to the outside. The cyst then resembles an abscess. The patient may exhibit fever and the amount of prostration will depend upon how much absorption is taking place. Occasionally, invading bacteria will destroy the lining whereupon the cavity becomes obliterated.

Not infrequently purulent material will exude from the opening intermittently. Far more of a scar will follow the dissection required than would have been the case had the lesion been attacked in time. Malignancy cannot be dismissed lightly as, in rare instances, one of these bumps will undergo degeneration.

Skilled surgery is in order with any unsightly mass. The entire sac of the secreting membrane must be extirpated to prevent recurrences. If some of the active producing cells remain a new tumor may appear.

Only when inflammation is present is it wise to make an incision and provide drainage. But this means a two-stage operation and, if possible, this procedure should be avoided. The wisest plan is to get rid of the enlargement before the slightest sign of trouble develops.

NAUSEA FROM SALT.

M. D. L. writes: At each drinking fountain in the defense plant where I work, there is a box of salt tablets and a sign advising the use of 4 to 6 tablets daily. One of these pills makes me sick enough to vomit. None of the other men is bothered this way. What can I do?

REPLY.

The tablets are used to replace minerals lost in perspiration. Heat cramps and other signs of prostration are thus avoided. In your case, the material is too concentrated. It should be mixed with corn sirup [glucose]—2 or 3 tablespoonsful of sirup to ½ teaspoonful of salt. Adding this mixture to a glass of water should abolish your difficulty.

ONE TEST.

H. H. writes: When the injection of air into the brain discloses that a tumor is not present, is this positive proof of its absence?

REPLY.

No—it merely indicates that no growth is pressing upon and hence distorting the ventricles [spaces] within the brain.

VIRUS INFECTION?

C. G. writes: What is this new kind of pneumonia, called "virus"?

REPLY.

A type of inflammation of the lungs caused by a filtrable virus—not a bacillus. As a rule, the infection is stubborn and illness is prolonged. There is no specific treatment. The sulfonamide drugs are rarely helpful.

With lemons getting scarcer here day by day, you may be interested in how the most was made of one lemon taken to London last April by Robert E. Good. Writing to his wife, he said:

"Did I ever tell you what happened to one of those lemons I brought over? I gave one to the wife of the manager of the American club, who is a friend of mine. Instead of eating it she gave it to Victor, the bartender, and he put it on display behind the bar with a collection box. Any one who wanted to smell it or feel it, he charged 3 pence, and this money was to go to the merchant navy fund. In just a few days he had collected over 2 pounds 10 shillings [about $10], so you see what a good cause one of your lemons went for. After a while he sold the lemon in small slices, including the peeling, for dry martinis to some of his special customers."

Religious Note.

From our scout, Roberta, comes the tale of the altar boy in a Chicago church who scurried in from the sacristy in haste, his haste evidenced by the position the back of his stiffly starched surplice had assumed. It formed a single wing in the middle of his back. Smiles were on the faces of many in the congregation, and a 12 year old girl, after failing dismally to suppress her mirth, turned to her companion and whispered, apologetically, "I couldn't help it. I thought of 'Coming In on a Wing and a Prayer'."

All in all, the patrons said they had never sat thru a more realistic movie.

GOV. BRICKER MISQUOTED.

Houston, Tex., Aug. 8.—A few days ago a Mr. Grier of Cincinnati in this column censured Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio for saying in a speech at Lima—so Mr. Grier asserted—that the two major parties are agreed on foreign policy.

I clipped that letter, sent it to Gov. Bricker and asked him if Mr. Grier had quoted him correctly. Gov. Bricker on Aug. 4 replied:

"I am surprised at the letter in The Chicago Tribune. Very frankly, I did not say we were agreed on foreign policy, but did say that both parties are agreed on the war program. I did say that the domestic issues will become more important and the international issues less important politically."

CORN WALLACE AGAIN.

Alton, Ill., Aug. 6.—A century and a half ago when Lord Cornwallis, aide de camp and gentleman of the bedchamber to King George III., stuck his arrogant snout into young America's military affairs at Yorktown, Washington promptly whaled the royal ichor out of him and headed him back across the pond to his beloved king and dear old England. Too bad that the ancestors of some of our present crop of Anglomaniacs, codfish aristocrats and title worshipers didn't go with him, for no man who esteems another country above that from which he gets his daily bread is fit to be buried in its soil, drowned in its waters or hanged on its trees. Many of these elegant vagrants have never forgiven the Almighty for suffering them to be born Americans instead of British subjects.

A century and a half later we are witnessing the sorry spectacle of a home grown Corn Wallace, high executioner of little pigs, third row farmer and eminent New Deal yes man, spewing his venomous spleen upon loyal Americans simply because they have the temerity to criticise his cockeyed "dream world." At his recent Detroit press conference Wallace is reported to have admitted that he is a "practical idealist." Well, it is my opinion that any individual who will advocate the philosophy of scarcity, planned economy and order reduction of agricultural acreage while simultaneously making a fortune growing and selling "hybrid corn," is not only a "practical idealist" but is resorting to the dubious practice of picking the public

PUBLIC DEMAND FORCES BRITISH PRESS FREEDOM

Parliament Helps to Keep Right of Criticism.

BY LARRY RUE.

[London correspondent of The Tribune, home on leave.]

Public reaction, with that of parliament and press, has brought a change in the British government's policy on suspension of civil liberties.

The most dangerous power a legislative body can delegate to an individual in a democracy is that in the hands of Herbert Morrison, minister of home security.

He not only has the authority to arrest and detain any one he suspects of being dangerous to the war effort but has the arbitrary power to suspend any newspaper he might regard as harmful to morale. He exercised this power only once. That was against the Communist Daily Workers and a Communist weekly news letter. Both had denounced the war as imperialistic.

It was before Russia got into the war. The Daily Worker before Christmas, 1940, had told the British soldiers to ignore their officers and go home for the holidays. Morrison was bitterly attacked, not for suppressing the Daily Worker but for doing so under emergency powers which still hang over the British press, when he could have accomplished the same thing thru the normal process of the sedition law.

Daily Mirror Accused.

When the Daily Worker was suspended Morrison also threatened with suspension the Daily Mirror, a tabloid.

The Daily Mirror had fiercely attacked the government. It harpooned British military chiefs as incompetent brass hats capable only of leading the British army from one disaster to another. It signaled out individual ministers for abuse. The final straw came when it published a cartoon captioned "Oil," depicting a gruesome scene of a drowning seaman clinging to the debris of a torpedoed tanker.

The government took the view that the cartoon was designed to discourage sailors from going to sea, altho the Daily Mirror insisted the purpose was to impress upon its readers the importance of saving fuel. While the threat served the government's purpose and forced the Mirror to mend its ways, the reaction was felt thruout the country.

Rumpus in Parliament.

Freedom of the press meetings were held everywhere. Their activities were recorded in the local press and their resolutions forwarded to the prime minister, Morrison, and other cabinet members. The daily press and the weekly periodicals were almost unanimous in their condemnation.

A great rumpus flared up in parliament, and Morrison must include among his most embarrassing moments the time when Aneurin Bevan, Laborite M. P. and editor of the Weekly Tribune, confronted him with his own articles, written before he became a member of the government during the sitskrieg. Published in the Daily Mirror, they denounced the Chamberlain government in hardly less violent language than that which had been used in the Mirror against the government in which he served.

All this had a salutary effect upon the government attitude on the press. There have been no threats since then. Government spokesmen repeatedly speak of the importance of freedom of the press, and Brendan Bracken, minister of information, has frequently said in parliament that he considers freedom of the press as hardly less essential to a democracy than parliament itself.

Morrison has frequently been taken to task, not for his enforcement of regulation 18-B but for his refusal to abrogate that emergency power to imprison a citizen without trial.

Rule Called Unnecessary.

The argument of members of parliament from all sides of the house is that this power is now unnecessary as the threat of invasion has disappeared. While Morrison has insisted on the retention of the regulation, he has modified its enforcement so any one arrested can consult legal counsel, which was heretofore denied. Special inquiries by members of parliament regarding certain individuals have resulted in releases.

Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, has the authority to call up any able bodied man or woman between certain ages and direct them to any job he may designate. But in enforcing this power he has used gloves.

Thus on the home and labor fronts in England democracy fights for its existence and prevails in spite of delegation of dictatorial powers to executive authority.

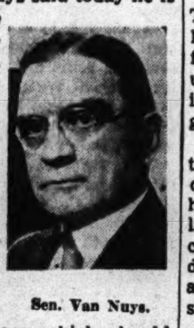
SEN. VAN NUYS TO RUN AGAIN 'IF THEY WANT ME'

State Chairman's Action Defied.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 11.—Sen. Frederick Van Nuys said today he is receptive to the Democratic renomination for a third term if the rank and file want him. He said he has never been a "rubber stamp" and that the Republican upsurge last November was a protest by the general public against phases of New Deal burocracy which should be cleaned up.



Sen. Van Nuys.

On a fourth term for President Roosevelt, the senator remarked he opposed a third term and is against a fourth term. "I am willing to give the President credit for a lot of things," he said, "but am opposed to a fourth term as I was to a third. We have a resolution in judiciary committee to limit the Presidency to two terms. It would not affect President Roosevelt, as it takes time to get a constitutional amendment adopted."

He added in reply to a question: "If the war is still on it is possible he can be elected."

Against Drafting Fathers.

Sen. Van Nuys says he is against drafting fathers until New Deal burocracy in Washington and elsewhere is reduced and eligibles put in the army.

Van Nuys' willingness to run indicates a battle over the Democratic senatorship nomination. Gov. Henry F. Schricker, the only Democratic state official, is regarded as a candidate either for senator or for the Vice Presidency. The governor's friends in district meetings are adopting resolutions indorsing him "for higher office."

In his press conference today, Sen. Van Nuys criticized State Chairman Fred F. Bays for his activities in Schricker's behalf. "The function of a state chairman is to elect, and not to nominate," he said. "That is axiomatic in politics."

Plans Grassroots Tour.

In the next three weeks the senator says he is going out into the state, tapping grassroot opinion on activities in congress past and pending, and on affairs in general.

"My activities here and in Washington will depend on how the rank and file are talking," he said.

Discussing reasons for the Republican upsurge last November, the senator said:

"Rationing and censorship were unpopular and undemocratic, as administered. We can do away with a lot of surplus employes. We have 30,000 federal employes, including alphabetical agencies, in Indiana. Washington is full of them. Yet they talk of drafting fathers. If Washington were cleaned out, we'd get enough eligibles to fill up the army. I'm opposed to drafting fathers until we make this cleanup. That, I believe is the opinion of a majority of congress."

Regimentation, burocracy and government by questionnaire, were matters against which voters protested last fall, Van Nuys declared.

MUSIC FESTIVAL TO TELL OF WAR WITH FIREWORKS

Invasion of Sicily Will Be Flashed in Sky.

TICKET SALE.

Reserved seat tickets for the 14th Annual Chicago Music Festival, to be held in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 21, are on sale at 55 cents and $1.10 at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and in the lobby of Tribune Tower. Mail orders are accepted. Checks or money orders should be made payable to Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Men and women, even the most mature and dignified of them, retain something of the small boy or the little girl in their make-up. Nothing brings this out better than a display of fireworks. When the rockets go zooming up and the sky is filled with a thousand shooting stars, the graying philosopher and the stately dowager are quite likely to join their own "oohs" and "ahs" to those of the breathless youngsters around them.

Fireworks Plans Told.

Yesterday Frank P. Duffield of Thearle-Duffield Fireworks, Inc., outlined his plans for the 14th annual festival to be held a week from Saturday in Soldiers' field. It looks as if this year's fireworks display is going to surpass all its predecessors.

For Duffield is planning a pictorial representation of the invasion of Sicily. The audience will see heavy bombers softening up the island's defenses, battleships and cruisers edging shoreward in the darkness, and tanks and mortars and artillery and infantry units smashing thru enemy strongholds.

A lighter touch will be provided by comedy numbers based on the careers of Benito Mussolini and Adolf Hitler. Duffield promises a real Russian bear to chase Hitler.

Canada To Be Honored.

Canada and the Royal Canadian Air Force units participating in the festival will be honored by a gigantic maple leaf, the symbol of Canada, etched in fire. There will be a great service flag with a blue star representing the men and women of the Chicago district who have entered the services and a gold star representing those who have fallen.

At the close of the display, when the orchestra is playing "The Star Spangled Banner" and 90,000 people are singing, bomb shells of every type and color will burst upward and the American flag will appear in the sky in fiery red, white and blue.

Some technical details of the display: There will be more than five miles of fuses and 60,000 individual lances [color tubes for the various designs]. The pictorial matter to be included in the show will total 15,000 square feet. The number of shooting stars will run into the millions. The gigantic display will be electrically controled from a central keyboard.

No War Materials Used.

Duffield stressed the fact that the type of chemicals and powder to be used in the display do not classify as critical materials, so the spectacle substracts nothing from the stores necessary for the war.

The fireworks display will close an extraordinary evening of pageantry and music among whose principal features will be army, WAC, navy and marine bands, entertainers, and drill teams; giant choruses; an operatic spectacle; community singing; an ancient automobile pageant, and appearances by the man and woman singer who win top places in the contests preceding the festival.

'L' SPOKESMAN SEEKS DELAY ON LOOP TRANSFERS

Difficulties which he said would make it impossible to set up a system of loop transfers between the new subway and other transportation agencies by Oct. 1 were outlined at an Illinois Commerce commission hearing yesterday by Harry Roberts, engineer for the elevated lines. The city has asked transfer points in the loop as the only means to benefit west, southwest, and northwest side riders of the 60 million dollar subway.

"The extension to the loop is a radical change from the present interchange methods," Roberts said. The elevated lines have no way to control the direction of travel once a passenger has paid his fare. The danger of round tripping on one fare is greatest in the loop."

Roberts said that it is impossible to obtain time stamping devices now, under the priorities system, for the elevated and subway stations in the loop. He proposed transfer points on the subway at five points outside the loop; at North avenue, Division street, State street at Chicago and Grand avenues, and Roosevelt road.

The examiners, James R. Clark and Howard West, suggested that the companies, the city and the commission each send an engineer to a series of conferences beginning this morning. The engineers are to report to the commission next Tuesday.

Thru the Looking Glass

One of our favorite suggestions as a gift for the girl going off to board at school is what a specialist in the problems of the young skin calls her "dormitory chest." This contains an excellent liquid soap—exactly right, we've found, for keeping the youthful skin exquisitely clean, which is the first requisite for its health and beauty. It's not strong, but it's efficient. There is also an overnight cream, to help keep the skin soft. The difference between this and many other night creams is that it is not too rich—it's a good lubricant but not so rich that it overburdens the skin that usually has a youthful tendency to be more oily than dry.

Then there is a protective lotion, in this case an antiseptic lotion that helps prevent eruptions and also helps heal them if they do rear their ugly little heads. There is also an excellent scalp lotion, to help keep it toned and clean. This is of special importance to the college girl, who wants beautiful hair above all other beauty gifts.

Also in the chest are face powder and lipstick, which constitute about as much makeup as the average college girl uses.

The whole set, neatly assembled, is surprisingly inexpensive. Its great value, tho, is that every preparation is created especially for the young skin, with thoro understanding of the difficulties that beset the adolescent's complexion.

Summer Holds Several Perils for Youngsters

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

One of the ways in which experience as a mother proves to be a great help is in connection with the hazards that lie in wait for eager, active little children. Many accidents, some really serious, can be prevented by forethought, by vigilance, and by the warnings of those who have brought up children.

Summer, with all its delights, has some special perils, especially for the young child who is given a good deal of freedom. For the mother who isn't aware of these, or who has not yet learned how quick and curious a small boy or girl can be, a few hints may be helpful.

Probably the biggest need for watchfulness comes around water.

A lake, a pond, or even a deep brook is no place to let a little girl or boy play without a grownup eye upon him or her. I've probably told you of the time I stood at the edge of a small swimming pool filled with people and suddenly noticed the top of a little boy's head near me, his hair spread out on the surface. It was a moment before I realized he was on the point of drowning and that I was the only person near enough to pull him out in time.

So whether it's a big surf that can roll them over, or a river that may have a current, or a pond with a quick drop at the edge, watch your children near water.

There are other summer hazards. Quickmud or quicksand is one. Farm implements and some farm animals are dangerous to children.

Poison ivy is a much underrated menace. It can produce weeks of real misery for any human being. Its cure and even its relief are problematical. Prevention is the motto. And the first step in prevention consists of recognizing the villainous plant when you see it.

Record 20,000 Hail Symphony in Grant Park

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

The largest crowd of the Grant park season, about 20,000 people, welcomed the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night when it opened its series of four free concerts under the direction of Hans Lange. Deeply tanned from his vacation in New Mexico, Mr. Lange apparently felt energetic enough to cope with one of his favorite symphonies, the temperamental Sibelius Second, in D major. He gave it a strong and beautiful performance, particularly in the first movement, which had the sensitivity and splendor of music heard in midseason at Orchestra hall.

There was in it the feeling of something hewn out of granite, and yet something so completely under control the plan of action was never in doubt. It had the curious Sibelius quality of changing textures, in strings that thickened and thinned, and in the restless murmur of winds and brass that sometimes rose to a whinny of defiance. As the symphony progressed, the wind played tag with acoustics, but in spite of minor difficulties the music moved steadily thru beauty to completion. You could understand the composer's insistence that for him music began where words ceased.

With the orchestra in such admirable form, a standard program had nothing to fear. The concert opened with Weber's Overture to "Oberon," and signed off with favorites by Grieg, Mendelssohn, and Liszt.

"MUSIC FOR AMERICANS."
Produced by Wilding Picture Productions, Inc. Presented at Grand Theater by The Chicago Tribune.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Far be it from me to toot our own horn, BUT——

"Music for Americans," highlighting main events of the 13th annual Chicago Music festival at Soldiers' field last Aug. 15, is an interest and thrill packed 22 minute movie that I know none of you will want to miss.

If you were at the festival—you'll want to relive the experience. If you weren't there, the camera takes care of it for you this time, and what it shows will fill you with a mighty determination not to miss another Chicago Music festival.

Banked against the night skies, music lovers by the thousand watch the spectacle in the arena. . . . Eyes stern, eyes shining with tears watch the induction into the navy of a company of recruits. . . . There comes the deep roar of many voices singing as one—"The Old Flag Never Touched the Ground" . . . The Great Lakes Naval Training station choir sings "The Old Rugged Cross." The navy band plays—and the audience sways to the music.

The picture closes with a match lighting ceremony, beautiful and impressive—and the voice of Philip Maxwell, who each year has conducted the festival:

"One match is not much alone—but altogether we can fire a beacon that will light the world . . ." [or words to that effect].

"We're Going Back to Bataan!" cries a title. . . . And the picture is over. . . .

So much in such a little while, tucked in between the Grand's feature films, "They've Got Me Covered," with Dorothy Lamour and Bob Hope, and "The Falcon Strikes Back," with Tom Conway. Your money's worth—I'm telling you.

See you soon.

Out of County Vocal Contest Attracts 107

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

One of the largest vocal contests ever held in one session will be staged Friday night, Aug. 20, when 107 singers will be heard in the out-of-Cook county tryouts of the 14th annual Chicago Music Festival. The auditions will start at 7 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Drake hotel, and Mrs. Edmund J. Tyler, chairman of the festival's vocal contests, says that the last of the 10 vocal divisions will not be heard until after 10 o'clock. The average number of contestants heard in Cook county sectional contests was around 70 vocalists.

The singers will come from 62 cities in 11 states. They all hope to sing in Soldiers' field the following night before 90,000 spectators, but only four will be presented, the two men and two women chosen by competent judges. The four will sing it out underneath the summer stars, accompanied by the festival symphony orchestra directed by Henry Weber.

The public is invited to the out-of-town contests. Admission is 30 cents, including tax.

The judges at the Drake hotel will be Nelli Gardini, Edwin Kemp, and Lillian Rosedale Goodman. Mrs. Goodman, who judged in THE TRIBUNE's first festival vocal contest in 1930, is stopping over in Chicago for the contests en route from a New York visit to her home in California.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Emma W., Chicago—Long ago I formed the habit of doing some outdoor sprinkling of clothes on summer days when the wind was high and the clothes seemed to dry before I could turn around. I took my garden hose, turned on a fine spray, and gave the garments a light spraying while they were still hanging on the line. This was a time saver, since clothes needed no resprinkling, only had to be rolled tightly to wait ironing.

Edna H., Elgin, Ill.—Wonder when rakes will be designed so that if one is lying on the ground and you unfortunately step on its teeth, it won't fly up and hit you?

Mrs. Tom G., Evanston—I use an ordinary pair of pliers when my clothes line develops a hard-to-remove knot. And if you want to make a new clothes line last longer, boil it for a short time in quite soapy water.

Harvest Festival Aids Take Time Out for Brief Holidays

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE women who are making plans for the Lake Forest Garden club's harvest fair on Sept. 10 and 11 at Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster's Lake Forest home are dividing up their work this month so that some may go away on short holidays without disrupting the smooth flow of preparations. Mrs. Albert Day Farwell has gone to Huron Mountain, Mich., with her family, including Mrs. John Haight, the former Edith Farwell, who has returned for the duration as Lt. Haight has gone overseas.

Mrs. B. Botsford Young is at a western ranch with her young sons, but will be at home and back in harness by Sunday. Mrs. Knight C. Cowles and her husband are going with the Philip W. Moores to Spring Lake for a week. Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr. and her husband are going to the Coleman Lake club again for another little holiday. Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy has returned from Coleman Lake. The Roy Sturtevants are leaving this week for their summer home in New Hampshire and the Howard W. Fentons are leaving shortly for Murray Bay.

Mrs. Frederick A. Preston, general chairman of the show, and the committee have decided to serve a buffet luncheon on the terrace of Thomas E. Donnelley's home, adjoining that of the Brewsters. It is one of three neighboring estates that will be open for a garden walk during the fair. Another is Mrs. Cudahy's, in whose bay tree house the flower arrangements will be placed.

Huron Mountain Club's Summer Colony Grows.

The summer colony at the Huron Mountain club in Michigan has been growing steadily. Mrs. Laird Bell went north last night to join her daughter, Miss Margaret Bell, and other members of the family are expected later, among them Flight Lt. and Mrs. Geoffrey de Freitas and their little daughter, Frankie, of Dayton, O. The former Natalie Bell and her husband, Lt. Samuel Brown of the army air forces, are in Dover, Del.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur A. Burrows Jr. have just returned from the club, where they spent a couple of weeks with Mrs. Burrows' stepmother, Mrs. Paul S. Moyer. She and her sons, John Millet and Paul Moyer Jr., are spending the summer there.

The Arthur Dixons and their daughters, Emily and Betsy, are leaving this week for the Huron Mountain club. Emily attends Milton academy and Betsy is a student at the Ethel Walker school.

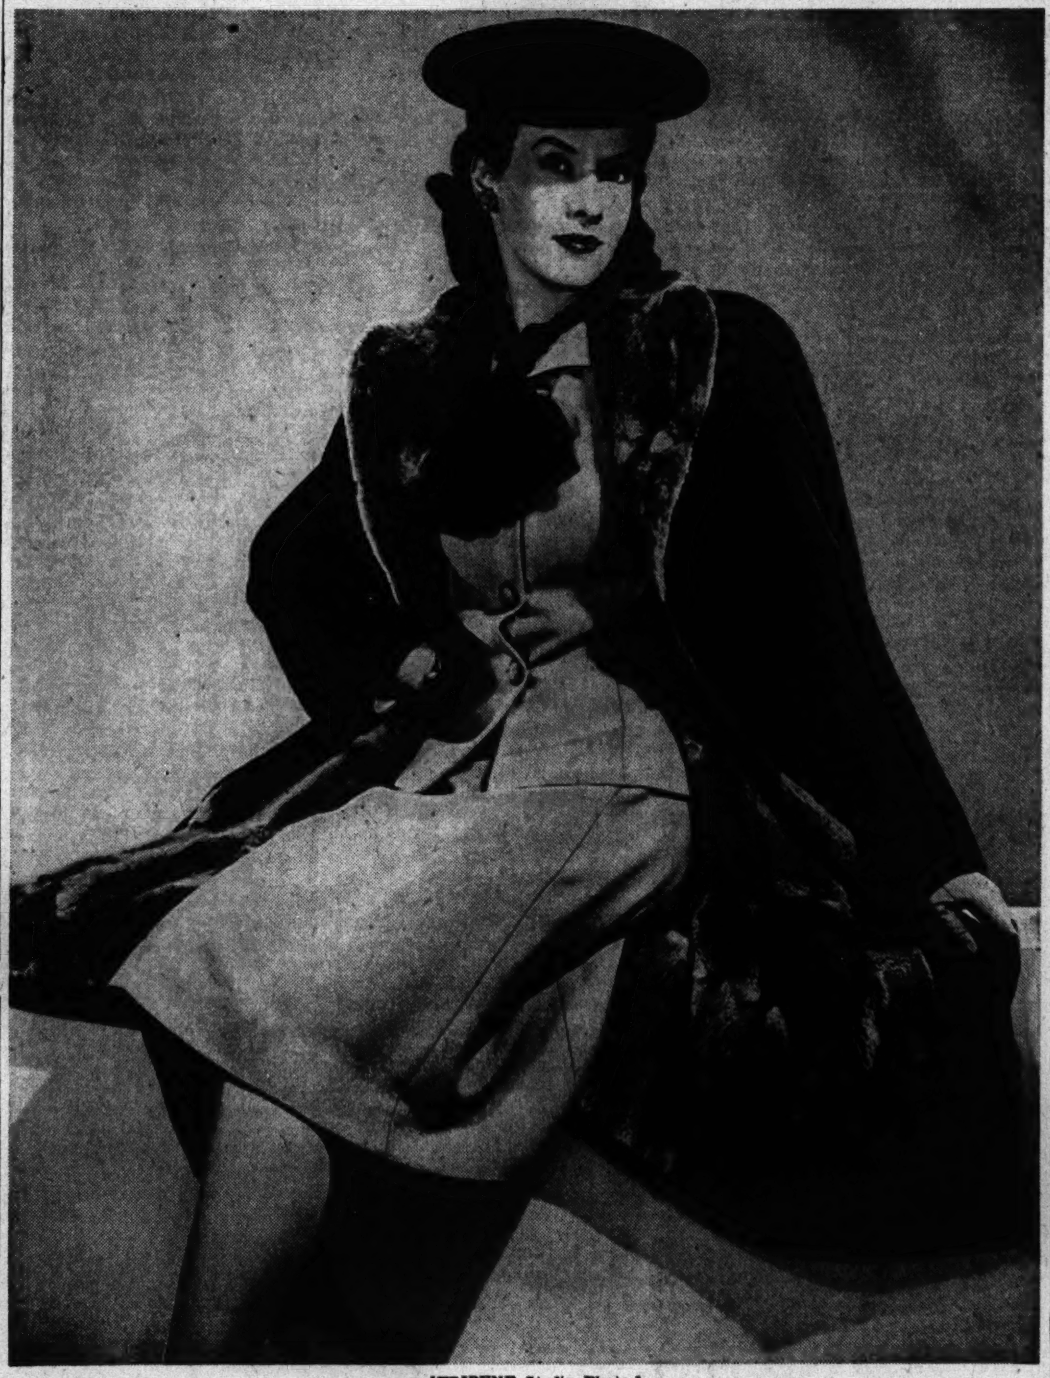
Leach-Nebel Wedding to Take Place Aug. 21.

On Aug. 21, the day after he expects to receive his commission at Tower Hall as an ensign in the naval reserve, Lindsay Woodcock Leach, son of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Leach, will take Miss Marion Nebel as his bride. The ceremony will be held at 8:30 p. m. in the Joseph Bond chapel, with a reception following at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Nebel, in Beverly Hills.

As neither of his brothers, Sgt. Arthur Leach and Lt. William Leach, can be here for the ceremony, Mr. Leach will have George Flannagan, a classmate at Tower Hall, as best man. Mr. Leach's stepbrother, Lt. Don G. Petty, will not be here either. Mrs. William E. McKinney, the bridegroom's sister, will come from Detroit, however, and the bridegroom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Stone, will be here from Mosinee, Wis.

From their Jack Rabbit ranch at Dayton, Wyo., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Luther Odell, formerly of Highland Park, have sent word of the marriage on Aug. 1 of their daughter, Frances Odell Chappell, to Harold Leat Arney. The ceremony took place on the ranch lawn with only the families present. After a short wedding trip Mr. Arney and his bride returned to the ranch to reside.

Even a Coat May Have Its Silver Lining



[TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

Sturdy standby of any wardrobe is a warm, fur lined wool coat. The silver lining effect here is achieved with carefully blended silver muskrat pelts to contrast with the smooth wool fabric exterior. Both black and brown wool or red, green, and bright blue are effective shades to dramatize the fur's beauty. The coat and small tam-beret are available in a Chicago store.

Success Story of Fall Coat in Its Fur Lining

BY REA SEEGER.

The inside success story of the new fall coats is in their fur linings. Whether the coats are short lengths, reaching just below the knees, full length swaggers, or semi-fitted in streamline, its the linings that make the fashion excitement.

Short furs are ideal, for warmth without bulk is assured. Flat furs like caracul, silver muskrat, persian lamb, nutria, sealskin, kolinsky, civet cat, and mink are linings particularly handsome foils for dull black, dark gray, crimson, sage green, cinnamon brown, and dark brown wool fabrics.

Outer woolen fabrics are smooth and suede like, but there are enough semi-rough textures and very stunning tweeds available to assure an ample assortment for careful selection. The tweeds are most effective in soft beige and green tones, dramatized with soft, silky nutria. The full lining is of nutria with the front facings ready to wear turned over as a long, flattering tuxedo collar.

The most sensational effects are worked, with dyed lapin, zebra, and leopard patterns being shown in the trick stencil jobs. The zebra is positively blinding, but tellingly effective as a contrast to black, dark brown, dark green, and red. The same contrast is worked with leopard, the leopard stenciled lapin being especially smart.

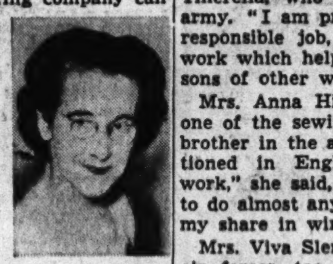
Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

The women employed by the Scholl Manufacturing company can justifiably feel that their contribution to the materials of war is a direct one. With their nimble fingers, sharp eyes, and infinite patience they make sparkling white rayon parachutes which are attached to bombs released from planes flying at low altitude over enemy targets.



Marguerite Fischer.

These women in war work also fashion the leather and khaki cotton suspension parts for metal helmets worn by men in combat. Helmets thus equipped by Scholl employes have been found in battle areas in Tunisia, the South Pacific, the Aleutians, New Zealand, and other far-flung regions.

Dressed in simple white uniforms, and working under fluorescent lights, women in the parachute department see their product thru from cutting to final packing. The devices begin as sheets of rayon fabric many feet long, which are cut according to pattern, then stitched on double and four-needle machines, with black and white nylon thread.

Other women trim and inspect the seamed 'chutes, and still others attach the shroud lines of rayon cord. Following the final inspection, the 'chutes are packed into cardboard tubes for shipment elsewhere, after which they are inserted securely into cans.

In the helmet department, which won the army-navy "E" for Scholl last February because of the excellence of the product and the speed with which the employes made their assigned quota, women cut, snap-fasten, and eyelet the chin straps and suspension parts which are subsequently sent away, carefully packed, to be inserted into the metal helmets.

The Scholl company entered war work in May, 1942, and since then the firm's employment of women has risen approximately 30 per cent. Altho many of the women had previous experience on commercial sewing machines, most of them have been trained on the job.

Forelady of the day shift in the parachute department is Mrs. Mary Tinerella, who has a son in the army. "I am proud of having this responsible job, and proud to do work which helps my own son and sons of other women," she said.

Mrs. Anna Hilton, who operates one of the sewing machines, has a brother in the army air forces, stationed in England. "I like my work," she said, "and I am willing to do almost anything to contribute my share in winning the war."

Mrs. Viva Slenker's son is in the air forces, too, and she feels the parachutes she helps to make are an essential product.

An employe of the helmet department, Mrs. Gertrude Struck does more than the average woman to aid in the war. She hold a full time job at Scholl's and in her leisure hours is a volunteer with the Red Cross, her local draft board, and her OCD block organization, of which she is the head. She also sells war bonds and stamps and often is found making and serving coffee in the early morning hours when a group of draftees leave the local selective service board office.

Working in the 'chute department during her three month vacation is a school teacher from Minnesota, Miss Marguerite C. Fischer, who usually spends the summer in Chicago, and this year decided to work for the war instead of idling her vacation away.

WACs Acquire Skills for Use in Civilian Life

War time service and training in skills that will be economically useful in peace time are dual inducements in the current nation-wide Women's Army corps recruiting drive which seeks to enroll women for 155 essential army jobs to release men for active duty. This is the view of Capt. Margaret Stewart, chief of recruiting in the Illinois area with headquarters in room A913 at 175 West Jackson boulevard.

The campaign is directed at women of 20 to 49, inclusive, without children under 14 or other dependents. The service offers opportunities for the kind of training that might one day result in catching the eye of a prospective husband as well as of the candidate herself, Capt. Stewart says. For instance, it provides a future for a girl who joins the WAC and learns to cook. Or, it gives the final word of a well known argument to the woman who joins the WAC and learns to drive a car, correct army fashion!

But a WAC future that may range from cryptanalyst to radio repairman, from flight surgeon's assistant to spot welder, is best exemplified by what women actually in the WAC are learning and doing, Capt. Stewart explains.

Working at the post laboratory at Fort Sheridan is Corp. Norma Bibby, 24 years old, of Buffalo, N. Y., a dental assistant in civilian life. Assigned to the same work in the WAC, she has been able to specialize in prosthetics [making false teeth], a skill that probably will give her a better position in civilian life.

Corp. Henrietta Wilson Robinson, 22, former Deer River, Minn., bookkeeper and bank teller, is now a cook in the Fort Sheridan WAC kitchen. Her training at the Fort Des Moines school for cooks and bakers will fit her for civilian positions in large hotels and restaurants, she says, not to mention planning church suppers. She thinks she may like to continue cooking as a vocation.

The 155 army jobs for the WAC are divided into eight major types: Technical and professional, radio, communications, mechanical trade and manual, administrative and office, motor vehicle drivers, food, and supply and stock. Typical of the inherent opportunities in each class is the breakdown of the first class, technical and professional, into 10 general headings, ranging from medical to miscellaneous.

Besides age requirements, WAC applicants must be physically fit American citizens, able to pass a mental alertness test. The pay scale is the same as that of the army—$50 a month base pay for a private ranging up to $138 base pay for top noncommissioned officer, a master sergeant. Base pay for commissioned officers begins at $150 for second lieutenants.

A large booth in the lobby of 175 West Jackson boulevard simplifies recruiting. There a woman can get information, make out, and sign an application. Processing [mental and physical examinations] of all WACs in the Illinois area takes place in room A601 of the same building. Training is given in one of the three centers—Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Fort Des Moines, Ia., or Daytona Beach, Fla.

Sally Requests More and More Baby Furniture

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

Appeals for baby furniture of all kinds are increasing daily. Many needy parents are finding it impossible to provide beds and buggies for their infants, and we hope that readers who have such items on hand will let us place them.

Miss S., a case worker on the south side, has requested a baby bed for a baby who is now a month old and has outgrown her basket. The mother is entirely dependent upon an assisting agency for support because the father deserted the family. The agency is providing rent and food and medical care, but has asked our help in locating a bed.

Pvt. G., now in training in the city, has appealed for a discarded play pen for his baby. His wife and child live on the south side, and he will be happy to call for a pen if one is available.

Mrs. W. is the mother of a boy, 5, and twin babies aged 14 months. She has a very limited income and is unable to purchase a buggy for the twins, who have not started to walk. It is difficult for the mother to take them out for the fresh air and sunshine and the regular trip to the infant welfare clinic which they should have. This address is also on the south side but we have similar requests from all parts of the city.

"THE LIFT THAT NEVER LETS YOU DOWN"

Makes you believe in Miracles

You believe in miracles when you wear PERMA☆LIFT Bras: for a miracle has happened at the base of the bra-cup where a patented cushion inset softly lifts your bosom, holds that firm rounded contour, never becomes limp or lax through seasons of washing and wear. Kiss the bras good-bye that put red ridges on your pretty shoulders. There's neither bone, bulk nor pull in PERMA☆LIFT's gentle support. Bra and bandeau styles $1.25 to $2.50. Long-Line models $2 and $2.50 at leading corset departments. A. Stein and Company, Chicago, New York, Los Angeles.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11. — Some day we'll do the life of Jesse Lasky. He's the only producer I know who can get other producers to play themselves in his pictures. In "Rhapsody in Blue," George White plays himself, ditto Rouben Mamoulian. I'm sure George Gershwin would be mighty happy with the job Robert Alda is doing. He looks a bit like Cary Grant, has Gershwin's warmth and charm. When Jesse wrote Max Dreyfus asking permission to use him, he got word back "Certainly, but you must cast a distinguished looking man to play me." So Charles Coburn was signed. Coburn, as Max, in the Turkish bath owned by Gershwin's father' says, "George, meet George," meaning White and Gershwin.

Another Big Boss.

When Eddie Marr was set to impersonate Buddy de Sylva, Buddy had him over to lunch to get his mannerisms. As he left Buddy said, "Don't forget to wear a white carnation. I always do." . . . Jesse Lasky ran into Cary Grant a few days ago. Cary said, "I can never be grateful enough to you, Jesse, for bringing me to this country." "What?" "Sure you did. Remember the Pender troupe of stilt walkers you brought over for the Folies Bergere in 1911? I was the little one on the end. When we walked across the Fulton stage I went right up into the flies. Nobody could see me. But that was me!"

Always Ready.

That lovable old rascal, J. C. Nugent, will produce his new play, "That Old Devil," first for the Brentwood service men's theater. . . . The Sam Goldwyns intend to spend two or three months in the east this fall—first to be near young Sammy, who's in school there, and for special exploitation on "North Star" and "Up In Arms." . . . Paulette Goddard will be called our Turkey Girl come Christmas. She's raisin' 'em for her Hollywood friends. . . . Mickey Rooney's playing around with the ball of fire girl—Lorraine Miller. . . . Dorothy Lamour brought back from Baltimore the old Howard family cookbook, started in 1857. She knows how to make a man happy. . . . Hugh Dillman is in town for a few weeks' rest. . . . Dinah Shore wants to buy a house, so she's been up to her neck in agents, who can't understand why she won't have a swimming pool. Dinah's afraid folks back home in Nashville will think she's gone Hollywood. Don't worry, she never will.

Lorraine Miller.

Will Be Done.

With winter coming on, exhibitors and producers got together and started a campaign to raise funds for places to sleep for service men on leave. So when you're asked to donate at a favorite theater remember every penny goes toward providing a bed for a lonely soldier—not only in Hollywood but all up and down the coast. Money raised in theaters will be matched by funds from the state government. No longer will our men in uniform be compelled to sleep in parks, hotel lobbies, or railway stations. You've been asked to give for many things, but never for a cause closer to every one's heart. This is for our own boys.

Coo and Woo.

Twentieth Century is paging Dorothy McGuire. Otto Preminger wants her for "Army Wife." But whether she'll leave her honeymoon nest in Phoenix, Ariz., to do it is anybody's guess. . . . Well, what do you know! William Saroyan wrote the foreword to Judith Allen's "My Eyes Still Shine." . . . Peter McDonald, a comic on the radio program, "Can You Top That?" got a hurry call from Paramount. On the way to be interviewed he stopped off at the Lambs for a haircut. A Paramount executive took a gander at McDonald's bristling dome, and he'll be cast as a Nazi menace in "Hitler's Gang."

SYNOPSIS: Before escaping into a craft, after the siege of Dunkirk, from which he comes thru without a scratch, Ronnie Banks rifles the person of a lifeless figure. On his arrival in London he evades his comrades, visits a tea shop, and goes thru the note cases taken from the unknown man left on the beach. He finds money, a card with an intriguing address, and letter, and immediately takes possession of Alan Conyer's flat and identity. He engages in a romance with a wealthy Argentine widow, Maria de Santos, who lives next door.

INSTALMENT IV.
A VISIT.

Ronnie's mother had been sitting in the kitchen over a bit of a fire and the evening paper. Shortly she was going to have a bite of supper before going to bed.

She looked a little smaller and considerably older than when he had seen her last, and her hair was white, not merely streaked with gray. Tears of joy were glistening in her eyes and her mouth kept trembling.

"Were you in the army? I—we didn't know for sure, altho I had a couple of cards from you. O, my boy, it's good to have you back again! Are you well? You weren't wounded, were you? Are you hungry? Would you be wanting some supper? Have you come home to stay?"

He put his arms around her and patted her hands, as he cautiously answered her questions.

He wasn't exactly in the army, he said. Something much more important than that, which he couldn't even tell her about. She must take her Bible oath, he said, not to mention to any living soul that she had so much as set eyes on him.

She smiled happily thru her tears, and exclaimed over the box of chocolates and the cheap handkerchiefs he had brought her.

And then suddenly she remembered a dreadful thing that had happened during the winter—something she would have to tell him and that would hurt him terribly. All his life her tenderness had tried to shield him from any sort of pain.

Again her lips quivered and her eyes were brimming.

"What is it, Mum?" he asked, quick to notice. "You're not in any trouble, are you? I mean, you're getting your bit of money all right?"

"O, no everything's fine, my boy. Except—well, you'll have to know, I'm afraid. It was in—sometime in December, just before Christmas—Goldie came to see me——"

He jumped to his feet, his face hard and angry.

"You didn't let her in, I hope."

"I—I had to, Ronnie. The baby, poor little tad—he'd been took sick with the flu and died. She hadn't enough to bury him with."

"O?" He jerked his chin up, and his voice was still hard. "So . . . little Alfie's gone! Well, Goldie hasn't got any hold at all on me, now."

"She's still you wife, Ronnie."

His mother was quick to reassure him.

"Indeed I'm not, and never did, as you know. I could never bear Goldie, after the way she roped you in the way she did. I was glad, I must say, when you left her. A girl with a temper like that—and always casting the blame on you because you couldn't provide her with all kinds of luxuries, such as she'd never been used to. I said I never wanted to see her again, and I meant it, but——"

"Did you give her any money?" he asked.

"You wouldn't want your baby—my grandson—to be buried by charity, would you? Goldie's father didn't leave a brass farthing when he pegged out. I thought you'd be cut up about poor little Alfie. I was dreading to tell you."

"I am," said Ronnie. "I don't always show my feelings, Mum. Sometimes they're too deep. Have you seen Goldie again?"

"Well, a couple of times since, she's come around."

"What for? More money, I suppose!"

"No, she's paying me back what I gave her. I didn't ask her to, but she says she wants to."

"More than likely she wants to find out about me—see if she can get her hooks on me again. What's she doing—did she say?"

"She's got a job in a West End cafe—she told me."

Suddenly the vision of Maria de Santos floated into Ronnie's consciousness, and he realized that he couldn't very well spend the night here after all. Like Goldie, he surmised that she, too, had a temper and would require a lot of explanations as to why he had so coolly walked out on her this evening.

He had a snack of bread and cheese and cocoa with his mother, and discovering that it was quite convenient, borrowed £5 from her. He said sometimes his pay was held up, and as a rule his expenses, in the difficult job he had, were heavy.

Mum understood; she always did. She said she could easily let him have the money, because that was exactly the sum Goldie had paid her back—money she had never expected to see again.

But she was tearful and clinging when he came to say good-by, reminding him that she wasn't getting any younger, and complaining of recent heart attacks.

Ronnie was moved. He had noticed that she didn't look very well, and that she had aged, and his affection for her was quite genuine. He could take a risk for her sake, and anyway it wasn't much of a one.

He gave her another of those visiting cards which Mr. Alan Conyers had had inscribed with his name and the address at 142 Emberly court.

"Look'ee," he said, "if ever you want me in a hurry, this'll find me. Half a mo'—I'll just jot down the telephone number. . . . Take care of this, Mum."

"But son——?"

"No questions asked." He laid a finger to the side of his nose. "Didn't I tell you that my job's important and strictly private?"

"O, my boy, don't think I'd ask questions! I'm so proud of you. I always knew you'd get somewhere in this world. I wish Dad was alive. I'd like to show him what a boy we've got. I wish he could see you now, Ronnie. I know he'd be proud in spite of everything."

"The old man never got me right," said Ronnie, "but you did. A mother is a boy's best friend—and don't I know it! See you again before long. And mind you take care of yourself."

He had left his bag with her, giving her strict instructions to put it away carefully in the cupboard of the little bedroom he used to occupy. He also reminded her once more not to mention to Goldie—should the girl turn up again— that he had been here, and to guard well that card he had left with her. The card was only to be used in an emergency, and upon its misuse, perhaps even his very life would depend.

Canned Tuna and Salmon More Plentiful

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Much more canned salmon and tuna has been made available for civilian use recently, altho prices on these sea foods can't be said to be moderate, and ration points for them come out of the stamps allowed for meats and butter.

Canned salmon and tuna often are one of the best investments in surplus red points at the end of a ration period. These foods are high in protein value and rich in minerals. In addition, they contain important amounts of vitamin A and thiamin.

Never drain a can of tuna or salmon. Utilize all of the oil and juice in which they are packed, for it is high in food value and it would be a shameful thing, these days, to waste it. Oil can be used as the basis for a white sauce to be served with the fish. Or it can be blended with cooked salad dressing to be used in tuna or salmon salads.

Every can of fish which we open should be used carefully so that the good flavor goes far and none of it is wasted.

Baked Salmon and Green Beans.
[Serves four.]
½ 1-pound can salmon
3 cups cooked green beans
1 cup thick sour cream, or
1 cup medium white sauce
Salt, paprika

Place green beans in greased baking dish. Break salmon into pieces over them. Add sour cream or white sauce, seasoned with salt and paprika. Bake in a 400 degree oven until thoroly hot, about 20 minutes.

Here's what you can do with the other half can of salmon, for a later meal.

Salmon Salad.
[Serves four.]
½ 1-pound can salmon, broken into pieces
1 cup cooked peas or cut green beans
½ cucumber, peeled and diced
½ green pepper, chopped
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 hard cooked eggs, diced
Mayonnaise to moisten
Greens

Toss ingredients together with mayonnaise or cooked dressing diluted with sour cream and serve on leaf lettuce, chicory, chopped spinach, or watercress.

Deviled Tuna in Shells.
[Serves four.]
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced green pepper
½ cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons cooking oil
½ can tomato soup
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Salt, black pepper
1 cup flaked tuna
½ cup bread crumbs
2 tablespoons margarine
4 slices lemon, paprika

Cook onion, green pepper, and celery in oil until lightly browned. Add soup and seasonings, then tuna. Mix well and place in baking shells. Top with crumbs sauteed in the margarine. On top of each serving place a thin slice of lemon sprinkled with paprika. Bake until brown, about 15 minutes, at 400 degrees.

Tuna-Chicken Loaf.
[Serves four.]
1 can condensed chicken soup
1 small can tuna
1½ cups soft bread crumbs
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 unbeaten eggs

Strain soup and add solids to tuna. Put the combination thru the food chopper, then mix with liquid, crumbs, and other ingredients. Mix well, place in greased loaf pan, and bake at 350 degrees for 45 to 60 minutes, or until firm. Serve with mushroom sauce, or stuffed olive sauce. For this stuffed olive sauce, make a cup of medium white sauce, replacing 3 tablespoons of the milk with 3 tablespoons liquid from stuffed olives. Slice a few olives into the sauce.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

U. S. Prospects Rise for More Imported Food

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Dark clouds hovering over domestic food shortages appeared today to have a silver lining as prospects brightened for larger imports of tea, bananas, cocoa, sugar, and pineapples.

The improved import outlook left unchanged, however, some gloomy predictions regarding supplies of major domestic foods such as meats, fresh fruits and vegetables, canned goods, and some grains—much of which has been shipped overseas.

Increased shipping space because of fewer sinkings by enemy submarines, allied control of Mediterranean sea lanes, and remote troop movements allowing for returning cargo capacity were cited as factors permitting greater imports. Coffee already has been taken from the ration list.

Trade circles were quick to point out that some anticipated imports might not materialize if the allied timetable were to move ahead of schedule, thus forcing the allied nations to feed occupied axis countries.

The American Institute of Food Distribution said that about 20,000 tons of bananas were coming in each month and eventually might increase to 80,000 to 100,000 tons.

The pineapple outlook, the institute said, was better than expected, with a possible 10 to 15 per cent increase over last year in prospect.

Benjamin Wood, managing director of the tea bureau, said shipping space "may be greatly improved by fall as a result of the reopening of the Mediterranean, providing the shortest sea route from India." He added that an immediate increase of 40 per cent in the 1943 civilian allotment could be supplied from mounting stockpiles in India and Ceylon if shipping were available.

He said trade stocks on hand were about 12 million pounds on June 30—a three months' supply in normal times. An equal supply has been landed in the United States, he stated, but is yet to be distributed thru regular channels.

The Association of Manufacturers of Confectionery and Chocolate said more candy bars and similar products might be available later unless the man power situation became more acute.

Cocoa manufacturers are allowed under a recent order to use 70 per cent of 1941 consumption in place of 60 per cent. On Aug. 9 industrial sugar users had their allotments increased from 70 per cent to 80 per cent of the amount used in 1941.

The association said that so far this year cocoa imports had passed 2 million bags against a record low of 1,593,968 in 1942, and that 1943 imports might come within 20 per cent of reaching the large total of almost 5 million bags in 1941.

The commodity research bureau said it thought the end of sugar rationing was far away, but pointed out that the consumption rate this year had been pretty much on a normal basis.

The American Spice Trade association said it had not observed that spices were in better supply yet, but reported increased Morocco spice seeds available because of allied victories in Africa. It added that some new sources of supply had been found.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

When a declarer graciously provides the very opportunity that a defender has been seeking, it is a good time for the latter to watch his step. The defender's own plays probably revealed his hopes; it is naive to feel that the declarer was blind to all implications. East, in today's hand, was entirely too gullible.

East-West, vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 diamond	1 heart
1 spade	2 hearts	Pass	3 hearts
Double	Pass	3 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

North's bid was virtually a psychic bid, and when South doubled the opponents at a mere nine trick contract, North could not stand the double, therefore ran to three spades. South properly regarded this runout as a sign of great weakness [since North hardly would have taken out the double of a vulnerable team had he been reasonably powerful], and despite his relatively strong holding, discreetly stopped short of game.

West opened his fourth best heart. Dummy discarded a club, East played the queen, and declarer won. A diamond then was led toward dummy. West ducked and the ten lost to East, who promptly returned his remaining diamond. West won and shifted to a low club, hoping to find his partner with the queen. Declarer, however, captured East's jack with that valuable card and ruffed a heart in dummy. Then, since declarer greatly feared he would have to lose two spade tricks, and with them, his contract, he attempted a trap play that possibly would reduce these trump losers to one trick. Realizing that East had been trying for a diamond ruff, declarer now offered him the opportunity by leading dummy's queen. East, to his shame, swallowed the bait. He ruffed, only to be overruffed by declarer's eight. A club was now led toward dummy. West won with the ace and returned a club. Dummy won and led the spade ten. East ducked, but declarer, who already had seen two aces in West's hand, was in little doubt as to the location of the spade ace. Hence, he went right up with the spade king and returned a spade, which dropped the ace and queen together.

SUNDAY SUPPER SNACKS

Simple entertaining often centers, these days, around informal Sunday night suppers, with Mother and Dad relaxing on the porch and teen-age members preparing the food. Do you give a thought, sometimes, to young soldiers far from home? Why not invite some of these lads to enjoy an impromptu, easy-to-serve supper? Make your Sunday evening open house a home "service-center" for boys from the neighborhood camp.

FROSTED SANDWICH LOAF

This sandwich loaf (illustrated above), frosted with cream cheese, makes a festive table centerpiece that's as luscious as it looks, is easy to make and can be tucked away early in the refrigerator.

Cut a large loaf of bread (crusts removed) into 4 lengthwise slices, spread each slice with Clear Brook Butter or Wilson's Mayonnaise. Put loaf together with a layer of chicken salad, one of Mor salad and 1 layer of egg salad (hard-cooked Clear Brook Eggs combined with minced green pepper, onion, Wilson's Certified Bacon and Wilson's Mayonnaise). Spread top and sides of loaf with two eight-ounce packages of cream cheese softened with ¼ cup of milk.

For extra fancy decoration you may flute additional cream cheese through a pastry tube and decorate with cream cheese flowers. Serves 10 or 12.

Snacks Nutritious—Delicious

Who doesn't love cold snacks this time of year?

Cold meats or sandwiches made of cheese or meat spreads, deviled eggs, crisp salads of green and yellow vegetables from your Victory Garden, plenty of milk and long cold drinks of Wilson's B-V Cocktails make delicious snacks. They help keep our diet up to the standard set by our Government's National Nutrition Yardstick. A few simple garnishes such as tomato slices, stuffed celery curls, potato chips and cucumber slices will make the most simple snack look like a party meal and be doubly appreciated by the family and your guests in uniform.

WHY NOT A SNACK CORNER?

Do you have one in your refrigerator? If not, it's only because you have no idea how handy it is. Everyday stock should include such semi-perishables as Wilson's Certified Brick or American Cheese, Wilson's Mayonnaise and Clear Brook Eggs. It's well to have a couple of cans of Mor and a can of salad fruit chilling, too.

On week-ends, when company is more likely to drop in unannounced, add fresh fruits and a variety of Wilson's Cold Cuts, such as Certified Cervelat, Salami and Braunschweiger Liver Sausage.

Easy on the Budget

These cold cuts are economical in both money and red points. With this selection of food on hand you are always ready to prepare quick snacks that are nutritious. It will be easy to pack lunches, too, when your family and friends feel in the mood to eat out-of-doors—in the park, on the shore, or right in your own back yard.

KIDNAPER HUNT ENTERS 7TH DAY; MYSTERY GROWS

Fear Woman Took Son as Vice Ring Shield.

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

It is six days since little Howard Freeman, 2 years old, placed his hand trustingly into that of his mother's acquaintance, Mrs. Pat Novak, and vanished, leaving a trail of tangled clews which have only deepened the mystery surrounding his whereabouts. The search will enter its seventh day today.

The disappearance of the youngster, who is believed to have been kidnaped by Mrs. Novak, has caused a state-wide hunt by the police and thousands of civilian defense workers thruout the city. It has been suggested that Mrs. Novak seized the boy as a buffer against a La Salle county vice ring whose enmity she aroused recently when she "squealed" on her associates to the FBI.

A Story of Betrayal.

It is a story of betrayal thruout. The characters are:

Mrs. Novak, alias Pat Cooper, Natalie Palmer, and "Dixie," 25 years old, who is believed to have been a leading figure in the La Salle county white slave trade.

Mrs. Dorothy Freeman, 28 years old, the heart broken mother, a waitress who befriended Mrs. Novak and took her into her home at the request of a friend.

Pvt. Vern [Johnny] Freeman, 33 years old, father of the boy, who is on an emergency furlough pending the return of his son.

Mother Tells Her Story.

Yesterday, Mrs. Freeman, a comely, olive-skinned woman whose prettiness has been strained by days of tears and worry, told the story of the betrayal of her kindness toward Mrs. Novak. At the request of a friend, Mrs. Freeman casually accepted Mrs. Novak into her home at 3538 Monroe street on Monday, Aug. 2. She was told that the woman was penniless and homeless.

"Pat stayed with me that day and the next," she explained. "She even entertained a boy friend Tuesday evening and I gave her a blue and white dress to wear."

Mrs. Freeman placed Howard overnight in the care of Mrs. Mildred Callahan, 2904 Madison street, Thursday evening despite Mrs. Novak's assertions that she wanted to mind the boy Friday.

Learns Woman Has Son.

After returning from shopping Friday evening, she learned from neighbors that Mrs. Novak had come back to the house with Howard in her arms. A frantic call to Mrs. Callahan disclosed that Mrs. Novak had come for the boy with the tale that his mother wanted to take him to a doctor.

"My neighbors told me that Pat was drunk when she brought Howard to the house and that she staggered down the alley with him in her arms. She wasn't wearing the dress I gave her but tan slacks and a tight green blouse. Later we found out that she spent the evening in the neighborhood, visited a tavern while drunk and slapped Howard several times in front of the bartender. After that, the trail seems to have been swallowed up."

It is Mrs. Freeman's belief that her acquaintance kidnaped the boy to pose as a mother so that she could not be traced by the vice ring. If this plot were unsuccessful, Mrs. Novak might use the boy to arouse sympathy if captured by members of the ring against whom she testified and caused the arrest of 31 persons, the mother contended.

Calls Her Selfish and Shrewd.

"She is certainly not the type who would want a child," Mrs. Freeman explained. "She is a selfish, shrewd woman who would use him for her own ends. I almost wish that when she is captured that she has taken the boy across the state line. Then she can be tried under the Lindbergh act."

With her soldier husband, who has appealed to the Red Cross to get an extension of his furlough, Mrs. Freeman swore out a warrant against Mrs. Novak before Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the Felony court Tuesday.

"Judge Dougherty said that the court would take it into consideration if Pat returned the baby of her own accord," Mrs. Freeman related.

Gasoline Truck Blows Up

Street Turned Into Sea of Fire When Gas Truck Hits Viaduct

Police last night were trying to fix responsibility for the crash explosion of a gasoline truck at the Belt Line viaduct at 4600 West 16th street in which the driver perished, a policeman who attempted to rescue him was fatally burned and 17 other persons were sent to hospitals.

William J. Bradley.

The explosion that followed the crash at 8:30 a. m. by 5 to 10 minutes, rocked the neighborhood and, eye-witnesses said, lifted parked and passing automobiles from the street. It sent a sheet of fire in all directions.

Most of those injured were passers-by. Most critically burned were those attempting to rescue the driver, trapped behind the wheel of the truck, which was carrying 1,500 gallons of gasoline.

Driver Perishes in Cab.

The body of the driver, William James Bradley, 53 years old, 14410 Springfield avenue, Midlothian, was taken from the cab, after firemen extinguished the flames.

The policeman who sacrificed his life was James Karl, 32, attached to Lawndale station, who was passing the scene in a squad car when he went to aid Bradley. Ralph Ristau, 33, of 5245 North avenue, driving directly behind Bradley before the crash, and Willard Leonhard, 31, 4144 Henderson street, also were critically burned in their futile effort to save the truck driver. They are in Loretto hospital, where Karl died early today.

Others burned were taken to Loretto, St. Anthony's, Mt. Sinai, and County hospitals. Among those taken to the Loretto hospital were Lawrence Bedell, 52, 1108 North Massassoit avenue; Earl Arthur, 40, 3416 Overhill avenue; Frank McCullough, 19, 1105 Roosevelt road; Sabino Calzolaio, 49, 1323 West 51st court, Cicero; Clarence Vlaming, 24, 12015 Eggleston avenue, and Frank Steckley, 48, 6020 Navarre avenue.

Woman Among Injured.

Treated at St. Anthony's hospital were Capt. Edward J. Healy, 49, of fire engine company 77; Lee Mussared, 15, 4508 West 16th street; Edward Larson and Edward Malley. Mrs. Anna Schneid, 48, 5404 West 16th street, was taken to Mt. Sinai hospital, and William Pitra, 29, 2216 North Hamlin avenue, to County hospital.

Bradley, a Phillips Petroleum company driver for 14 years, started to enter the westbound lane of the underpass. He encountered two eastbound automobiles which had been diverted to his lane by a trivial accident in the eastbound lane, and swerved his truck to avoid them, crashing into the viaduct's center pillar. He was pinned behind the wheel. The two eastbound cars, their egress blocked, stopped, and one stalled. Gasoline poured from the gas truck's big tank, forming a pool around the stalled car.

"Don't step on your starter—you'll start a fire!" witnesses called to the stalled car's driver, but he did step on it. The pool of gasoline flared up and a sheet of fire flared to the crashed truck, which blew up.

Police were told that Emanuel Mandel, 40, 1608 South St. Louis avenue, drove one of the two cars stalled under the viaduct which caused the explosion. Mandel was reported severely burned. Both cars were demolished. There was no record that Mandel was treated for his supposed burns. He and the other driver, if found, were to be questioned.

FALL FATAL TO WOMAN, 77.

STEAMER SPEED BECOMES FACTOR IN GAMING RAID

The case of the lake steamer, City of Grand Rapids, rocked about on the legal waves again yesterday. A witness for the city, John R. Brown, 1804 Farwell avenue, a civil engineer in charge of the Chicago river locks for the sanitary district, testified the steamer could not have been beyond the three mile limit in the lake when it was raided by police who confiscated 29 gambling machines on July 23.

Brown testified before Judge Oscar S. Caplan that the steamer whistled for the locks 13 minutes after the police raid. The city is expected to contend when the case is resumed today that the vessel could not have traveled the approximate four miles from its supposed position within 13 minutes.

James O'Donnell, 44 years old, 1163 North Clark street, second mate and pilot of the ship, testified Tuesday that according to his calculations the steamer was more than three miles from shore when the raid took place. The three mile limit is the dividing line between city and federal jurisdiction.

95,539 PRISONERS OF WAR NOW IN U. S.; MAJORITY GERMANS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—A total of 95,539 prisoners of war are now held in the United States, the war department reported today. Of this total, 62,319 are Germans, 33,133 Italians, and 87 Japanese.

In response to queries concerning the possibility of using the prisoners in the timberlands of Maine and Minnesota to cut pulp wood and help offset the paper shortage, the provost marshal general has ruled that such work probably would be hazardous. For this reason, the war department said, it is doubtful if prisoners will be used for timber work.

The department said that the prisoners have been employed on farms and some were put to work on the levees during the June floods. As to the number actually working now, the war department said this question couldn't be answered. It said the number working varies from day to day and it could not say whether only a few, most, or all of the prisoners were working.

HUSBAND IN GUN SLAYING TO TAKE THIRD LIE TEST

A third lie detector test is to be given Francis J. Erkelens, 39 years old, a steamfitter, today, in connection with the shotgun death of his wife, Eleanor, 37, in their home at 7213 South Hoyne avenue, at 1 a. m. Monday. Erkelens was given one test Monday and another yesterday.

Sgt. George Gore of the Chicago Lawn police said the second test indicated Erkelens did not lie when he claimed the shotgun was discharged accidentally.

Erkelens said he was cleaning his shotgun in the living room of their home when it was discharged, sending the slugs thru a 14 inch wall and into his wife's neck, killing her instantly. He said he was cleaning the gun at the after midnight hour in order to shoot a dog which had been killing his chickens.

GRAHAM TOSSES STARS' FIRST SCORING PASS

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

THE presence of the White Sox in second place for a few days during the team's recent eastern trip made Jimmy Dykes a baseball personality once more. . . . And, as usual, the first thing the eastern scriveners rediscovered about Jimmy is that he smokes cigars. . . . As we roll and toss we find ourself muttering "Is it Ask me now or Ask Menow —Tell us now or go tell Menow?" . . . Would Menow tell? . . . Good heavens, what would you ask us to tell Menow that's so important that it should keep us awake night after night. . . . "Ask us now—ask Menow—tell us now—go tell Menow" . . . We can't stand another night of this. . . . First thing in the morning we're going to tell Howard Barry to ask Mr. Headley.

Game of Make Believe.

Your photo stands upon my desk
And smiling straight at me,
And I can almost hear your voice
As once it used to be.
I see you in a teasing mood . . .
The mischief in your eyes,
And then becoming serious
And O, so very wise.
I play a game of make believe
While I am sitting here,
I like to think you're watching me
As if you thought me near.
Sometimes it's hard to comprehend
That you are far away;
Because your photo's on my desk
I see you every day.

Up the Ladder.

"Be nice to them all when you're on the way up,"
Said a Broadway sage of renown,
"For the day may befall when you'll need them all
On the long, long trail going down."
It was George M. Cohan who first said it,
And it oftentimes comes to my mind.
It's a pretty safe maxim to follow,
Almost any of us will find.
"People remember the little slights
From those on their way to renown,
All the little hurts that they're given
Are somewhere marked quietly down;
Likewise the little kindnesses
And the thoughtful, friendly way
Of the man who is on the beam of success
Are treasured against a day.
"Be nice to them all when you're on the way up,"
There's no guarantee on renown,
And should come a day of misfortune gray,
You'll have friends on the long way down!

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Joe Cronin's Boston Red Sox not only hung defeat No. 3 on the youthful Orval Grove under the Comiskey park lights last night, but treated the White Sox to a hair-raising trip from third place to the top of the second division. It was all done with an emphatic 10 to 0 score, the high note of which was a seven-run eighth inning that showered hits on Rescuer Joe Haynes as well as on the hapless Grove.

In view of the way Grove was hit and the Sox failure to use their bats, 19,293 spectators suspected that James Dykes' ten game winner might have loaned his tricks to Joe Dobson for the evening. That gentleman fairly bubbled over with pitching skill, a fact made evident by a grand total of five Chicago hits. Against this skimpy batch, the Bostons tossed 16 blows, four of them contributed by George Metkovich, the recent import from the Pacific Coast league. One of the four was a homer that put Grove in arrears at the very start.

Pass Starts Trouble.

Because of Dobson, more than a little suffering was experienced by such fancy batting artists as Luke Appling and Guy Curtright. Luke flopped four times to shave 3 points from his league leading mark, bringing it down to .331. Curtright failed in two times at bat, shrinking his average to .313. Wally Moses, altho held hitless, managed to put across one of his base-stealing tricks to make his total 36 for the season.

Grove had two out in the first inning before Metkovich began tuning up for his large evening. The rookie let go with his third homer of the year.

Grove opened the fourth with a pass to Doerr and this quickly blossomed into trouble. Fox followed with a bounder that eluded Grove and Webb for a hit. After a popup by Culberson, Partee lined a single into center, scoring Doerr.

Then the Deluge.

Metkovich was back on the job in the fifth. He singled behind a hit with which Lupien had opened the inning, putting Tony on third. Tabor rolled to Hodgin, who threw too late to the plate to void Lupien's crossing.

The eighth inning insurrection against Grove broke loose after one had been retired. Fox beat out a hit and stole second, going to third on a single by Culberson. Partee was purposely passed and Dobson attempted to get action on a bunt but it resulted only in the force of Fox at the plate. A wild pitch let Culberson score. Then L. Newsome walked, Lupien and Metkovich singled and away went Grove. Singles by Tabor, Doerr, and Fox off Haynes rounded out the neat cluster of seven.

ELEVEN STARS FROM AS MANY STATES

Touchdowns—Pihos, Lister, McKay.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Pete Pihos, Indiana university end, has scored the first touchdown in the All-Star football drills. Shortly after the start yesterday afternoon of an unexpected scrimmage, Pihos took a short forward pass from Otto Graham of Northwestern and raced 15 yards to the goal.

This air maneuver, which probably establishes a pattern for the battle with the Washington Redskins in Dyche stadium Aug. 25, climaxed a touchdown drive by a Blue eleven on which Graham and Bob Steuber of Missouri were paired at halfbacks. The Blues won the 15 minute game from the Reds that concluded yesterday's drills, 12 to 6, when Roy McKay of Texas plunged a yard for a second touchdown after Paul Governali, Reds' left half, had passed 40 yards to Missouri's Jack Lister to tie the score.

Players in Good Shape.

The early and unannounced scrimmage, so Head Coach Harry Stuhldreher explained, was made possible by the excellent condition of the college players.

"These boys are in far better condition than the average football squad. Many are in service. They reported ready to play. Others have been training for this football game and because they will be called to active service within a few weeks. The spirit of the players is excellent and naturally you can't hold back a group with such desire to hit top stride."

The All-Stars started with contact work yesterday morning and had a long session in the afternoon on the charging dummies. All of this has been pointed toward mastering the offense and timing the attack.

Line Play Furious.

While the boys did not scrimmage under game conditions, nor attempt the kicks for the extra points, the line play was just as furious as one expects when these college boys meet the Redskins' behemoths led by Wee Willie Wilkin.

The coaches told the squad that the two elevens did not constitute the first and second choices for each position. "The battle for the first team which will open the game with the Redskins has just begun. It will not be concluded until our final workout," Stuhldreher said.

Pair Wistert, Wildung.

It may be noted, however, that the Western conference paired Al Wistert of Michigan and Dick Wildung of Minnesota on the Blue team yesterday. These tackles, regarded as the finest in the midwest last season, helped clear the way for the ground attack which carried 30 yards for McKay's winning plunge.

Governali and Graham continue to amaze with their accurate passes. Since Steuber easily is the fastest back, he may be shifted permanently to right half so that he can be a pass receiver as well as a runner.

The All-Stars will continue their double drills today. No definite time has been set for the first full dress scrimmage altho it is likely that three or four such practices will be held before the night of the game with the Redskins.

Cubs Shut Out Boston, 3 to 0, Then Lose, 6-2

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11.—The Boston Braves remembered their role as the Cubs' most beloved cousins in the first game of a double header today with the result that Hi Bithorn shut them out, 3 to 0, for his sixth scoreless performance of the year and his 14th victory. The second game was another story and the Braves won, 6 to 2, because of the shortcomings of four Chicago pitchers while Red Barrett was consistent in registering his second of the three decisions the Bostons have taken from the Cubs in 14 tries this season.

The split dropped the north siders to sixth place in the National league.

Jim Tobin was the losing pitcher in the first game and his wildness, tho momentary, was to blame. The Cubs made only one hit, a single by Bill Nicholson, in producing their three runs in the fourth inning.

Here's the Whole Story.

Here's the way the Cubs reeled off that lucky but none the less welcome fourth inning:

Phil Cavarretta walked at the start of the fourth, and Nicholson knocked the second of his three singles, Cavarretta taking third. Lou Novikoff walked, loading the bases. Harry Lowrey flied to Tommy Holmes, Cavarretta scoring the run that was enough to win and the other runners advancing on an ill-advised throw to the plate. Clyde McCullough drew Tobin's third and final pass, again loading the bases, then Connie Ryan fumbled Lennie Merullo's double play ball, Nicholson scoring. Novikoff counted on Bithorn's fly to Al Nieman.

Tobin, who went all the way, yielded only six hits, three fewer than the total smacked by the braves. Nicholson's three singles came in the first, fourth, and eighth innings. Novikoff singled at the start of the sixth, Cavarretta beat out a bunt in the eighth, and Stan Hack smacked one with two out in the ninth.

Eddie Has Trouble Early.

The second game would have been highly interesting had the Cubs been able to rough up Barrett enough to win.

First, there was another chapter in the strange case of Eddie Hanyzewski.

Well, Eddie started the second game today and had the same trouble he frequently has when he's operating on his own. He loaded the bases with none out in the first inning, on two passes and a single. He was yanked and his reliever, Johnny Burrows, looked like a champ as Chet Ross was called out on strikes. Clyde Kluttz fouled to Mickey Livingston and Kirby Farrell also was called out on strikes.

Fat Johnny was not to be a hero for long, tho the temperatures called for topcoats among the customers, ideal stuff for fat men. He walked Tommy Holmes and Charley Workman at the start of the third,

SAMMY BAUGH, REDSKINS' STAR, FORCED OUT OF DRILLS BY INJURY

BY EDWARD PRELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 11.—The pretense that Sam Baughs' continued absence from the practice field is due to a cold was dropped today. The Washington Redskins' offensive whip cracker and field general is suffering from a pulled muscle in his back.

The pro champions are working frantically to get the willowy Texan ready for at least a token appearance in Sunday's well-advertised Pro East-West game here for the Shriners' Crippled Children hospital fund, and looking ahead of this contest, the Redskins' board of strategy knows the chances of success in the college All-Star game Aug. 25 in Evanston depends on Baugh in top condition.

Responding Fairly Well.

Baugh's foot crossed over while he was punting last Friday and the twisting of his body caused the injury. Since then he has been taking diathermy, wet heat, and other treatments. It was reported today he is responding fairly well.

Baugh was the hero of the 1937 All-Star game when his pass to Gaynell Tinsley laid low the Green Bay Packers, 6 to 0, for the All-Stars' first victory in the series. He came back the next year with the Redskins in the big game, but his effectiveness was curtailed by a badly sprained left ankle. His successors as passers pitched two aerials which were intercepted for touchdowns in the All-Stars' 28 to 16 triumph.

"I'll be ready for the All-Star game," Baugh said today. Fortunately, the layoff will have little effect on Sam's finesse. The first day he reached here for practice Sam's passing and punting were as sharp as in mid-season. He does not take on weight so there will be no worry on this score.

No Word from Farkas.

Other developments today were the squad's second scrimmage and the arrival of Clyde Shugart, veteran lineman who will play both guard and tackle this season. There still is no word on Andy Farkas, star full back, who is holding out at Washington. Coach Dutch Bergman is hopeful Andy will show up next week in Chicago where the team will finish training for the All-Star game.

Baugh, supported by a cane, attended the scrimmage, and followed the play with the coaches. The session was a sort of dress rehearsal for Sunday's game. Both units divided into east and west and went on offense and defense. The best play developed when Jack Jenkins took a scoring pass thrown by Indian Jack Jacobs from the 40 yard line. Jacobs, a marine, will play on the East's team. He is the property of the Cleveland Rams and was on the 1942 All-Star squad.

Also missing from the scrimmage was Steve Slivinski, a guard who has a slight ankle sprain. His absence necessitated the shifting of Vic Carroll, the handy man, from end to guard. Vic also plays center and even has been used in the back field.

Remainder of the California conditioning period calls for a single workout Friday morning, an afternoon session Saturday, the East-West game in Balboa stadium Sunday, and a date with the Chicago bound choo-choo Monday morning. Bergman hopes to start workouts at Loyola university stadium a week from tomorrow.

All-Star Luncheon

THE entire personnel of the All-Star football squad will be guests at a luncheon in the Morrison hotel Monday in their only off campus appearance. Donald Williamson is in charge of the program which will be conducted under the auspices of the Junior Association of Commerce. Tickets for the luncheon may be obtained at the headquarters of the Junior Association of Commerce, 1 North La Salle street, and in The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street.

HAGG WINS MILE RUN AFTER DUEL WITH GIL DODDS

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Gunder Hagg, the swift Swede, won his eighth straight race in the United States, running a mile in 4:06.9 tonight in a twilight meet at Randalls Island.

Hagg had only a two yard edge over Gil Dodds as he hit the tape and the Boston divinity student in turn was only another yard ahead of Bill Hulse, New York.

Hulse set the pace for the first half mile that was reached in :2.03.5 but the Swedish runner, who dropped into second place at the start, took over then and never gave it up, altho challenged sharply by Dodds on the last lap.

Hagg's chances to better the :4.02.6 which his countryman, Arne Andersson, established on July 1, went glimmering in the first half mile in which Hulse set all the pace.

Volo Song Is Hambletonian Trot Winner

After losing in the first heat to Worthy Boy the speedy colt from Mrs. James B. Johnson Jr.'s Rochester, Mich., barn came roaring back in the second and third miles under the guidance of 70 year old Ben White to earn $23,263.92, the winner's share of a purse that totaled $42,298.03. And for ageless Ben, it was his fourth Hambletonian triump—a mark no other driver ever has been able to approach.

With second money of $8,459.61 going to Worthy Boy, Joe Burke's Phonograph of Plainfield, N. J., carried off third money amounting to $5,075.76 as he wound up fourth in the first dash and second in the last two miles. And down in the blue grass of Kentucky, Volo Mite can take a bow for he sired the first three horses—another No. 1 for the classic.

The crowd was considerably under those that saw the race when it was trotted at Goshen, its home since 1930 until transferred to Empire because of war time transportation problems. But the fans sent the wagering soaring into the neighborhood of $353,440. The previous betting high for Hambletonian day was $138,000 wagered at Goshen in 1941, while the all-time pari-mutuel record for trotters was the $265,000 that poured thru the machines at North Randall, O., on July 4, 1920.

MICHIGAN HUNTS FOE TO REPLACE MICHIGAN STATE

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP).—Athletic Director Fritz Crisler sent out feelers today for a football opponent for Michigan on Sept. 25, a date left vacant by Michigan State's decision to quit intercollegiate sports until after the war.

Crisler said he probably would have the team on the docket by tomorrow. Among the likely candidates were Great Lakes, the Iowa Seahawks, and Purdue.

When Michigan State canceled all athletic schedules, it left Michigan without an opponent for the home opener and interrupted a gridiron series that began in 1898 and has gone without interruption since 1910.

MEDALISTS WIN, LOSE IN WOMEN'S WESTERN GOLF

Miss Fox Advances; Wall Beats Miss Byrne.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Women's Western Golf association, a thoro going organization which aims to please not only in the efficient conduct of its events, but also in the competition therein, delivered again yesterday in the second round of the 43d amateur party at the Evanston Golf club.

The pairings for that second round all were promising, but the most likely was the battle between Kay Byrne, the New Yorker who shared the qualifying medal on Monday, and Mary Agnes Wall, the amiable 24 year old from Menominee, Mich., who was runner-up for this championship two years ago at Exmoor. And a battle it proved to be before Mary Agnes, known to her pals as Babe, won out, 2 and 1, with a superb chip shot for a match closing half at the 17th.

While co-medalist Byrne was being eliminated, Catherine Fox, who had matched Kay's 74 on Monday, was moving on with a 3 and 1 triumph over Mrs. L. H. Selz, former Western Open titleholder from Northmoor. This decision gained Catherine a quarter-final meeting this afternoon with Marjorie Row, tall Detroit blonde, who took a 1 up struggle from Dorothy Foster, one time Illinois champion from Springfield.

Misses Wall, Cline to Meet.

In the lower bracket this afternoon, Miss Wall will face Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., former W. W. G. A. Junior winner and twice a semi-finalist in the open. Jeanne was forced the full 18 route yesterday and a birdie on the home green before she could win a 1 up match from another Western Junior champion, Georgia Tainter of Fargo, N. D. The other quarter-final in the lower bracket sends Betty Jean Rucker of Spokane, Wash, against Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O. While Peggy was having the easiest going of all in the second round with a 4 and 3 victory against Claire Doran of Cleveland, Miss Rucker had to score a birdie on the first extra hole to win from Jane Goodsill of St. Paul.

The other match on the upper side pairs Dorothy Germain, the Philadelphian who reached the semi-finals of the 1943 open at Glen Oak, against Ann Casey, the determined University of Iowa senior who went 20 holes yesterday to win from Dorothy Ellis of Indianapolis.

SECOND ROUND RESULTS.

Dietrich, Ross Face Boston in Today's 2 Games

After two nights on the diamond, the White Sox and Red Sox will see how it looks in daylight this afternoon. They will play a double header with Bill Dietrich and Lee Ross pitching for the home entry against Mike Ryba and George Woods.

The White Sox yesterday took $7,500, the waiver fee, from the Cleveland Indians and gave in return Jimmy Grant, who came up late last season from the St. Paul club. The Indians were in need of a performer to fill in at third base for Ken Keltner, who will be absent for a month as the result of an ankle spiking last Sunday.

Rheingolds, Rockolas, and Bendas Win in Softball

The Rheingolds defeated the Gold Crowns, 11 to 4, last night in Shewbridge field in a Metropolitan Chicago Girls' Major Softball league game. The Rockolas beat the Parichy Bloomer Girls, 2 to 1, in 10 innings and took second place while the Benda Coal Co-eds defeated the Tungsten Sparks, 8 to 4, in another league game. Tonight's schedule: Rockolas vs. Rheingolds in Rheingold stadium; Tungsten vs. Parichy in Parichy stadium, and Benda vs. Gold Crowns in Shewbridge field.

ANDERSON BEATS ARMOUR TO WIN MEDINAH HONORS

A. N. Anderson, former club champion at Medinah, defeated his old golf instructor, Tommy Armour, to win low gross honors in Medinah Country club's annual Camel's Trail Invitational yesterday with an 18 hole score of 35—36—71. Armour finished second, one stroke behind, with a 36—36—72. Herman Scharlau, former caddy at Medinah, placed third with 35—38—73.

Other leading low gross prizes in the big field of 382 were won by Moonie Pease, 35—39—74; Ray Mercherle, 37—40—77, and John Ward, 38—39—77.

The low gross members' foursome consisted of Ray Olson, R. C. Pollack, Chick Olson, and Len Thompson with 330. The low gross foursome for guests was Ray Mecherle, Warren Paxton, Noonie Pease, and Don Davidson with 322.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEMS FEW TO VICTORY GOLF

Because there are three means of public transportation by which fans can reach the course, Tournament Chairman Lowell D. Rutherford is expecting one of the season's largest golf galleries for the Chicago Victory National tournament at Beverly Country club Aug. 19 to 22.

The tourney, which will have some of the nation's top golf stars, professional and amateur, headed by Craig Wood and Chick Evans, can be reached by taking the street car to 87th street and Western avenue. For that reason it is being dubbed the first street car golf tourney of national scope. It also can be reached by the Rock Island railroad and the 87th street bus line.

ALERT STEWARD SPOTS BATTERY AT WASHINGTON

Spurt Comes as Shock to Tib, 26 to 1 Shot.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Barry Whitehead, one of the Washington Park stewards posted in the crow's nest at midstretch, saw Lawrence F. King's Tib, a 26 to 1 shot, make what he considered an unnaturally fast move on the turn in the third race Tuesday. He kept his binoculars on Jockey George Bowman as the field swept up to the finish, Tib coming in fifth behind the odds-on favorite, Alterry.

Whitehead continued to watch as Bowman gradually pulled up the horse and eased him into the custody of the stable's pony boy, Chester Jedlinski. Then he saw Bowman slip something to Jedlinski.

That was when Whitehead jumped out of the crow's nest and started running toward the finish line. He arrived there just as Jedlinski came cantering up with Tib in tow, to be unsaddled. Whitehead wasted no time.

"O. K.," he said. "Give me the battery."

Search Nets Battery.

Jedlinski pretended shocked innocence. Tom Kelly's track detectives gathered around and persuaded the pony rider it might be better to come along without further argument. In the stewards' room, Jedlinski was frisked and the search brought up a nice, energetic battery.

Jedlinski, of course, didn't know at first how it got there, but further questioning prompted him to admit he had given it to Bowman before the race and got it back after the sprint was ended.

The Illinois racing board revealed these shennanigans yesterday, after receiving a report from the Washington Park stewards. The stewards suspended Bowman and Jedlinski indefinitely, pending further action by the board. They also suspended King, the owner, pending further investigation and called for an inquiry into the activities of Edward Janis, described as an unlicensed person who is an associate of King.

Bowman, Jedlinski Confess.

Albert J. Meserow, the racing board's representative from the attorney general's office, stated yesterday Bowman and Jedlinski had confessed their part in the affair, and Janis had denied any connection with it but King had refused to testify. John D. Jackson, general manager of Washington Park, ordered King to remove his horses as soon as possible.

Meserow said Bowman, in his confession, stated King had told him in the paddock Jedlinski would give him the battery after they were on the track. Janis has been accused of being the person who brought the battery onto the grounds and gave it to Jedlinski, but he denied this.

John Marsch's Occupation and Eddie Anderson's Burnt Cork put on a brilliant duel in the $5,000 Dick Welles handicap, which headed yesterday's program. Racing under pressure thruout the mile run, Occupation demonstrated his speed, gameness, and weight carrying ability by getting home winner by the margin of a head over Burnt Cork in 1:36 3-5, by far the fastest time for the mile on Chicago tracks this season.

Keller's Homer in 2d Is Only New York Safety.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 11 (AP).—Steve Sundra let the New York Yankees down with one hit today—Charlie Keller's second inning homer—and the Browns handed the New York Yankees their second successive drubbing, 9 to 1. The Yankees played with Joe Gordon, star second baseman, out of their starting lineup for the first time this season.

and ran a string of 11 straight balls to the point where he had three wide ones on Ross. Paul Derringer went in and got two strikes past Ross, then walked him, loading the bases. Thereafter Derringer pitched singles to Kluttz, Kirby, Farrell, and Bill Wietelmann. Kluttz and Farrell were thrown out on overzealous base running attempts, but this did not prevent all three of the walkers from scoring. As things turned out, these three runs were enough for the Braves.

Dom Drives in Run.

Derringer kept the Braves away from the plate in the fourth, fifth, and sixth innings, but retired for Pinch Batter Dom Dallessandro, who drove in the second and final Chicago run, in the seventh. This brought on Prim, who was tapped for three runs in the eighth, what with some unfortunate defensive work, complicated by two legitimate socks.

The Cubs' two runs in the second were scored thuswise: In the second inning, Novikoff walked, went to third on Lowrey's first hit in 18 times at bat, and scored on Livingston's long fly.

U. S. BEGINS QUIZ INTO CASHING OF STOLEN CHECKS

Currency Offices Used by Mail Box Thieves.

An investigation by the United States district attorney and the secret service into practices of currency exchanges in cashing stolen checks, particularly government allotment checks issued to families of men in the army and navy, was under way yesterday.

Approximately 90 per cent of the checks reported stolen in Chicago are cashed in currency exchanges, which are protected by insurance, District Atty. J. Albert Woll declared. He said the department of justice was considering calling in representatives of insurance companies, which must stand the losses on stolen checks, in connection with the inquiry.

Mail Box Thief Arraigned.

Arrest of William W. Lakomy, 29 years old, 1606 South 61st avenue, Cicero, a crane operator and musician, who admitted stealing 108 checks in the last 19 months, was incidental to the investigation. Lakomy admitted stealing, forging signatures, and cashing checks for a total of $5,919.28. He got $1,088.17 on one check.

Lakomy pleaded guilty to stealing three checks from mail boxes before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, and was held to the federal grand jury in bonds of $2,500.

Identification Urged.

Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, divisional chief of the secret service here, who will coöperate in the inquiry, offered these suggestions to currency exchanges:

1. Insist that each patron show you his identification and be sure each check is in the hands of its owner.
2. Ask yourself if, in the case of a forged endorsement, the forger can be located.
3. Don't be afraid to ask questions before cashing checks. Forgers are not particular. You must be particular.

HOMES PROJECT BRANDED UNFIT FOR HUMAN USE

Landis Raps Flimsy Air Field Job.

Vincennes, Ind., Aug. 11 [Special.]—Rep. Gerald W. Landis [R., Ind.] today termed the government housing project at near-by George army air field "a potential fire trap" and "unfit to live in either in summer or winter."

Declaring that millions of dollars have been wasted on the federal housing program, he suggested that a congressional investigation of it be made.

Rep. Landis, who represents the 7th Indiana district, made his charges after an inspection tour of the housing project at the air field, which is located just over the Illinois state line eight miles northwest of here.

Started Last Spring.

Work on the project, originally scheduled to cost $300,000, was begun last spring and is now nearing completion. It was first planned to build 200 units, but later it was decided to construct only 116. The houses are four family units.

"We would like to know why they build stable housing projects down south and cardboard houses up north," Rep. Landis declared after he had viewed the George field project.

He asserted that these houses are built of beaver board, with cardboard partitions separating the four families expected to occupy each building. They are without cross-ventilation, he added, and located on a treeless prairie; they offer little protection from the sun in summer or the winds of winter.

Turned Down Twice.

"Civilians working at George field are skilled workmen who receive good pay and they won't live in such cheap houses," the congressman said.

For that reason, he explained, Col. Edwin B. Bobzien, commanding officer of the field, opposed the project. He was unable to prevent its construction, however, when it was decided to erect it there after the cities of Vincennes, Ind., and Lawrenceville, Ill., had turned it down.

Infantile Paralysis Increases in U. S.; New Cases Here

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The United States apparently will have the greatest number of poliomyelitis [infantile paralysis] cases this year since 1934 when there were 7,517.

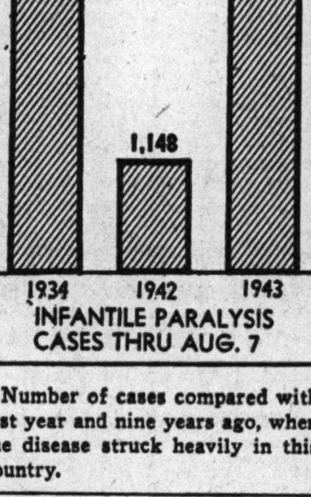
Public health officials said today that 2,753 cases were reported thru Aug. 7, compared with 1,148 in the same period of last year and 3,430 in the similar period of 1934.

Currently, the disease is epidemic in California and Texas, they added, and is verging on epidemic in Oklahoma and Kansas.

Officials said there was not much incidence of the disease in the north or in New England.

Principally a summer disease, poliomyelitis generally reaches the peak of its incidence about the first week in September and largely disappears with the arrival of cold weather.

Health officials say there is no prophylactic means of combatting its spread.



Number of cases compared with last year and nine years ago, when the disease struck heavily in this country.

Five new cases of infantile paralysis in Cook county outside Chicago yesterday brought the total since July 30 to 26, of which five have been fatal. In Chicago, the health department reported only one new case, but said seven persons were being examined as possible victims.

The report yesterday raised Chicago's number of cases since the first of the year to 65. Eight deaths have been recorded.

Bedford Park reported its first case yesterday. Other cases were: Berwyn, one; Oak Park, three.

Waukegan also listed three cases. Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, director of the county health unit, said it was unlikely that the disease would reach its peak until the last week in August.

CHARGES BABY KIDNAPER IS HIS MISSING WIFE

Long Beach, Cal., Aug. 11 (AP).—A young cafe worker, Woodrow Morgan, told police today he is the legal husband of Mrs. Catherine Wright, held at Albany, Ore., in the kidnaping from a hospital of 2 day old Judith Gurney.

Morgan said he had been married in Honolulu to Mrs. Wright, who claims Sgt. Jesse Wright of the United States army is her husbahd. So far as he knows, Morgan said, there never was a divorce or annulment of his marriage.

Morgan denied Mrs. Wright's story, told Albany police that she was injured during the bombing of Pearl Harbor. He said she suffered her injuries when she fell from a back porch of their home.

After Pearl Harbor, Morgan told police, Mrs. Wright returned to the mainland, and he lost trace of her.

At Albany, Ore., authorities today released Jesse Wright from custody. He said he would stand by his wife, who is held in jail in default of $5,000 bail.

RETRIAL BRINGS SLAYER OF GIRL A LIGHTER TERM

A jury of six women and six men yesterday returned a verdict of manslaughter in the retrial of Athon Papas, 59 years old, in the Criminal court of Chief Justice John A. Sbarbaro. Papas was sentenced four years ago to 99 years in state's prison for the slaying of Miss Muriel Campbell, 18, of 5452 West Lemoyne avenue, as she fled from his fruit store at 5624 West North avenue after her high school companions had "raided" the store in a youthful prank.

Yesterday's retrial was reported to have been the briefest in the history of the Criminal courts. The case started at 10 a. m. At 2:20 p. m. the jury returned the verdict, which carries a prison penalty of 1 to 14 years.

The chief witness for the state was Miss Helen Freilich, 20, of 3100 Sheridan road, who testified the encounter with Papas followed a celebration of Austin High school youngsters. She said they entered the fruit stand for food and that she tossed a watermelon to the Campbell girl. The scuffle with Papas ensued. Papas testified he fired into the air.

A motion for a new trial, entered by Papas' counsel, will be heard this morning.

BOARD DECIDES NEGROES SHARE ONUS IN RIOTS

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP).—Detroit's race riots of last June 21 were not planned or premeditated, nor were they inspired by subversive enemy influence, a fact-finding committee appointed by Gov. Harry F. Kelly to investigate the disturbances reported today.

The committee blamed the outbreak of violence on racial tension which "was inflamed as a result of several disconnected incidents provoked by a group of Negroes."

The report, dealing with nearly every phase of the disorders in its 10,000 words, was prepared by a group consisting of Prosecuting Attorney William E. Dowling, Attorney General Herbert J. Rushton, Detroit Police Commissioner John E. Witherspoon, and State Police Commissioner Oscar Olander.

"The looting and accompanying rioting followed the spreading of a false rumor by Leo Tipton, Negro, to the effect that whites had killed a colored woman and her child at Belle Isle," it stated.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

WHETHER the farm gets a corn crop this season now depends on the date of the first killing frost. Considering the late date at which the grain was planted, it has done exceptionally well. Growing weather has been perfect altho the farm could use some rain. Hot dry days have helped immensely to rush the crop to maturity.

The fields that went in last will not make field corn even if frost does hold off a few weeks later than Oct. 19, which is the average date of the first frost. The fields are far behind and are just beginning to tassel. This is not worrying the men, however, because this corn is destined for the silos and need not reach the flinty maturity of corn saved for ear feeding.

Early Frost Problem.

If the frost comes early and catches the other fields while the ears still are in the milk, the farm will have to salvage all of the crop thru the silos. This would put the farm in the bad predicament of having almost no stock feed as the oat crop has been light.

An early frost stops action in the tissues of the kernel and as a result the grain is left with a high moisture content. The moisture makes it impossible to store the corn without heavy spoilage. Only in a silo can soft corn be utilized.

A fully matured kernel will contain approximately 20 per cent water. If it contains 25 per cent or more it is considered soft and needs special precautions in storage.

When soft corn is ensiled it does not need any additional preservative to make good silage. It should be chopped finely, the pieces not more than one inch across. The silage should be tramped firmly and water added until each 100 pounds contains around 60 pounds of water.

Building Trench Silo.

If farmers already have stored alfalfa or other legumes in their silos they must find something else to hold the soft corn. The best solution is a trench silo. For all practical purposes it answers the same purpose as the standard cylinder type silo.

Trench silos can be dug in any handy spot. They usually are 12 feet wide at the top, 10 feet at the bottom, and about 8 feet deep. The length will vary according to the desired capacity. They seldom are less than 60 feet and frequently are more than 100 feet long.

When the silo is filled the silage should stand about five feet above the level of the ground. The silage then should be covered with five or six inches of dirt, which will keep out rain and prevent spoilage.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

APHIS, or plant lice, are infesting tomato and sweet corn plants in many gardens now. In most gardens in which plant lice are troublesome, ants also will be noticed since the lice often are carried to vegetable plants by ants. The ants themselves are not damaging, but gardeners who control ant populations will find that the lice will disappear.

A good plan is to find the ant hills and destroy them by the use of cyanide products or carbon disulphide. Cyanide insecticides are available in seed and hardware stores and carbon disulphide can be bought from druggists. A parallel campaign against the plant aphis can be started by the use of nicotine sulphate spray, available in commercial form from hardware stores.

Gardeners who usa nicotine sulphate sprays against plant aphis on tomato vines should be certain to wash the fruits carefully before serving.

MORE ILLINOIS GRAPES.

War Lifts Eastman Sales Sharply.

The International Nickel company of Canada yesterday reported consolidated net income in the first half of the year was $16,155,457, equal to $1.04 a common share, against $16,008,614, or $1.03 a share, a year earlier.

The June quarter profit amounted to $8,080,219, compared with $7,936,-648. Current assets on June 30 amounted to $123,355,716, and net working capital totaled $93,788,320.

Kodak Sales Increase.

Sales of the Eastman Kodak company in the 24 weeks ended June 12 rose to $115,643,367 from $97,539,272 a year earlier. The increase was attributed to war sales. Net profit in the period was $8,532,590, or $3.38 a common share, against $7,462,336, or $2.94 a share.

The company said a renegotiation agreement had been completed with the federal government for last year which "will result in a total refund of $15,048,000, substantially all of which was reserved for in 1942."

Provision for federal income and excess profits taxes amounted to $15,972,747, compared with $20,853,-766. The company set aside $1,600,-000 for possible inventory losses and other adjustments resulting from $1,800,000.

T. W. A. Earnings Climb.

Operating revenues of Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc., in the first half of the year totaled $8,810,-925, or a gain of 22 per cent above the 1942 period, said E. L. Talman, executive vice president. Net income was $732,578, or 76 cents a common share, against revised profit of $422,416, or 44 cents a share.

Talman said all classes of traffic were far ahead of last year, with the largest gains registered in mail and express. He said lower passenger fares and express rates were placed in effect on July 15.

The Peter Fox Brewing company, Chicago, had net income of $325,643, or $2.61 a common share in the fiscal year ended June 30, compared with $328,862, or $2.63 a share in the preceding fiscal year. There are 125,000 common shares outstanding, the report said.

PLACE NORTHERN INDIANA UTILITY BONDS ON SALE

A 45 million dollar offering of Northern Indiana Public Service company series C 3⅛ per cent first mortgage bonds will be made today by an underwriting syndicate headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. The utility serves various cities in the northern part of Indiana.

A banking group headed by Smith, Barney & Co. is offering 108,634 common shares of the Hoover company, vacuum cleaner manufacturer, at $22.50 a share. It is the first public offering of Hoover stock.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and associated underwriters yesterday offered $1,200,000 City of Frankfort, Ky., 1¾ per cent water works and electric revenue bonds, priced at 101.35.

SMALL RECEIPTS PUSH HOG PRICES BEYOND CEILINGS

Chicago buyers paid $14.80 a hundred pounds for top grades, 5 cents above the top price the government proposes to enforce. Gains of 5 to 15 cents were general.

Steers and yearlings sold at steady to weak prices, while cows and heifers held mostly steady. Lambs were weak to 10 cents lower.

Minneapolis Road Asks Mortgage Plan Change

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The Minneapolis and St. Louis railroad has asked the interstate commerce commission to approve modification of its reorganization plan, calling for issuance of $2,015,000 of general mortgage bonds instead of first and second mortgage bonds. President L. C. Sprague said the road does not need a proffered 4 million dollar Reconstruction Finance corporation loan, embodied in the original plan.

WFA Promise on Cash Corn Not Extended

The war food administration announced yesterday that the government guarantee to farmers that cash corn sold prior to midnight Aug. 10 will share in any increase in the ceiling price before Oct. 31 will not be extended. The WFA also said that wet processors had been removed from the purchase priority list which had permitted them to obtain 80 per cent of the grain shipped from country elevators.

Commodity Credit corporation stocks of corn will be increased to 5 million bushels, including grain requisitioned in terminal elevators on June 25, after which all country offerings will be released on condition the corn is given wide distribution for food and feed in deficit areas, the announcement said.

Limited to 85 Per Cent.

Wet processors will continue to have their grind of corn limited to 85 per cent of capacity until further notice, it was understood.

Chicago handlers purchased an estimated 2¼ million bushels of cash corn for deferred shipment from the country, a large part of which was obtained late Tuesday. Offerings on the Chicago Board of Trade halted shortly after the market opened.

Slump 3 Cents from High.

Reports that American, French, and British tankers would be made available for hauling molasses from the West Indies to American ports to be used for alcohol making purposes started general liquidation in rye futures and prices slumped about 3 cents a bushel from the early high. Futures closed 1¼ to 1⅝ cents lower.

Trading in wheat and oats was fairly active, and altho both were affected to some extent by the slump in rye, good support was forthcoming on the decline. Wheat closed ⅜ to ⅞ cent lower and oats finished ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher.

151 MIDWESTERN OPA JOBS TO BE ELIMINATED

Elimination of 151 jobs in the office of price administration in seven midwestern states will save $303,960 in annual salaries, Raymond S. McKeough, regional OPA administrator, said yesterday in announcing a budget retrenchment. He promised the Chicago area office staff would not be cut.

Confirming a report in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last Saturday, McKeough said that the Rockford, Ill., Pierre, S. D., and Bismarck, N. D., offices will be closed and 68 of the 137 jobs terminated. The remaining employes will be transferred to nearby offices.

In the Chicago regional office, McKeough said, the annual pay roll of $1,231,380 will be pruned to $1,085,-000 on Aug. 31 by discharging 68 employes and canceling 15 other jobs vacated by resignations. The regional staff will be cut from 537 to 454.

LOUDON PACKING.

I don't see Loudon Packing company stock quoted any more. What has become of it?—W. N.

Answer: The company is being liquidated. On May 21, 1943, stockholders ratified the sale of the company's assets, except cash and claims for tax refunds, to Standard Brands, Inc., for 3 million dollars. An initial liquidating dividend of $6 a share was paid on June 1, and the company stated that payment of additional dividends was expected, altho the time and amount of payment would depend upon settlements on taxes and other contingencies.

MARITAL STATUS.

I am to be married early in September, and will quit my job shortly before. As a single person I will not be required to file a Sept. 15 tax estimate. Will marriage change my liability for filing an estimate?

Answer: Perhaps. In determining which provisions of the new current tax payment act apply to him, the taxpayer's marital status on the date the declaration is required to be made, is the governing factor. Thus, a person marrying on Sept. 15 would file as a married person.

$1.15 EACH ORDERED TO INSULL COMPANY $1,000 NOTEHOLDERS

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday entered an order for a payment of $1.15 for each $1,000 serial note of Corporation Securities company of Chicago—the final step in equity bankruptcy proceedings pending since collapse of the late Samual Insull's utility empire. Garfield Charles, special master in chancery, was authorized to make the payments on the $18,903,000 face value of claims filed before the deadline last Dec. 31. With this payment, the holders will have received $48.65 per $1,000 note in returns thru equity proceedings.

Judge Igoe also authorized these additional legal fees and expenses: $7,500 to Charles; $5,000 to Sam Howard, trustee in bankruptcy; $5,000 to Albert W. Froehde, counsel for the complainant and for the noteholders' committee, and $2,000 to Warren Canaday, master in chancery.

These payments will exhaust the $1,200,000 fund contributed to the bankrupt estate by New York and Chicago banks in settlement of litigation involving loans they made to the Insull company. The only other possible source of returns to noteholders is pending litigation in which Howard charges mismanagement of the company by its former directors.

'Peace' Issues Again in Lead of Stock Rise

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—The stock market today retrieved a little more of the ground lost this month. As in yesterday's quiet rise, "peace" shares provided the leadership. Advances at the close ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Utilities, farm implements, store stocks, and specialties attracted a large part of the bids. Rails had no momentum and steels had small gains. There were a few firm spots in the motors division.

Volume again was low, totaling 620,200 shares, against 651,030 yesterday. The Associated Press 60 stock average closed 0.2 higher at 49.8.

RAIL BONDS GAIN.

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—Railroad issues again were higher on the bond market today but other groups extended the narrow and irregular performance of recent sessions.

United States government issues were quiet but steady on the stock exchange and in outside markets. Sales of $7,680,800 compared with $7,363,800 yesterday.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE.

The advance in prices on the Chicago Stock exchange broadened yesterday and three new peaks were registered. Central Illinois Public Service gained 5¼, closing at the new high of 92. Chicago corporation common, the volume leader, was up ¼. Sales were 37,000 shares, with 107 issues traded, of which 62 advanced, 25 declined, and 20 closed unchanged.

OCTOBER TRADE IN EGGS OPENED FOR LIQUIDATION

The suspension of trading in October egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, in effect since late last month, was terminated by the board of governors and trading reopened yesterday to allow voluntary liquidation of contracts. This arrangement will continue thru Aug. 25 and contracts open after that date will be closed out.

The egg futures price was off 0.50 cent a dozen from the last sale on an offer of 44 cents, which failed to attract buyers. The best bid was 43.50 cents. November potato futures closed 2 cents higher at $2.95 a 100 pounds on the sale of a single car. The January contract continued inactive and nominally unchanged at $3.22.

Lag Foreseen in Appliances at War's End

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

Any householder who expects dealer showrooms to blossom with new supplies of electrical appliances, radios, cooking utensils, refrigerators, and kindred items immediately after the war is going to be disappointed, according to views expressed yesterday by several Chicago manufacturing company officials. The manufacturers said that the time required to get back into production of consumer goods will depend on the type of product, but that few plants would be able to wind up war work and resume producing civilian goods in less than two to six months.

One exception was a manufacturer of home washing and ironing machines, Electric Household Utilities corporation, whose Hurley machine division continues to make its regular product under government war contracts.

Two Months Utensil Delay.

In cases where war work has involved changes in equipment and methods, the outlook was said to be different. The consensus was that housewives will have to wait about two months from the war's end to get new aluminum cooking utensils, about the same length of time for electric ranges, electric water heaters, and electric dishwashers; three to four months for the marketing of new radios, and up to six months for automatic electric irons, food mixers, toasters, waffle bakers, and coffee makers.

Paul Galvin, president of the Radio Manufacturers' association and also of Galvin Manufacturing corporation, said that 90 to 120 days would be needed by the radio industry after materials become available.

Sixty Days for Ranges.

George A. Hughes, chairman of the board of Edison General Electric Appliance company, said his company could start marketing electric ranges, water heaters, and dishwashers within about 60 days after the end of the war, assuming materials were available.

H. A. Rank, manager of the appliance division of Chicago Flexible Shaft company, manufacturer of food mixers, automatic electric irons, toasters, and related equipment, said the average maker of these products will require about six months to reconvert.

D. S. Campbell, executive vice president of McGraw Electric company, Elgin, manufacturer of toasters and waffle bakers, said that getting the materials will be the big question in reconversion, and that six months appeared a conservative conversion estimate.

FULL 8C RAISE REPORTED WON BY RAIL UNIONS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Labor circles heard today that the 15 nonoperating railroad unions have completed a contract with the carriers for the full 8-cent hourly increase recommended by an emergency board and that the agreement will be submitted directly to President Roosevelt for approval.

Union and railroad spokesmen reached an understanding last Saturday, but President Roosevelt's absence from the capital precluded immediate presentation of the contract to him. George M. Harrison, president of the AFL Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, expects to lay the agreement before the President when he returns from an AFL executive council meeting in Chicago the middle of next week.

Railroad labor men expressed confidence Mr. Roosevelt would approve, even tho Fred M. Vinson, stabilization director, set the recommendation aside in June.

ONLY 3,045 LARGER TRUCKS REMAIN IN POOL FOR RATIONING

Washington, D. C., Aug 11 (AP).—Only 3,045 heavy duty trucks remain in the national pool from which the government rations vehicles to essential users, the WPB disclosed today.

The agency's automotive division reported 4,522 trucks of all types were released the last two weeks of July, leaving 51,905 for future rationing. They include 16,770 light and 32,090 medium trucks in addition to the heavy vehicles. Production of 7,500 heavy highway trucks and 241 other vehicles has been authorized for the rest of this year.

Since truck rationing began 150,-990 vehicles of all types have been released, including 17,682 heavy trucks.

CHICAGO'S FOOD PRICES DECLINE 2.4% IN MONTH

Clothing Costs Gain, U. S. Reports.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—A decline of 2.4 per cent in food prices between mid-June and mid-July applied the brakes to the rising cost of living in Chicago for the first time since the start of the war, the labor department reported today.

For the combined costs of food, clothing, rent, house furnishings, and utilities of Chicago workers, the department recorded a drop of 0.1 per cent, altho clothing prices rose 0.5 per cent.

With meat prices cut back and vegetables seasonally lower, the department reported, the cost of living for the nation's city workers as a whole dropped 0.8 per cent, the first substantial decline since Dec. 7, 1941.

National Drop 2 Per Cent.

Commenting on this decline, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins said:

"Retail food prices as a group—representing about two-fifths of total living costs—declined by 2 per cent. Clothing costs rose 0.5 per cent. Other costs, including house furnishings, utility rates, and services, were stable or increased moderately.

"Until this summer the rise in living costs had been almost uninterrupted since Germany invaded Poland. The only previous monthly declines were during the three month period immediately after the outbreak of war, following a speculative rise in food costs, and a small decline of 0.2 per cent from May to June of this year.

Meat Prices Slashed.

"The substantial declines for most meats in July resulted from reductions in maximum prices ordered by the OPA. They included an 8½ per cent drop for beef and veal, 8 per cent for pork, and 4 per cent for lamb. On the average, prices of meat and fish were down 5.5 per cent."

Victory garden produce and larger commercial supplies, Secretary Perkins explained, helped to accelerate normal summer decline in vegetable prices. Despite the many summer reductions, she said, fresh vegetable prices as a group were still about 40 per cent above a year ago.

"Aside from spinach and fresh fish," Secretary Perkins said, "the only important price increases among foods were seasonal advances of 5 per cent for eggs, a greater than seasonal increase of 10 per cent for oranges, and smaller advances for dried fruits and vegetables and some cereals.

"Clothing prices in July were on the average about 0.5 per cent above June. Miscellaneous goods and services rose 0.2 per cent, with medical expenses and beauty and barber shop and laundry services somewhat higher than in June."

WFA INCREASES CIVILIAN SHARE OF CANNED FOOD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Civilian supplies of eight canned fruits and vegetables from the 1943 pack will be about 6,500,000 cases larger than previously estimated, the war food administration announced today, as a result of reduced requirements of military, lend-lease and other war programs.

Apples from 1,600 to 2,000 cases; applesauce from 2,700 to 3,300; fruit cocktail from 4,800 to 5,800; beets from 6,100 to 7,000; lima beans from 2,000 to 2,400 cases; sweet corn from 29,900 to 32,500; pumpkin and squash from 2,020 to 2,220; and tomato puree from 4,600 to 5,000.

Northern Pacific June Income Rises Sharply

The Northern Pacific Railway company yesterday reported June net income of $1,561,596, against $857,459 a year ago. Figures for the six months ended June 30 totaled $7,634,848 in contrast to $2,834,936 in the corresponding period last year.

Federal 'Aid' a Boomerang to Plague Them, Say Retailers

Many small store owners attending the Chicago fall market opening contended that altho the government frequently says it wants to aid small business, the opposite often results, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday. These merchants, members of the Interstate Merchants' council, retail affiliate of the commerce organization, gave examples of the outcome of war regulations having among other objectives the safeguarding of small business.

The store owners said the office of defense transportation has "done everything within its power" to discourage market events, merchandise exhibits and trade shows, altho such activities are considered by business men to be the most economical and efficient medium for obtaining merchandise.

Held Necessary to Small Stores.

Government agencies also have abolished certain store services, yet in many instances better service is the only way a small store can compete with larger establishments, it was said.

Inventory control, imposed by the office of price administration with the intention of equalizing the distribution of consumer goods, was charged with failing to accomplish its purpose. The merchants said one of the major reasons for this failure lay in other regulations which tend to counter-balance the control.

The association said various OPA orders forbid retailers to carry merchandise priced higher than that in stock during the base pricing period.

Easier to Obtain, They Say.

Store owners said they could bolster shrinking inventories, particularly in women's apparel, and better satisfy consumer demand if they could sell expensive merchandise. Also, higher priced goods are more easily obtained, they said.

Other criticisms were that government regulations are too complicated for the average merchant, and that it takes too long to obtain relief in hardship cases. The association said these criticisms were voiced not only by smaller retailers, but also by large store operators, manufacturers, and wholesalers.

Paper Outlook Canvassed at N. Y. Meeting

New York, Aug. 11 (AP).—An inquiry into the paper shortage and means of combating it was opened today by a house investigating subcommittee in discussions with publishing industry representatives here.

Prior to informal sessions with newspaper representatives, Chairman Lyle H. Boren [D., Okla.] said available statistics indicate that unless more pulpwood became available, the supply of paper would be sharply reduced.

Boren said that because of shrunken man power the supply of newsprint paper available for export to the United States from Canada may amount to only 190,000 tons a month against current shipments of 210,000 tons. Unless positive action is taken to curb the downtrend, the monthly supply for 1944 may drop to 148,000 tons, he said.

Publishers Discuss Outlook.

Among newspaper men who discussed the situation with the congressional group were Arthur H. Sulzberger, publisher of the New York Times; Walter M. Dear, former president of the American Newspaper Publishers association and publisher of the Jersey Journal; Howard Davis of the New York Herald-Tribune; Cranston Williams, general manager of the A. N. P. A.; F. M. Flynn, business manager of the New York Daily News; Edwin S. Friendly, business manager of the New York Sun; John L. Blake of Scripps-Howard, and William Dwight of the Holyoke [Mass.] Transcript-Telegram.

Committee discussions indicated a great interest in the request of the Canadian pulpwood industry for classification as an essential industry, as the United States industry has been classed.

Commercial Use Cut.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Commercial printers and lithographers face a new cut in supplies of print paper in the last quarter of this year, the WPB announced today. The estimated reduction is 10 per cent, bringing the tonnage available to about 80 per cent of the amount used in 1942.

The WPB commercial printing and lithographing industry advisory committee has recommended a survey to determine the grades and amount of commercial printing papers needed, and WPB has appointed Robert D. Ross of Chicago to make the study. He formerly was with R. R. Donnelley & Sons, Chicago printer.

Engineers Company Gets Extension for Integration

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 11 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today extended until Jan. 2, 1944, the time in which Engineers Public Service company, a registered holding company, can divest itself of its interest in securities of the Western Public Service company, Missouri Service company, and Northern Kansas Power company, in compliance with the geographical integration section of the public utility holding company act.

Electric Output Sets Fourth Weekly Peak

A fourth consecutive record was established last week with electric power production totaling 4,240,638,-000 kilowatt hours, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday. The Commonwealth Edison company reported a 15.9 per cent increase, to 181,953,000 kilowatt hours.

HALL NAMED SPECIAL TREASURY ASSISTANT TO SPUR BOND SALES

Edward B. Hall, president of Harris, Hall & Co., Chicago investment and underwriting firm, has been named a special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, it was learned yesterday. He will act in a liaison capacity between the treasury and investment bankers in stimulating the sale of war bonds.

Edward B. Hall.

Hall declined comment on his specific duties pending issuance of the formal announcement from Washington, but said he expected to spend most of his time in the national capital while on his new assignment.

After two years as a Chicago newspaper reporter, Hall became associated with the Harris Trust and Savings bank in 1909 and was vice president when he left the bank in 1935 to organize the underwriting firm.

WLB PENALIZES UNION FOR 4 DAY WORK STOPPAGE

The regional war labor board yesterday denied a United Mine Workers union at the Sherwin-Williams Defense corporation plant in Carbondale, Jackson county, the right to dues checkoff and maintenance of union membership because the union permitted work stoppages to shut the plant for four days last May. Labor members on the board dissented from the decision.

The board also rejected the union's request for a horizontal increase in all wages to $1.25 an hour, asked on the ground that wage rates were substandard and that there were inequalities among rates in the plant.

The decision affects 2,000 members of local 12477, District 50, of the gas coke and chemical division of the United Mine Workers of America. The plant is a government ordnance unit operated by Sherwin-Williams, and loads bombs, shells, and anti-tank mines.

USE ANY ROUTE IN FERRY STRIKE, ROADS ARE TOLD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—The interstate commerce commission today directed four railroads affected by a work stoppage on the car ferry between Mackinaw City and St. Ignace, Mich., to use all other available routes to get the freight thru, and suspended car service regulations during the emergency.

The commission said the situation "requires immediate action to best promote the service in the interest of the public and the commerce of the people."

Lines involved are the Pennsylvania, Michigan Central, New York Central, and Duluth, South Shore and Atlantic Railway company.

NOTICE TO BONDHOLDERS
THE DELAWARE AND HUDSON COMPANY
THE DELAWARE AND HUDSON RAILROAD CORPORATION

To Holders of The Delaware and Hudson Company First and Refunding Mortgage 4% Bonds, due May 1, 1943:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on August 3, 1943, the Special United States Court for the Southern District of New York, pursuant to Chapter XV of the Bankruptcy Act, entered its order approving and confirming the Plan of Debt Adjustment dated December 15, 1942, relating to the above mentioned Bonds, with certain modifications in the Plan as stated below. The Companies have accepted the modifications and the Plan as so modified has become effective and is now binding upon all Bondholders, whether or not they assented to the Plan.

The modifications in the Plan made by the Court require the Companies:

(a) To dispose of the investment securities as listed in Schedule "A" of the Plan before May 1, 1946, instead of May 1, 1948, and

(b) To pay into the Sinking Fund for the Bonds all of the proceeds realized from such sale in excess of $5,000,000, rather than only one-half of such excess which would have been payable under the original provisions of the Plan. The first $5,000,000 of proceeds is to be divided equally as originally provided in the Plan, the Companies retaining one-half for general corporate purposes and paying the other half into the Sinking Fund.

The Court has ruled that these modifications do not require resubmission of the Plan to the Interstate Commerce Commission or the Bondholders for their approval.

The 10% cash payment to Bondholders will be made and other steps taken to consummate the Plan as promptly as possible. THE BONDHOLDERS WILL BE NOTIFIED LATER OF THE DATE WHEN THEY ARE TO PRESENT THEIR BONDS TO RECEIVE SUCH PAYMENT.

August 10, 1943. J. H. NUELLE, President.

WMC DRAFTING BROAD CHANGES IN JOB CLASSES

Deferment Shifts Are Expected.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—Broad changes in the war man power commission's classification of essential and nonessential occupations and in the current job stabilization program will be made this week-end, officials said today.

Changes in the job classification list, it was said, will include the designation of a group of key occupations in war plants as "supercritical," and local draft boards will be instructed to give special attention to deferring workers in these jobs. In addition, a large number of jobs, it was learned, will be added to the WMC's list of so-called nondeferable occupations which now number approximately 70.

May Relax Transfer Curbs.

Another expected change will relax the present order restricting job transfers for higher pay by workers in war plants and essential civilian activities. The revision, as previously outlined by WMC officials, will permit workers receiving less than the "going wage rate" for a particular type of work to shift to another plant which pays the going rate for the same type of work.

Meanwhile, the war production board announced that, because of growing labor shortages in certain critical areas, 1,000 prime war contractors who have backlogs of orders totaling 5 million dollars or more apiece have been requested to place future subcontracts as far as possible in less critical labor areas.

Illinois Is Affected.

Group 1 areas, those with most critical labor shortages, include the following in Chicagoland states: Sterling, Ill.; Gary, Hammond, South Chicago, Anderson, and Evansville, Ind.; Detroit and Muskegon, Mich.; Racine and Sturgeon Bay, Wis., and Akron, O.

In group 2 areas, which include Chicago, the 1,000 plants were urged to place subcontracts only for items already being produced and requiring no additional labor. The requests were modified to sanction orders in groups 1 and 2 if special facilities are available there only if delay would result from placing orders elsewhere.

COURT REFUSES TO DROP GYPSUM CIVIL TRUST SUIT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—A special three judge statutory court today denied a motion of the United States Gypsum company and other firms for a summary judgment dismissing the government's anti-trust case against them.

Defendants named with the United States Gypsum company are National Gypsum company, Certainteed Products corporation, the Celotex corporation, Ebsary Gypsum company, Newark Plaster company, and Samuel M. Gloyd.

The court ruled against the companies' arguments that because the defendants had been found innocent of monopolistic practices in criminal action, the civil action likewise should be dropped.

EAGLES SWING THEIR POWER INTO WAR JOBS

Twelve per cent of the members of the Fraternal Order of Eagles are in the army and navy, while 30 per cent are working in war plants, Conrad H. Mann, managing organizer, told convening delegates of the order last night in the Morrison hotel. The order has 750,000 members. More than 1,500 delegates are to attend the war time convention, which Mann said would be devoted to war and post-war problems.

Thomas J. Courtney, state's attorney, is scheduled to welcome the delegates tonight at the opening session. Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.] is on Sunday's program. New officers will be chosen and installed Monday in the closing hours.

GEN. CLINNIN, 67, SERIOUSLY HURT IN FALL AT HOME

The condition of Maj. Gen. John V. Clinnin, retired commander of the Illinois reserve militia, who fell more than 10 feet from a ladder at his home at 259 Maple Hill, Glencoe, on Sunday, was reported last night as "serious."

Gen. Clinnin is 67 years old. His injuries were described by Dr. H. R. Kenney of Glencoe as internal. He was taken to Alexian Brothers hospital in Chicago.

Clinnin joined the old state militia in 1894 as a private and served in the Spanish-American war and later on the Mexican border. He went abroad with the A. E. F. in 1918 as a colonel of the 130th infantry.

FCC ATTACKS ON ANNOUNCER HIT AT INQUIRY

Counsel Charges 'Smear on Innocent Man.'

New York, Aug. 11 [Special].—A federal communications commission press release attacking Stefano Luotto, a radio announcer, was read into the record today as "evidence" of FCC unfairness at the outset of an investigation of FCC by a congressional subcommittee here.

Eugene L. Garey, subcommittee counsel, said the release was issued by the FCC after testimony was taken last week to the effect that the FCC had used its licensing power to force the barring of Luotto from broadcasting over station WGES in Chicago.

Charges Smear by FCC.

The release described Luotto as "an Italian enemy alien who came to the United States in 1931 but failed to apply for citizenship until after the passage of the alien registration act in 1940." Garey charged that the FCC is "still trying to smear an innocent man who can't protect himself."

Charles Denny, general counsel for the FCC, asked permission to explain the FCC's reason for distributing the press release, but his request was refused by Rep. Edward J. Hart [D., N. J.].

Hart Rebukes FCC.

"This committee will conduct its business," Hart said, "and the FCC will conduct its business—subject to violation of the law. This committee does not intend to be controlled by the FCC."

James L. Fly, FCC chairman, accused Garey of running the investigation "like the old shell game."

Andre Luotto, brother of Stefano, testified he had tried to find out why his brother was dismissed from station WGES and had received assurances from the FCC and the office of war information that there was "nothing on the record" against his brother.

GYPSY CODE OUT; STEVE MUST TOIL DESPITE 2 WIVES

The domestic code of the gypsies was overruled by Judge Joseph B. Hermes in Domestic Relations court yesterday when he ordered Steve Dimitro, 1236 North Western avenue, a gypsy, to contribute $25 a week to the support of one of the two women to whom he is married by gypsy "law" and their 11 children.

"By gypsy law, my wives are supposed to support me," Dimitro objected. He said he preferred to live with his second wife, Mildred, and that she would contribute $10 a week toward the support of his first wife, Suzie, and family.

Judge Hermes ordered Dimitro, who is a coppersmith by trade, to find a job to pay the remainder of the support order. Dimitro agreed. Judge Hermes vacated a $150 fine for nonsupport, imposed Monday. Dimitro's second wife, who also has a child by him, put up $150 cash bond and the case was continued to Sept. 18.

Italo-Americans to Lead New Drive for Cruiser

A rally of Chicago Italian-Americans in Grant park Aug. 29 will open a war bond drive by nationality groups in the city to buy a cruiser as a Christmas present to the navy, Municipal Judge George L. Quilici, chairman of the rally, said yesterday. Plans for the rally will be made at a meeting in the Hotel Morrison tonight.

Sinatra Is Saved from His Fans

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Frank Sinatra, the singer, among the few fans who were fortunate enough to see him before police escorted him from a crowd of screaming, clawing, teen age girls who fought for a closeup of him on his arrival yesterday in Pasadena, Cal.

GIRLS SCREAM, CLAW AND BITE TO SEE SINATRA

5,000 Fans Stampede at Rail Station.

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 11 [Special].—A crowd of teen age girls stampeded in ecstasy today in greeting Tenor Frank Sinatra, idol of the nation's jitterbugs, upon his arrival here.

Several of them fainted. They clawed and bit and pulled each other's hair. And they all squealed and shrieked as they fought on the station platform to get a closer view and the autograph of the boyishly earnest singer.

Jitterbugs had been dancing on the hot concrete runway of the station for an hour before Frankie's train pulled in, an hour late. Altho the feverish throng of femininity was preponderantly composed of young girls, there were also gray haired matrons among the excited greeters. Police estimated the crowd at from 5,000 to 6,000.

Stage Grand Melee.

Frankie, slight and gaunt, took in the wild scene and heard the high pitched shriek loosed as he started down the train steps. He paused and nervously fingered his wide red bow tie. He waved and smiled, looked over the crowd and gestured approvingly, but cautiously stayed on the steps.

The girls in the back, deprived of a close view, began pushing and clawing. Then all semblance of order vanished. The frantic girls plunged thru tightly held police lines in an attempted bee line for their idol. They mauled and fell over each other in a melee that ranged all over the platform.

But before the hysterical throng could sweep over him, the object of their worship had scampered to safety. With policemen ranged solidly around him, he took temporary refuge in a nearby garage.

Discusses His Art.

While the frustrated girls beat and kicked at the barred door, Frankie discussed his art with newsmen. He came here at the invitation of the Los Angeles Symphony association to sing at hallowed Hollywood Bowl Saturday night when, he said, he would sing "Old Man River" as it never has been sung before.

"Does your wife approve of the adulation you get from women?" he was asked.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

P. T. S. writes: "When you were publishing information in your column about post-war military government, you said you would carry a series of items on the transportation corps. So far I've seen nothing and wondered if there was a place in this corps for motor fleet operators."

ANSWER: As the needs of the services change we try to give priority to the more urgent requisitions. The army needs qualified men who have had extensive experience as motor fleet operators and motor transport terminal managers. Inquiry revealed that the army "has a sufficient number in the procurement pipeline of qualified applicants on file to meet current needs. However, if better than average candidates want to make applications, they should apply to the regional procurement office.

To be considered as qualified men, motor fleet operators and motor transport terminal managers must have managed large scale operations involving diversified commodities in interstate traffic, under all conditions. The army's greatest need at present in the field of transportation is for pier superintendents, water terminal managers, stevedore superintendents, loading and unloading officers, harbor boat officers, small boat officers, and ship maintenance and repair officers. Men who believe they are qualified to apply for such activities are invited to visit the Chicago district office of officer procurement, 20 North Wacker drive.

M. A. writes: "My husband is in the army for nonsupport. We have six children. He made out his insurance to his sister who is working, married, and childless. Isn't there some way that these six minor children can be provided for in case he is killed?"

ANSWER: The Yank is privileged to name any person within the permitted classes as beneficiary of his insurance, or, if he chooses, he does not have to name a beneficiary when he takes out the insurance, but may name some one at a later time. He may change the beneficiary at will without notifying the previously named person. A sister is within the permitted class. The only circumstance under which you or the children might receive benefits from the insurance would be if his sister died and no other person had been named contingent beneficiary. If he dies or is killed, you and the children may receive benefits under the widow's pension legislation.

G. D. writes: "I am a widower with two daughters, 15 and 17 years old, who are still attending school. My work is nondeferrable. The local board tells me to get a deferrable job or I will be classified 1-A. Can they make me quit my job and take another?"

ANSWER: The draft board can not make you quit your present job and take another, but unless you want to be inducted into the army you should get a job or activity not listed in local board memorandum 181. Your board is showing you every consideration in being willing to forego reclassifying you to give you a chance to change jobs.

AFL EXECUTIVES PUT LEWIS PLEA UP TO MEMBERS

John L. Lewis' plea that his United Mine Workers union be readmitted to the American Federation of Labor will be placed before the federation's convention at Boston in October without recommendation. This decision was reached yesterday by the AFL executive council after two days' discussion.

The council has been meeting in the Drake hotel. President William Green disclosed that a committee headed by Daniel J. Tobin, head of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, had made a factual report of its meeting with Lewis July 20. The committee made no recommendations, so after much discussion the council decided to follow the same course, Green said.

Lewis Would Defer Issues.

Lewis at the July meeting asked that the AFL accept his union in its entirety and he would take the AFL in its entirety. He asked that all jurisdictional matters between his District 50, and AFL unions be left for settlement until after the reaffiliation.

District 50, a catch-all organization formed several years ago, infringes on the jurisdiction of 85 AFL unions.

The AFL asked Lewis to give up the 50,000 members in District 50 to the AFL unions to which they should belong as a prerequisite to his becoming a member again. Lewis refused.

Mailers Would Join AFL.

Green disclosed that representatives of the Mailers' union, an affiliate of the International Typographical union had made separate application for reaffiliation with the AFL. He said that the mailers were dissatisfied with the ITU and wanted a separate charter from the AFL.

Green said the ITU itself would hold a referendum vote among its members thruout the nation within the next 30 days to determine the question of reaffiliating with the AFL. Green said that the Mailers' union wanted affiliation, regardless of how the ITU vote went. Mailers' representatives will be heard by the council today, Green said.

2 HELD TO JURY, 4 FINED IN GANG RAID OVER GIRL

Two of the gang of young men who toured the area around Burling street and Wrightwood avenue Sunday in an effort to settle accounts with Dick Lidl, 16 years old, 831 Cornelia avenue, were held for the grand jury yesterday. Four of their companions were fined for disorderly conduct by Judge John P. Zuris in Boys' court.

Testimony showed that the return of Richard Bogucki, 19 years old, 1800 Haddon avenue, from the army on a medical discharge, set off the search for Lidl, suspected by Bogucki of having stolen his girl. The gang was accused of terrorizing several persons in the hunt for Lidl.

Judge Zuris held Peter Subin, 20, 1927 Evergreen avenue, and Edward Kolec, 21, 1851 Iowa street, for grand jury action under $10,000 bond each, fined four of the defendants, including Bogucki, and placed two others under court supervision.

Fatally Injured by Car; Driver Held for Inquest

Emanjele Luisi, 45 years old, 1039 South Peoria street, was fatally injured last night when he was struck at Peoria street and Roosevelt road by an automobile driven by Jesus Soto, 19, of 615 South Loomis street. Soto was held by police pending an inquest.

HEIRESS SEVERS 2 YEAR MARRIAGE TO ROE E. WELLS

Resumes Name of Daly, Former Husband.

Lele H. Wells, who in 1930 inherited more than $7,000,000 from the estate of her husband, Marcus Daly, and became the fourth wife of Roe E. Wells three weeks after his third wife died, in 1941, divorced him in Superior court here July 29, it was learned yesterday.

Mrs. Wells, who asked neither alimony nor attorneys fees in her brief appearance before Judge John C. Lewe, charged her husband with cruelty and asserted that he struck her during arguments over money in her apartment at 211 East Delaware place.

Alleges Blow with Phone.

The first assault, she said, occurred July 16 when during a quarrel over money he allegedly grabbed a telephone from her and smashed it on her hand. The next day the quarrel was resumed, she said, and it ended when he struck her in the face. She did not give details of the arguments. Judge Lewe restored her former name of Lele H. Daly. Her third husband, Marcus Daly, was the son of the founder of the Anaconda copper interests.

Wells was in the news frequently because of marital troubles with his third wife, the late Mrs. Emily F. Gilchrist Wells, a former Chicagoan who inherited $2,000,000 from her husband, William A. Gilchrist, a lumberman, in 1930.

Wells who was the traveling European representative of the Doughnut Corporation of America, eloped to Valparaiso, Ind., on Jan. 12, 1938, with Mrs. Gilchrist and they were married by Judge Charles W. Jensen.

Move to Florida.

Wells, who was about 50 years old then, and his wife, a good many years his senior—she was coy about her age as the dates she gave on marriage license applications in 1913 and 1938 show—moved from her Lake Shore drive to a Star Island mansion at Miami Beach.

It was in Miami that Wells and his wife achieved their most bizarre publicity when it was reported that $475,000 in cash and a considerable amount of jewelry had disappeared from the mansion. Police and the FBI entered the case, but in time reported the money had been found, much of it secreted in the house. When Mrs. Wells died Sept. 2, 1941, a contest over her fortune was started between Wells and relatives of his wife.

But Wells spent little time worrying about the inheritance, for on Sept. 22 he and Mrs. Daly were married at Greenville, S. C.

RICKENBACKER RETURNS FROM MOSCOW TRIP

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11 (AP).—Capt. Edward V. Rickenbacker returned to Washington today from an inspection tour abroad, including a trip to Moscow in June, and reported immediately to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Rickenbacker arrived in Moscow June 20, accompanied by his personal physicial, Dr. Alexander Dahl, and two army officers, Col. William Nuckols and Maj. A. B. Sherry. Nuckols was with him when he returned to Washington.

The extent of Rickenbacker's latest tour, the third he has made on behalf of Stimson, has not been disclosed. Stimson said in June it was "concerned wholly with a technical air inspection."

PEACHES BRING $6.50 A BUSHEL IN SOUTH ILLINOIS

Cobden, Ill., Aug. 11 (AP).—Top grade Elberta peaches sold for $6 to $6.50 a bushel today thruout most of the southern Illinois fruit belt as orchardists began the harvest of a crop estimated to be only about 25 per cent of normal. Housewives were paying $4 for canning grades and unclassified packing peaches sold as high as $5.

J. R. Clutts, commission salesman, said Elberta prices at this year's "seller's market" were $2 to $2.50 higher than any he had seen paid during 40 years in the business.

CREW OF SUNKEN SHIP SPURN NAZI OFFERS OF HELP

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 11 (AP).—Twelve survivors of a medium sized Greek merchant ship, who refused offers of provisions and cigarets from the commander of the Nazi submarine which torpedoed their vessel, have arrived in Baltimore, the navy department said today.

The seamen, part of the original crew of 37, said their ship was struck by three torpedoes in quick succession while traveling the South Atlantic. All of the crewmen were saved.

After all hands had abandoned the stricken vessel, the submarine surfaced and approached the lifeboats to question the occupants. The sub commander then made his offer of provisions and cigarets.

Eleven days later 21 of the survivors were rescued by a Spanish passenger ship. The remaining 16 were picked up by a British vessel near the coast of South America.

POLICE OFFICIAL PAINTS VISTA OF CRIME TO COME

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 11 (AP).—Col. Homer Garrison, director of the Texas department of public safety, told the International Association of Chiefs of Police that "We of the police profession believe that our nation is headed for a crime wave far bloodier and costlier than that of the Capone-Dillinger era."

Col. Garrison, taking part in a group discussion of the effects of war on social standards, warned that "the unbridled youth of today has but a little way to go before he will graduate into the criminal of tomorrow."

Police officers expect strikes and riots, he said. Questions of social and economic advantage involving minority racial groups will play a prominent part in this violence.

Pinched for Cash?

The common-sense solution to any money shortage is a short-term loan. It allows a "breathing spell" in which to adjust expenses to fit income. Right now, for instance, living costs are up and it is becoming increasingly difficult to make ends meet. A loan from Commonwealth will "tide you over" until you get adjusted to these new war-time conditions. Monthly rate 3% on balance of $150 or less, and 2¼% on that part of the unpaid balance over $150.
